U.S. DELEGATION SUPPORTS SOLE RULE OF BASES

American Security Placed First

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 1—With committee organization perfected and the last of 31 prefatory addresses delivered at the seventh plenary session tonight, the international conference of 49 nations will settle down tomorrow to the work of constructing a new league of nations to enforce peace. The job is expected to take three or four weeks. Outstanding events of the day were:

1. The American delegation agreed on a plan of trusteeships under which the United States could have exclusive control but not ownership of naval and other military bases in the Pacific islands American forces have wrested from Japan in this war.

Complete Amendments

2. The American delegation also completed 16 amendments it will propose to the Dumbarton Oaks peace league plan, including the Vandenberg proposals, the principal one of which is a provision empowering the security council to recommend revision of treaties and other international agreements provocative of international discord. An example of such agreements is the partition of Poland by the Big Three at Yalta.

3. Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov, who scored one victory with the aid of the American delegation, and sustained two overwhelming defeats on the battlefield of the conference to abolish war, prepared to leave San Francisco in a few days, ostensibly because he is needed in Moscow in connection with the termination of the war in Europe.

4. For the work of drafting the charter of the peace league the conference was organized into four commissions, each one with subordinate committees. [Details on page 16.]

Credentials Reported

5. The credentials committee reported the credentials of 46 delegations in order, with the White Russian, Ukrainian, and Argentina delegates admitted yesterday yet to appear. It found, however, that 30 delegations had not been authorized by their governments to sign documents and advised the others to perfect their status.

6. It was reported tonight that President Truman plans to come to San Francisco to launch the new peace league at the conclusion of the conference. When asked about it Secretary of State Stettinius replied:

"No comment."

With regard to reports that members of the American delegation had

House Rejects 'Con Con' Plan by 21 Votes

ROLL CALL
Roll call vote defeating constitutional convention proposal is on page 12.

BY GEORGE TAGGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 1—With a stormy climax, the drive to tamper with the state's basic law was routed this evening when a resolution for a constitutional convention fell 21 votes short of adoption in the house. The vote was 81 to 65. The measure required 102 votes for adoption.

Downstate legislators revolted against the so-called "con con" movement which would have opened the 1870 constitution to complete revision. An attempt to postpone defeat of the resolution near the end of the losing roll call touched off a riotous demonstration.

So determined were opponents of "con con" that they notified Speaker Hugh Green that no more bills would be passed this session if final action were delayed beyond today. This written warning, delivered amid a roar of shouts and yells, rang up the curtain for the last act shortly afterward.

Bare Kelly Blessing

Included in the "con con" movement were diverse pressure groups, including radical elements, but it also bore the blessing of the top leaders of both political parties, Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly of Chicago.

Most intense activity came from the CIO, which in the official communist organ, listed "con con" as part of its program, and the Illinois League of Women Voters. It was charged that the league has come to be the tool of brains outside the organization. Many other groups were maneuvered into the "con con" drive, including the Chicago Bar association.

Opposition gradually picked up strength, until it, too, assumed powerful proportions. The Illinois Agricultural association, the Illinois State Federation of Labor [AFL], and the Illinois Manufacturers' association were finally on the battle lines against "con con."

An important factor in the defeat of "con con" was the growing restlessness of Republican legislators over portions of Gov. Green's program. Some have been growling that they held their noses while voting for the Kelly-Green public ownership traction bills and public housing bills, but that they would go no farther.

Debate for 5 Hours

More than five hours were consumed in the debate and roll call. The count showed 18 Republicans from Cook county and 10 from downstate voting for "con con" while two from Cook and 44 from downstate voted against it. On the Democratic side all of Kelly's men from Cook county voted for the proposal [many unwillingly], but 19 downstate Democrats helped kill it.

"In the slang popular around the

NAZIS PACK UP, BURN PAPERS IN COPENHAGEN

Shooting Heard in Danish Capital

[The Stockholm bureau of the Associated Press received the following dispatch from a non-American member of its staff at Copenhagen, who, for security reasons, cannot be identified at this time. This is believed to be the first uncensored dispatch received from Copenhagen by an American news service since the German occupation in April, 1940.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark [By Telephone to Stockholm], May 1 (AP)—The Germans are packing huge moving vans in front of the Dagmarhus, headquarters of Dr. Werner Best and the German SS [elite guard], and are burning papers by the ton in the Gestapo courtyard.

There still are German soldiers in Copenhagen. Military trucks roar along the streets. Many Germans can be seen without weapons. Others wear armbands indicating they belong to the Red Cross. Thruout the day shooting and explosions could be heard in various sections of the capital.

Moving Day Elsewhere

The Germans also are hastily burning records and preparing to get out of several provincial cities, such as Nestved on Sjaelland and Horsens on Jutland, reports reaching the capital said.

For the first time since the Danish police force was dissolved by the Germans policemen have appeared in their uniforms as for example, in Horsens, where according to reports the German commander has informed local authorities he intends to evacuate the city and therefore the police will be responsible for law and order.

Take Nazis' Weapons

In Aarus, disturbances occurred Tuesday but the Danish police commissioner and Danish policemen have taken charge. Reports to the capital from several provincial cities said German troops there were deprived of their weapons.

["The Germans are preparing to lay down their arms in Denmark and the Danish underground has already formed a new government headed by William Duhl, who was active in the Danish government prior to the occupation, to take over the administration," an NBC correspondent said in a Stockholm broadcast.]

Munich's Nazi Era, Beer Hall and All, Closes

[This dispatch was written before Hitler's death was announced by the German radio.]

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MUNICH, May 1—Nearly 22 years of turbulent history began and ended on the Rosenheimer strasse.

It was in the Buergerbrau cellar on this street that Adolf Hitler shouted on Nov. 9, 1923: "The national revolution has begun!" A few minutes later he and his cohorts set out on what has come to be known as the abortive beer hall putsch.

Today the last episode of Munich's wicked era was played. Thru the heart of the city and along the Rosenheimer strasse trudged thousands of uniformed Germans. There were men of the SS [elite guard], men of the regular army, and the old and very young of the people's army. Ahead of them, on a gun carriage, rode two blitzmaidels—the German equivalent of WACs. One was blonde, one was dark, and neither was happy.

Chicago General Watches

All were prisoners of war now. They were being shepherded along by doughboys of the 42d infantry [Rainbow] division, which is garrisoning the town. Maj. Gen. Harry J. Collins of Chicago, the division's commander, stood watching.

As the captured troops came by many of them turned their eyes toward the Buergerbrau cellar. Then they went on to the prisoner pens.

"There goes the end of Germany," one German civilian said. "Now we can have peace. Bavaria has always wanted peace."

The beer hall was hit during an allied air raid, but was quickly repaired. Pillars were encased in concrete and windows were bricked up. When the doors were opened for us the cold gusts of this May day rustled charred papers on the floor. We were shown the pillar from which was suspended the bomb intended to kill Hitler during a party rally in 1939. But he had left the hall some minutes before the blast.

It's Unimpressive Place

The hall was an unimpressive place, reminiscent of a deserted car barn. Whatever quaintness or atmosphere it might have possessed was destroyed by the bulwarking concrete and bricks.

Gen. Collins, visiting the place, remarked that not only were there no steins, but nothing liquid for which they might be used. However, he found a large, framed photograph of Hitler in one of the latter's most exhortive postures, with the boldly printed legend, "Con-

Resistance Nears End in Reich Capital

(Maps on pages 5 and 6)

LONDON, May 2 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Russian shock troops captured 100 rubbled blocks in the blazing administrative heart of tottering Berlin yesterday as they closed in on the reichschancellery area where the German radio said Hitler died Tuesday afternoon.

[The Paris radio said today that "the glorious flag of the Red army has now been hoisted over the reichschancellery in Berlin." There was no confirmation from Moscow.]

There was little of the German capital left in the hands of Nazi diehards—perhaps 10 square miles at the most—for west and south of the reichschancellery the Russians cleared out the city districts of Charlottenburg and Schoeneberg.

German resistance in Berlin was nearing total collapse. In five days 87,500 German troops were killed or captured.

More Suicides Reported

The nucleus of resistance was centered around the reichschancellery and the great underground fortress in the Tiergarten with which the chancellery reportedly was linked by underground tunnels.

In hand to hand fighting the Russians were reported by the Hamburg radio to have swept south from the reichstag to Brandenburg gate at the western end of Unter den Linden.

Twenty-four hours previously, the Russians had raised their banner of victory over the reichstag, a half mile to the north, and on Sunday they captured the Anhalter station, a half mile to the south.

While the last dramatic chapter of the battle for Berlin drew toward its close, 22 miles to the west of the ravaged capital, Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian army seized the great 13 way communications city of Brandenburg, capital of Berlin's own Brandenburg province.

Tanks Capture Baltic Port

Meanwhile, Premier Stalin announced that soviet tanks, maintaining their 20 miles a day sweep across northern Germany, had captured the Baltic port of Stralsund, terminus for the main railroad ferry to Malmo, Sweden, and had surged within 23 miles of Rostock by the capture of Gnoien.

Far to the south in Czechoslovakia, two soviet armies cleared the Vah river valley in Moravia and Slovakia and converged on the great Moravian rail center of Olmuetz, while Cieszyn, last German held city in southwestern Poland, was threatened.

Plunging half way across Germany's northern redoubt since the fall of Stettin, Marshal Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian tanks and cavalry meanwhile knifed within 63 miles of Field Marshal Montgomery's British 2d army on the lower Elbe.

Rulers—Old and New

Adm. Karl Doenitz (left), designated yesterday by the nazi radio as the new German fuehrer, and Adolf Hitler, whose death was announced. [Associated Press Photos]

War to Go On—Doenitz

LONDON, May 1 (AP)—Following is the text of the Hamburg broadcast announcing Hitler's death:

ANNOUNCER: "The German wireless broadcasts serious important news for the German people. It is reported from the fuehrer's headquarters that our Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, fighting to the last breath against bolshevism, fell for Germany this afternoon in his operational headquarters in the reichs chancellery. On April 30 the Fuehrer appointed Grand Adm. Doenitz his successor. The grand admiral and successor of the fuehrer now speaks to the German people."

DOENITZ: "German men and women, soldiers of the armed forces: Our fuehrer, Adolf Hitler, has fallen. In the deepest sorrow and respect the German people bow.

"Always Fought Bolshevism"

"At an early date he had recognized the frightful danger of bolshevism and dedicated his existence to this struggle. At the end of his struggle, of his unswerving straight road of life, stands his hero's death in the capital of the German reich. His life has been one single service for Germany. His activity in the fight against the bolshevik storm flood concerned not only Europe but the entire civilized world.

"The fuehrer has appointed me to be his successor.

"Fully conscious of the responsibility, I take over the leadership of the German people at this fateful hour.

"It is my first task to save Germany from destruction by the advancing bolshevist enemy. For this aim alone the military struggle continues. As far and for so long as achievement of this aim is impeded by the British and the Americans we shall be forced to carry on our defensive fight against them as well. Under such conditions, however, the Anglo-Americans will continue the war not for their own peoples but solely for the spreading of bolshevism in Europe.

Asks Help from People

"What the German people has achieved in battle and borne in the homeland during the struggle of this war is unique in history. In the coming time of need and crisis of our people I shall endeavor to establish tolerable conditions of living for our women, men, and children so far as this lies in my power.

"For all this I need your help. Give me your confidence because your road is mine as well. Maintain order and discipline in town and country. Let everybody do his duty at his own post. Only thus shall we mitigate the sufferings that the coming time will bring to each of us; only thus shall we be able to prevent a collapse. If we do all that is in our power, God will not forsake us after so much suffering and sacrifice."

Himmler's Role in Government Mystery

Hitler Pictures and Sketch of His Life
On the back page are pictures covering high points in the life of Adolf Hitler. A sketch of his life appears on pages 2 and 3.

LONDON, May 2 [Wednesday] (AP)—The Hamburg Nazi radio said last night that Adolf Hitler died yesterday afternoon in Berlin and had been succeeded by Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz, 53, his personal choice to command the German nation. Hitler was 56 years old on April 20.

The broadcast said Hitler fell while fighting "against bolshevism" in his headquarters at the reichschancellery. A voice announced as that of Doenitz then spoke.

Questions immediately arose thruout the world whether Hitler actually died in battle against the Russians who now are near complete conquest of Berlin, whether he died in some more ignominous manner, or whether he was dead at all.

Members of parliament and others here expressed skepticism, fearing that perhaps the dramatic death broadcast was an elaborate hoax.

"Fascist Trick," Reds Say.

At the British foreign office the report of Hitler's death was accepted as true, but official sources refused to comment on the possible accuracy of the Hamburg account of how he died.

[The British Broadcasting company subsequently carried a report that Hitler actually had died of a stroke, rather than in battle against the Russians, NBC in New York said.]

The official Moscow radio this morning called the German broadcast "a new fascist trick," by which "the German Fascists evidently hope to prepare for Hitler the possibility of disappearing from the scene and going to an underground position."

The Russians in the past have said repeatedly that they believed Hitler long ago had fled Berlin and possibly left a "double" to "die in action" there to maintain Hitler's name as a Nazi martyr. The Germans have insisted many times, however, that he was in Berlin, personally directing its defense.

Altho there was no allied confirmation that Hitler was in Berlin, it was possible that the soviet high command later might announce the finding of his body by Red army soldiers.

Will Demand Proof

It was positive in any event that as soon as the European war was ended the allies would demand that Hitler's body be produced to remove all doubt.

A spokesman for Scotland Yard here declined to confirm or deny reports that British police or the secret service had dental records, measurements and finger prints of Hitler already on file so that identification would be possible even long after death.

Neither Doenitz nor the Hamburg announcer made any mention of Heinrich Himmler, Gestapo chief who within the last few days had tried to surrender Germany to Britain and the United States but not to Russia, and had been rebuffed by the western allies.

Doenitz made a brief impassioned plea to the German people to continue the struggle. He told soldiers in an order of the day to continue the battle "against the bolsheviks until the fighting men, until the hundreds of thousands of families of the German east are saved from bondage and extermination."

"As far and for so long as achievement of this aim is impeded by the British and Americans, we shall be

Hitler Dead? So What? City Asks

WORLD IS SKEPTICAL
Nazi broadcast of Hitler's death is greeted with elation tinged with skepticism thruout world. [Story on page 4.]

BY CARL WIEGMAN

Adolf Hitler, the little maniac who started the greatest war in history, would have been infuriated to see how calmly the news of his reported death was received by Chicagoans yesterday.

"So what! The war ain't over yet," said a loop hotel bootblack. He didn't even look up from the shoes he was shining.

A sailor, sipping beer in a Randolph st. bar, said: "Who cares? It don't make any difference now, anyway."

These opinions summed up the views expressed in more elegant language by many other Chicago citizens. There was no crowding around radios to wait for later reports, no excited comment.

Refuse to Believe Nazis

"Hitler dead? Who says so?" asked a policeman.

"The Hamburg radio."

"I wouldn't believe anything put out by those ——— — ———," the policeman retorted.

At a Lake st. lunch counter, two diners got into an argument over whether Hitler was dead, or whether his double was dead, or whether either of the disputants knew what he was talking about.

"I wouldn't believe it if they showed me his body," concluded one of them.

Afternoon newspapers with huge headlines reporting Hitler's death reached loop stands shortly after 5 o'clock at the height of the rush hour. Some newspaper boys called, "Extra! Extra!" in half hearted tones.

Occasionally a citizen grabbed a paper, read the bulletin, mumbled a quiet curse on the life and works of Hitler, and hurried on to catch his train.

The canteen of the Chicago Service Men's center on Washington st. was filled with soldiers and sailors. All of them were quietly munching sandwiches and cake, paying not a bit of attention to the news from Hamburg.

"Should Have Been Tortured"

"If he is dead, he died too easy," said a street car conductor. "He should have been tortured like the people in the concentration camps."

Most Chicagoans appeared to be jaded from the impact of a series of startling news stories and wary over any announcement that did not come from the allied high command.

"But even if the report of Hitler's death is true, I wouldn't care," said the father of two soldiers. "I'm waiting for only one story—the end of the war."

COAL PRICE BOOSTED BY OPA TO PAY FOR MINERS' WAGE RAISE

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP)—The OPA today announced immediate increases on producers' ceiling prices for soft coal ranging up to 55 cents a ton and averaging 16 cents over the nation. The increases, made necessary by higher wages provided in the new contract between mine operators and the United Mine Workers, will be passed on to the consumer.

As approved by Economic Stabilizer Davis, the increases for Chicagoland states are:

Illinois, hand operated mines 20 cents, machine operated 9 cents, strip mines no increase; Michigan, all mines, 40 cents; Indiana, hand operated 20 cents, others 9 cents, and Iowa, strip mines, no increase, deep mines, 27 cents.

[Thousands quit hard and soft coal mines; new seizures loom. Details on page 31.]

REICH REACTION TO DEATH NEWS STILL SKETCHY

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

UNITED STATES 1ST ARMY HDQ., Germay, May 1—German civilian reaction to the Hamburg radio announcement that Hitler had died in Berlin this afternoon is still extremely sketchy. Most Germans were asleep at the time.

Because only a few people around headquarters have heard the monitoring service's report, reaction of Americans is not yet crystallized.

To get some civilian reaction quickly Albert Salvatori of Oakland, Cal., from the army's psychological warfare section knocked on one German door. The German said he had heard rumors yesterday that Hitler had committed suicide. Salvatori then told him the news was official and asked what the German thought about it. "Good," answered the German. "Very good. The German people will be glad."

forced to carry on our defensive fight against them as well."

Doenitz' pointing of the struggle against Russia thus appeared to be in line with Himmler's offer and Nazi propaganda designed to split the allies.

Heckled by Ghost Voice

Doenitz eulogized Hitler as a man who had dedicated his life to Germany and to warring against "bolshevism," and who now had died a "hero's death."

A powerful ghost voice interrupted him, shouting, "This is a lie!"

The ghost voice continued to heckle thruout the Doenitz speech.

Hitler was lauded by Doenitz as "one of the greatest heroes in German history."

Here the ghost voice broke in:

"The greatest of all Fascists!"

"Filled with proud respect and mourning, we lower the banners before him," Doenitz continued.

"His death calls upon us to act," the ghost voice interrupted. "Strike now!"

Doenitz launched into a pep talk to the German people and troops, only to be interrupted again by the ghost voice, crying, "Rise against Doenitz. The struggle is not worthwhile if crime wins."

Given Dramatic Trappings

The Germans furbished the report of Hitler's death with all the trappings of drama at their command.

At 9:43 p. m. [2:43 p. m., Chicago war time], the Hamburg radio instructed all Germans to keep tuned in for an important announcement. One minute later the renegade Englishman, who thruout the war has broadcast nazi propaganda as "Lord Haw Haw" reiterated the standby order.

The Hamburg station broadcast the "Goetterdaemmerung" [The Twilight of the Gods], by Hitler's beloved Wagner, and followed it with a warning to listeners to stand by for an important announcement.

In the interval until 10:27 [3:27 p. m. Chicago war time] the radio played other Wagnerian music and followed it with Anton Bruckner's Seventh symphony, which was written to commemorate Wagner's death.

Then came four ruffles of a drum and the statement that Hitler was dead.

The German announcement came just three days after the execution of Hitler's fallen axis partner, Benito Mussolini, at the hands of Italian patriots in northern Italy.

Special Order of Day

At the close of Doenitz' speech, the radio played the German national anthem, "Deutschland Uber Alles," and the Nazi party anthem, the Horst Wessel song, and more Wagner. There followed three minutes of silence, then a special order of the day was read from Doenitz to the German military services. Repeating the gist of his speech to the whole people, it had the added line:

"For every single one of you the oath of loyalty to the fuehrer is transferred straight to my person as the fuehrer's appointed successor.

"German soldiers! Do your duty! The existence of our people is at stake!"

Reference to the oath of loyalty apparently was an effort by Doenitz to hold German officers to the personal oath of fealty they had been forced to swear to Hitler after his escape from the bomb assassination plot last July, and from which his death might presumably release them to go their own chosen courses.

Immediately after the Doenitz order was concluded, Lord Haw Haw repeated the program in English. The Hamburg station then played a series of dirges.

Emergence of Doenitz as the proclaimed leader of what remains of nazi Germany was puzzling to London observers. He never had been considered high enough in the nazi hierarchy to be successor to Hitler, who at the start of the war had nominated Hermann Goering and Rudolf Hess as his first and second alternates.

Himmler Loses Stature

Hess is a prisoner in England, and Goering recently was declared by the German radio to have resigned because of heart trouble.

If Doenitz' nomination by Hitler was bona fide, it was obvious that Himmler no longer was in a position to speak as the leader of all Germany, as he had made himself appear in his peace bid to Britain and America last week.

One theory put forward by a responsible but unofficial quarter here was that Himmler realized his own unpopularity and that Doenitz was considered more likely to succeed with the armed forces.

The news of the German broadcast was relayed promptly to Prime Minister Churchill, Gen. Eisenhower, and other high officials, but no comment was forthcoming from them.

The Hamburg radio signed off last night—after broadcasting and rebroadcasting the fuehrer's death announcement—with the words: "Heil Hitler!"

"We close our transmission today," said the broadcast heard here, "by greeting all Germans on this side of Germany or across the border [apparently referring to the American-Russian link-up line] as well as our soldiers with the German salute: Heil Hitler!"

The Hamburg station today dedicated morning bulletins to the memory of Hitler and read messages from Doenitz. Then it went off the air.

When Hitler, the Dictator, Addressed His Followers

Scene at Tempelhof airdrome at Berlin on May day, 1934, as Adolf Hitler addressed throng said to have totaled 2 millions. His high platform was guarded by a hollow square of storm troopers in double rank, while 122 amplifiers carried his speech to the crowd, extending more than a mile away.

DEFIANT TO LAST

As Adolf Hitler started the 13th year of his reign in the early part of 1945, his downfall and that of all who had clung to him was apparent in signs thruout a Europe battered by nearly five and a half years of war.

The German nation was beset by powerful invading armies from both the east and the west. Many of its cities were piles of rubble. The once proud luftwaffe was utterly defeated. The Fuehrer himself was described by a radio spokesman as turning gray and developing a stoop.

He barely had escaped assassination a few months previously in a bomb plot for which high-ranking Junker generals and nobles were executed. It was officially announced a few days after the plot failed that eight officers, including a field marshal, were hanged in a two hour period.

It was reliably reported that Col. Count Claus von Stauffenberg, a one-armed, one-legged hero of World War I., had actually placed the bomb under Hitler's chair. The Fuehrer escaped death only because he had got up just before it exploded and stepped to a cupboard to look for a magnifying glass.

Reign of Terror

Louis Lochner, former chief of the Associated Press in Berlin, was told by a man who was a fugitive from German authority because he was implicated in the conspiracy that an estimated 1,200 to 1,500 persons were immediate victims of the plot's aftermath—convicted of complicity by the people's court. Besides them, he added, many thousands of Germany's "better people" were liquidated, many noble families wiped out.

The informant said there was a "reign of terror" so severe that the outside world could not comprehend it. "Friends whom we knew to be politically harmless disappeared overnight," he said. "We never saw them again." He declared that at Cologne it was not an uncommon sight to see eight or 12 bodies swing from a gallows, left there for 24 hours "exposed to public view as an example."

For more than five months after the assassination attempt, which occurred July 20, 1944, the Fuehrer remained silent. He had hurried to the microphone immediately after its failure, but was not heard again by the outside world until his 1945 New Year's speech. It appeared certain he had been badly hurt and apparently his hearing was impaired permanently.

Lochner's informant reported that Hitler often suffered lapses of memory. London heard he had been treated by a brain specialist.

His New Year's speech sounded apathetic. In it he described the war as "a merciless struggle for existence." He said, "We are going to destroy everybody who does not take part in the common effort for the country or who makes himself a tool of the enemy."

Gen. Eisenhower, the supreme allied commander, said there had been some reason to believe that Germany might have called it quits after losing the battle of France, but that Hitler and his Gestapo had managed to maintain their pistol-in-the-back control of the reich.

Exhorts People to Misery

In a speech Jan. 30, 1945, marking the 12th anniversary of his assumption of power, Hitler acknowledged the many tribulations of his people, but exhorted them to accept "boundless misery" as the price of continued resistance and held out the promise that somehow they eventually would win. He insisted that Germany would "never capitulate."

He referred to the bomb attempt on his life and attributed his survival to an act of providence.

"It rested with providence to extinguish my life and thereby end my life work by the bomb which July 20 exploded one and one-half meters away from me," he said. "The fact of the Almighty protecting me that day I look upon to be confirmation of the command given to me.

"In years to come, therefore, I shall continue along this road and uncompromisingly represent the interests of my people, unswervingly and absolutely convinced that eventually the Almighty will not leave him who, during all his life, wanted nothing else but to preserve his people from a fate which they never deserved. . . ."

Remapped Europe

Hitler's accomplishments were the ripping apart of the map of Europe, conquest of France and many other nations, and the complete domination of the German public under his oratorical thesis of a "master race" to rule the world.

Brutal, ruthless, demagogic, contradictory, something of a mystic, Hitler made two fatal mistakes that prevented his tyranny from achieving a longer page in history.

First, he attacked soviet Russia, his former ally. In Russia, at Stalingrad, Hitler's military machine reached its zenith. When Hitler was beaten at Stalingrad, his power began to ebb back across the steppes to inevitable defeat.

Second, he declared war on the United States, after the Japanese attack upon Pearl Harbor. American bombers then spread ruin thru Nazi war plants. In Africa, in Italy, and in France, invading Americans slaughtered the Nazi blitzkrieg specialists.

Hitler spread human sorrow into Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, the Netherlands, Belgium, France, the Balkans, and North Africa, in all of which he ruled. He overran large areas of Russia. He bombed British civilians. His U-boats torpedoed ships at sea.

The military casualties of Hitler's war—both on his side and on that of his conquerors—were the heaviest in all history, but they were only a part of the misery for which he was responsible.

A Corporal in First War

In Austria, just across a river from Germany, Hitler was born April 20, 1889. His father was illegitimate; his grandmother a domestic named Maria Anna Schickelgruber. Adolf was moody and inclined to be dull. He wanted to be an artist but did odd jobs and painted houses. Biographers find in him no early signs of greatness.

World War I. found him a gaunt corporal in a Bavarian regiment. He claimed to have been wounded and gassed in action, but some medical authorities have diagnosed his ailment as hysterical blindness. As a war time decoration he wore the Iron Cross, but its validity also was questioned. At least Hitler, who claimed military intuition in his own World war, never rose above the rank of corporal under the kaiser.

As the fuehrer, leader of the "master race," Hitler was a rather plump man with a coarse forelock of hair combed carefully over his left eye. His short cropped mustache had comic section characteristics. About him, there was little to be regarded as prepossessing, yet Hitler by personal magetism and exceptional oratorical powers held German millions in his grasp.

Man of Contradictions

In a raucous, hysterical, discordant voice, he harangued audiences for hours, altho his speeches became less frequent and less bragging as Nazi misfortune set in. As an orator he had many faults, yet it was his power to spellbind an audience that gave him leadership in the troubled years for Germany after Versailles.

Hitler's character was fantastic and contradictory. He was a devotee of physical culture, but took no exercise except infrequent walking. He was a fanatic for mechanization, but couldn't drive a car. He made decisions on hunches and intuitions. He had inferiority complexes and, even so, was convinced that his judgment was infallible. He was a vegetarian and abstained from alcohol.

Nazi millions worshiped him unquestioningly, and junker generals bowed to his whims even while their armies were being sacrificed.

Discovered Gift in Camp

Unemployed after World War I., Hitler lived in a Bavarian military camp. He gave vent to frequent and hysterical tirades against the Jews and the Versailles treaty. He discovered his gift of gab. "I decided to enter politics," he wrote later.

Hitler was member No. 7 of the German Workers' party, the forerunner of the Nazis. Soon he emerged as its leader. By July, 1921, he was president of the National Socialist German Workers' party and assumed dictatorial powers. The "Heil Hitler" greeting, mandatory for all Nazis, was introduced at that early stage.

Important industrialists, later betrayed, gave Hitler financial support and by 1923 a coup d'etat was attempted with the Munich beer hall putsch, which lasted long enough for an overnight start of a march on Berlin. It ended with the death of most of the Nazi rioters, a courtroom prediction by Hitler that "heads will roll," and his sentence to five years' detention in a fortress.

Wrote "Mein Kampf"

He served eight months, long enough to dictate "Mein Kampf," his autobiographical work, to his secretary and fellow prisoner, Rudolf Hess. Hitler was paroled in December, 1925.

Germany suffered from economic chaos, which brought political prosperity to Hitler. Nazi power increased. Jan. 30, 1933, President Paul von Hindenburg nominated Hitler as chancellor and the short-lived Weimar republic became a victim of Hitlerism.

Von Hindenburg died the next year, the last restraint on Hitler.

A reichstag election was called for March 5, 1933, but an incendiary fire destroyed the assembly hall in the Reichstag building on Feb. 27.

Hitler blamed the Communists. The next day all constitutional guarantees of free speech and freedom of the press were suspended.

Starts Boycott of Jews.

The election gave Hitler 288 seats; the Nazi juggernaut was on its way. The first organized boycott of Jews was started, to be followed later by drastic measures. Socialist labor unions were outlawed; concentration camps received thousands of "enemies of the state"; newspapers were reduced to government voices.

On Jan. 1, 1934, a law to "cleanse the race of inherited disease" was promulgated. A compulsory labor service was set up and state autonomy was wiped out. Free Masonry was transformed into the National Christian Order of Frederick the Great. Troubles with Protestant and Catholic churches started.

The world was startled on June 30, 1934, by the ruthless "blood purge" of prominent members of the Nazi party who were called "traitors of the reich." The exact list of those executed ranged from the official list of 77 to estimates of several hundred.

Hitler personally arrested Capt. Ernst Roehm, a close associate dating from beer putsch days. Roehm, and many right hand men, were shot forthwith. Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, immediate predecessor of Hitler in the chancellorship, and his wife were killed "resisting arrest."

HITLER DEFIANT AS FOES CLOSED IN ON TWO SIDES

Barely Escaped Assassins in July, 1944

Hitler assembled the reichstag and told the members: "I was the German people's supreme judge." A month after the purge Hitler was named constitutional successor to Hindenburg, who had died. He announced that henceforth he was Der Fuehrer [leader].

Tore Up Versailles Treaty

Under Hitler, Germany withdrew from the Geneva disarmament conference, and resigned from the league of nations. The Saar in 1934 voted to return to Germany. In March, 1935, Hitler tore up the military provisions of the treaty of Versailles and announced that Germany would rearm. He signed diplomatic pacts with Poland, Great Britain, and Japan.

The triumphant march of German troops into the Rhineland was a Hitlerian accomplishment of March 7, 1936. France and Britain failed to check him, and Germany gathered its strength for the day when there would be a new world war.

Anschluss, the union of Austria, was achieved by Hitler in March, 1938, as another step in the perfection of his diplomatic technique of treachery and betrayal.

Two days before the end of Austria as a republic Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg announced a plebiscite to determine the wishes of his people. This enraged Hitler. Within a few hours troops were mobilized in southern Germany; newspapers were reporting "bolshevist chaos" in Austria.

Schuschnigg Resigns.

The next day Schuschnigg suddenly resigned. Austrians said there had been an ultimatum from Hitler. That night President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia called his cabinet into special session to discuss the Vienna situation.

Arthur Seyss-Inquart, who joined the Schuschnigg government at Hitler's request, pronounced the situation out of control the same night and asked the Fuehrer to send troops to prevent bloodshed. The secret police came immediately; the troops the next day.

Hitler's fondest dream came true. On March 12 he left Berlin by plane for Vienna.

He issued a proclamation:

"I have decided to extend the aid of the reich to the millions of Germans in Austria. Since this morning the soldiers of the German defense force have been marching over all frontiers of German Austria.

"I myself as Fuehrer shall be happy again to be able to enter as a German and free citizen this land which is my homeland."

On his way to Vienna he stopped at his birthplace, Braunau, and visited the grave of his father. At Linz he sent a message to Mussolini which said: "I shall never forget this."

Wins Peace of Munich

Munich's famous hour — when Hitler, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain, Premier Edouard Daladier of France, and Benito Mussolini, the dictator of Italy, met to handle the crisis of the Sudeten regions of Czechoslovakia—came in September, 1938. Hitler gained 18,000 square miles of land. Chamberlain thought he had won peace for Europe. By the following March, all Czechoslovakia was under Hitlerian puppet rule.

Insatiable in his lust for power and territory, Hitler kept the world in a turmoil. Aug. 23, 1939, he signed a nonaggression pact with Dictator Stalin of Russia. Sept. 1, he invaded Poland. World War II was started and the world was dazzled by the strength, speed, and success of the Nazi blitzkrieg.

Poland vanished valiantly but quickly, while France and England were stalemated in the western "phony war."

On April 9, Germany astounded the world by invading Denmark virtually without opposition and landed troops in Norway. Allied forces, led by the British, were forced to leave Scandinavia in June, with the Germans in control of Norway.

On May 10, Hitler began his blitzkrieg in western Europe, with the Germans invading the Low Countries. Belgium and the Netherlands were conquered in a short time. The French defenses began to crumble. Allied armies were in retreat.

On May 30, the Dunkirk evacuation began under a rain of bombs. On June 4, the evacuation was completed. A total of 355,000 British and French troops were saved, but all the allied equipment was lost.

On June 10, Italy joined the war on Hitler's side.

Ten days later the Germans entered Paris. On June 17, France asked for an armistice. Germany won full control of the French Atlantic coast with the signing of the armistice in Compiegne, France, on June 22. Four days later Italy and Germany concluded hostilities with France.

Still the boastful orator, Hitler kept promising his people a quick and complete victory. He started the heavy bombing of British cities, but failed to knock England out of the war. Hitler's armies rolled thru Yugoslavia and Greece. Marshal Erwin Rommel had the strongest force in North Africa.

Seemingly all-powerful, Hitler turned eastward and attacked Russia on June 22, 1941. His conquests there were enormous, but Russia had too much territory and men. Hitler failed almost at the gates of Moscow and was turned back at Stalingrad.

Four days after the Japanese stab in the back at Pearl Harbor, Hitler declared war on the United States, which already had been giving aid to the allied nations and which now sent a torrent of material and men into the European war.

Allies Land in France

From then on it was the road back. Russian armies began their march toward Berlin.

In November, 1942, American troops landed in Algeria and Morocco from 850 ships. Slashing across the northern rim of Africa to meet Marshal Montgomery's British forces chasing Field Marshal Rommel from the east, the Americans swept the Nazis from Africa and followed up swiftly by an invasion of Sicily and Italy, aided by French and British troops in the summer of 1943.

Italy surrendered in September, 1943, and on June 6, 1944, came the allied landings in France and the swift drive toward the Rhine. The Russians were gobbling up the Balkans.

Early in 1943, reports persisted that Hitler had suffered a complete breakdown after his failure to appear at the annual Nazi celebration of the anniversary of his rise to power on Jan. 30 of that year. But by March he was back on the radio, after decreeing complete mobilization of all the civilian population.

Later in 1943, a hundred Nazi generals, captured by the Russians, formed in Russia the national committee of free Germany, and in broadcasts beamed to the reich urged a cessation of "senseless, futile war."

That the captured generals were not without sympathizers inside the reich became evident when the bomb was exploded in Hitler's headquarters last July.

In October, 1944, with the allies knocking at Germany's west wall [Siegfried line], Hitler called for the organization of a "pitchfork army" of old men and boys to resist the imminent invasion. Shortly thereafter, Marshal von Rundstedt launched his counter-attack, which delayed the allied advance but failed to stop it.

Then the western allies launched their Roer and Rhine drives and the Russians headed for Berlin. Germany soon was crumbling.

Doenitz Rises to Top Power in Brief Span of Two Years

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Bold and ruthless Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz of the German navy, who asserted last night that Hitler was dead and that he had assumed leadership of the blasted nazi regime, is a man who has risen within two years to a post of highest power in the reich.

Never known as an ardent Nazi, the 53 year old navy veteran has been one of a small clique that stood steadfast at Hitler's side. Doenitz' constant exhortation was reported to be "kill, kill kill!"

London sources viewed his assumption of power as evidence of a row among top ranking Nazis.

Peace Angle Seen

Military men in Washington, D. C., believe Doenitz was selected for the following reasons:

1. Doenitz is a Nazi supporter who could be counted upon to keep German resistance going if possible.

2. But he is not associated in the allies' minds with Nazi atrocities and the extreme policies of the party. Therefore Hitler probably figured he might be able to get better treatment from the allies when the hour of surrender comes.

3. He is immensely popular with the German people.

Brought to the high command on Jan. 30, 1943, succeeding Grand Adm. Erich Raeder, Doenitz lost no time asserting his authority. When the abortive plot on Hitler's life last July failed, Doenitz was one of the leaders in a purge of suspected conspirators.

In Navy 35 Years

Born Sept. 16, 1891, at Berlin, son of an engineer, Doenitz entered the imperial German navy on April 1, 1910, as a cadet. On Sept. 20, 1913, he was named a lieutenant and served aboard the cruiser Breslau where he was in August, 1914, when the first World war broke out.

In 1916 he was attached to the submarine school and then commanded a submarine, U-boat 25, that waged successful warfare against allied merchantmen in the Mediterranean and Atlantic.

After the World war he was employed first as commander of a destroyer flotilla for several years and also served as navigation officer aboard the cruiser Nymphe.

Nazi Radio Announces 'Important News' Today

LONDON, May 2 [Wednesday]—(AP)—The German controled Goerlitz radio broke into its regular program with an announcement that "important news" would be broadcast today between 10:30 a. m. [4:30 a. m. Chicago time], and noon. The announcement gave no indication of the nature of the news.

7 JAP OFFICERS REACH SWEDISH PORT IN YACHT

STOCKHOLM, May 1 (AP)—A yacht flying the Japanese flag and carrying seven Japanese naval officers glided into the tiny port of Ystad on Sweden's southern coast today. The boat, named Nihon Maru, was owned by the Japanese naval attache in Berlin.

The central news agency said the yacht had aboard the Japanese secretary to the naval attache, two Japanese women and 17 Germans, including five women and six children and a Dutch woman.

The yacht left Warnemeunde, on the German Baltic coast north of Rostock, at 7 a. m. today and arrived in Sweden at 4:15 p. m.

HITLER 'DEATH' GREETED WITH JOY AND DOUBT

Elation Is Modified by Skepticism

The German report of Fuehrer Hitler's "death" spread like a tidal wave thruout the allied world last night and the millions of enemies of the fanatical Nazi overlord greeted it with joy—and doubt.

From quiet homes of America to the doughboys' foxholes in Europe, the reaction was substantially the same—summed up in the terse comments: "Great news if true!"; "Just plain dying's too good for him"; "It's at least five years too late," and "There's still a war to be won and dying to do."

New York's millions learned of the Hamburg radio report with surprise—but with few demonstrations.

Thousands of commuters rushed for newsstands in Grand Central station when a newsboy shouted, "The paperhanger is dead; Hitler, the big bum, is finished!"—but many of the crowds moved on when the source of the report was learned.

No One Mourns

A quickly improvised effigy of Hitler was burned at a downtown intersection in Toronto, Ont.

In Bogota, Columbia, thousands demonstrated in front of the national capital.

The news hit Paris late at night, but no one seemed inclined to mourn.

"It's a pity you didn't get your hands on him and really make him suffer," the pretty cashier of a Parisian night club told American doughboys.

In Washington, congressmen accepted the report with questioning.

"That's two of the snakes scotched," said Sen. Gordon [R., Ore.]. "Now we can soon turn all our efforts upon the third one."

Many members suspected it was a Nazi ruse and others argued that the news would be such a blow to Hitler's Nazi followers that it would not have been issued unless it were true.

For a few hours, newspaper extras carrying the report of Hitler's death in huge headlines caused a flurry of excitement among Washingtonians, but this died down with the realization that the German radio was the only authority for the news.

Scan "Fight On" Edict

Thruout the world, thoughtful persons considered the announced plan of Hitler's self-styled successor, Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz, who said Germany would fight on.

Among the thousands of G. I.s in London, the cheers turned to jeers when newspapers and the radio told of the Nazis' claim that their Fuehrer died a hero.

The death report was broadcast over a loudspeaker in the crowded lobby of a Red Cross club in Piccadilly and spread quickly thru the milling crowds outside.

Soldiers greeted the first announcements with a spontaneous shout. Bronx cheers welled up when the announcer reached the "hero's death" part of the story.

"I personally don't think it makes any difference to the army whether Hitler is dead or alive," said Sgt. James Theodore of 3526 W. 5th av., Chicago.

In London, many G. I.'s hearing the report referred to a recent article in an army newspaper saying that in final desperation the Nazis might be expected to try to "trick" the allies into believing Hitler was dead.

"Yeah, he might be trying to get away from what they gave Mussolini," said Sgt. William H. Vinton, 7300 Emerald av., Chicago.

Corp. Jerry Sullivan, 5040 Chicago av., Chicago, said "the news makes it seem like we are getting closer to home."

London Not Excited

The report was the main topic of conversation in London's all-night restaurants, and milk bars, and at bus stops and subway stations. But somehow London's excitement was not as great as might have been expected.

Out in the foxholes, the news created not only excitement and skepticism—but a mild form of disappointment.

It has been the dream of thousands of doughboys to seal Hitler's fate themselves, as some small atonement for the terrific change he has wrought in their lives.

Everywhere along the fronts there was realization that fighting remained to be done and, altho the first announcements brought jubilation in canteens and command posts, officers cautioned that Hitler's death might prolong the war rather than shorten it.

Rabbi Wise Comments

In New York, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish congress and the World Jewish congress, said "If the report is true a man has died who did more evil, who hurt more people in a more terrible way, than any man in human history."

The Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Catholic archbishop of Baltimore and Washington, said Hitler's death would mark "the decline of a dangerous and harmful philosophy."

BRITISH EXPECT CHURCHILL TALK TODAY ON HITLER

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 2 [Wednesday]—Prime Minister Churchill is expected to make a statement in the house of commons this afternoon regarding the effect on the war situation of Hitler's death, announced by the Nazis, and the succession of Adm. Karl Doenitz.

British war cabinet ministers conferred until the early hours today. Chiefs of the fighting services also were called into consultation, it was reported.

The assumption of power by Doenitz, who is regarded here as a hater of Britain, was interpreted in diplomatic circles as indicating Germany is split into two camps—those supporting Heinrich Himmler in the desire to surrender, and the Doenitz faction, which wishes to continue the fight. There is a suggestion the new Fuehrer hopes to induce German submarine commanders to continue operations against the allies even after the German army ends its resistance.

Some Refuse to Believe

Several hotels made special announcements to their guests, and at the American forces' Rainbow club in Piccadilly, service men stood and cheered around a blackboard on which "Hitler is dead" was chalked in big letters.

About 30 members of parliament were in commons when the announcement came over the tape. Some were frankly incredulous. Others believed it true and speculated what effect it would have on the war.

Later editions of the newspapers omitted earlier war news to carry full details of the German announcement under streamers two and three banks deeps, as well as pictures, editorials, and obituaries. The only exception, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, printed no pictures of Hitler and dispensed with the obituary except to record the place and date of his birth. In a front page box, it said, "The Daily Express rejoices to announce reports of Hitler's death; his days upon the earth he sought to conquer were too long."

A two day public holiday upon announcement of the end of the war in Europe was sanctioned by the government. News of the cessation of hostilities will be announced by Churchill over the radio. The king will broadcast VE-day at 9 p. m. [2 p. m. Chicago time].

"No New Nazi Offer"

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 1 (AP)—Count Folke Bernadotte, the Swedish intermediary who carried Germany's first surrender offer to the allies, returned to Stockholm today from Copenhagen. The Swedish foreign office announced that the count "did not bring with him any new message to be handed over . . . to the allies."

Altho Bernadotte said he did not see Heinrich Himmler on his last trip into Germany and Denmark, it was reported that he delivered the allies' negative response to Himmler obviously thru an intermediary.

"There really was no need for an answer," an American informant said, "because Himmler was told only that he had to step out with a white flag and surrender to the field commanders."

Red Letter Day for Moscow; All France Takes a Holiday

Japs Take It Calmly

MOSCOW, May 1 (AP)—Moscow threw off the drab garments of war today and celebrated with glittering Slavic splendor Russia's greatest May day in the history of the 27 year old soviet union.

Marshal Stalin, laughing and joking with his closest aides, mounted the shining red marble tomb of Russia's beloved Lenin amidst a deafening roar of cheers and music to direct the traditional holiday fete under what he termed "conditions of the victorious termination of the great patriotic war."

The day itself was warm and clear, a high, bright blue sky spreading a canopy over Red sq., itself so gaily decorated it looked like an exploded paint factory.

Jap Ambassador Listens

All of Moscow's diplomatic corps were lined up in special boxes adjoining Lenin's tomb. Among them were Naotake Sato, the Japanese ambassador, and his rival aides. They listened with unblinking passivity as Gen. Alexei Antonov, soviet chief of staff, echoed the words of Stalin's May day proclamation—that Germany is "completely isolated, if one does not count Japan."

The great parade featured hundreds of huge Stalin tanks, cannons, armored cars, motorcycles, and thousands of marching soldiers, spruce and proud in their summer uniforms. There were great units of students from the military academies, special interior police, and troops of colorfully garbed Cossacks. Overhead, Red army war planes demonstrated the soviets' air might.

A massed band of 1,200 filled the air with oom-pahs and cymbal crashes.

Celebrate at Front

EAST OF THE ELBE WITH THE RUSSIANS, May 1 (AP)—Red flags flew over every German town in this area today as Russian troops celebrated May day.

The Russians made it a double celebration by also greeting the United States 9th army on a formal basis. There was a meeting between Maj. Gen. Robert C. Macon, commanding the 83d division, which linked with the Russians yesterday, and the Russian infantry divisional commander north of Wittenberg.

Hang Petain in Effigy

BY DAVID DARRAH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 1—Paris today was tensely awaiting the war's end as the nation knocked off work to celebrate the Red May day labor festival. Great crowds jammed the streets of the Bastille quarter to see a parade of workers organized by the French General Confederation of Labor.

Communists carried effigies of Marshal Petain suspended from a pole with a rope around his neck. Other marchers displayed banners labeled "Petain to the gallows" and "Death to traitors."

Later, boulevard strollers were alert to every loudspeaker, convinced that the announcement of the war's end would come on the day of the Red labor day festival—May 1. Many rumors were spread that cease fire orders already had been given.

May day marchers wore their overcoats, for Paris shivered under a cold wave accompanied by a considerable fall of snow this morning.

Resistance groups took part in the parade alongside the Communists. Among the marchers were repatriated persons from the German concentration camps at Auschwitz and Ravensbrueck. They were still wearing striped prison costumes. Maurice Thorez, communist leader condemned to death by a French court martial in 1939 for opposing the war, was loudly cheered. Thorez had escaped to Moscow and only recently returned to France.

May day had not been celebrated in France since 1939.

Parades and other demonstrations were staged in all towns of France. All places of amusement and many cafes closed.

TALK WITH HIMMLER LIBERATED 15,500, BERNADOTTE REVEALS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 1 (AP)—Sweden's Count Folke Bernadotte, who served as an intermediary carrying a German peace proposal from Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler to Britain and the United States, today disclosed that his dealings with the Nazi leader resulted in the liberation of 15,5000 men and women from Nazi concentration camps.

Bernadotte, vice chairman of the Swedish Red Cross, told newsmen the story of his negotiations with Himmler today but side-stepped any comment on Himmler's "disposition" or any other impressions he may have formed of the Gestapo chief.

The Red Cross official said of the persons rescued from the Nazi camps, 8,000 were Danes and Norwegians and another 7,500 American, British, French, Belgian, Dutch, Czech and Polish women held at a Ravensbrueck camp. He said 9,000 already had been transported to Sweden by the Red Cross and the rest were waiting in Denmark. The operation is scheduled to be completed this week. Bernadotte said the Swedish government would care for the refugees.

The count said he last saw Himmler 10 days ago in Luebeck but before that there were weeks of direct negotiations with the Nazi directly and extensive preparations.

"In all my talks with Himmler he never asked for anything in return, either for himself or for the Germans," Bernadotte said. "There is nothing fishy about it."

WRITER DOUBTS HITLER DEAD OR EVEN IN BERLIN

Lochner Thinks 'Hero Act' Was Staged

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER
[Chief of the former Associated Press bureau in Berlin]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY, May 1 (AP)—I have just listened to the short wave broadcast of Adm. Karl Doenitz' speech as the new fuehrer of Germany, but I still find it difficult to believe that Hitler is really dead, or that he even remained in Berlin during the Russian assault upon the capital.

The whole melodramatic build-up beginning with Paul Joseph Goebbels' announcement days ago that Hitler personally was conducting the defense of the capital, now reaching its climax in the claim that he met death in the chancellery, of all places, looks like an effort to make good Hitler's oft-repeated assertion, "I'll never capitulate."

He Couldn't Afford It

Hitler couldn't afford to accept unconditional surrender, so what may prove to be the legend of his meeting a hero's death had to be staged.

If Hitler is dead it seems extremely unlikely he died as the German radio says he did. Having spent the past days in the very section of the country where Hitler rose to power, wrote "Mein Kampf," and conducted affairs of intrigue with the whole world from Munich, I still cannot escape the feeling that Hitler is some place where nobody expects him to be.

No End to Our Trouble

From time to time people will claim to have seen him.

The Doenitz announcement by no means ends our troubles with Hitler. They may only have begun. There may be a state funeral in Berlin, and photographers may be given the opportunity to produce pictures of a dead man labeled Hitler.

Then, some day much later, a "resurrected" Hitler may again stir the world.

DE GAULLISTS INSIST GERMANY MUST GIVE UP TO FRANCE, TOO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 1—Gen. De Gaulle's provisional French government today demanded that Germany's capitulation should be presented to France as well as to the United States, Russia, and Britain.

A cabinet meeting approved the French leader's proposal to insist on this demand on the grounds that the French army should be associated in peace negotiations inasmuch as the French had been fighting since 1939 and had taken part in recent operations in Germany, Italy, and the Atlantic coast.

The cabinet appears to have been nervous also over the zone which the French are to occupy in Germany. The principle has been accepted that the French should occupy a zone but it has not been delineated. The French have refused to leave Stuttgart despite orders to do so by Gen. Devers, commanding the 6th army group.

Supreme allied headquarters acknowledged today after a delay of forty-eight hours that an order to the French 1st army to quit Stuttgart had been reversed.

Truman Hints Reporters Should Stick by Closely

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP)—President Truman left the White House at 5:30 p. m. today for the Blair house. White House newsmen, anxious over war developments, asked him: "Are we safe to go home for the night?" The President smiled and said he couldn't answer that. When he left last night, the President had assured reporters they were safe to go home for the evening.

Germans Claim 29 Allied Ships Sunk During April

LONDON, May 1 (AP).—Germany's official war report today asserted that in "fighting against allied supply traffic and its escort, the German navy during April sank 29 vessels, totaling 159,200 tons, four destroyers, one submarine, and six escort vessels."

TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE IS VIEW OF FRISCO PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, May 1.—News of the death of Adolf Hitler was received at the international security conference with rejoicing—and incredulity. The general opinion, expressed in shrugs and a variety of languages, was that the report of the Nazi dictator's death was too good to be true.

Chinese Foreign Minister T. V. Soong, however, was willing to accept the tidings at full face value and commented: "Hitler prophesied that he had settled the destiny of Germany for 1,000 years. He spoke only too truly, but he did not know what he was saying."

Amir Alireza of Saudi Arabia exclaimed in some of the conference's better English: "Everybody will be delighted—if it's true."

Foreign Vice Minister Atto Akililou Hoptewold of Ethiopia alone was not pleased. "It is a pity," he said, "that Hitler could not have been tried for his crimes. And also Mussolini."

Ambassador Henri Bonnet of France said: "I hope it is true."

One distinguished foreign representative leaped into the air, kicked his heels together, and gave a prize-fighter's handshake [no easy trick, either], and then sternly announced: "But it is not that you can quote me—no!"

Found with Skull Crushed, Unidentified Woman Dies

An unidentified woman, about 60, who was found unconscious in front of 3822 S. Kedzie av. Monday night, died yesterday of a skull fracture in County hospital. Police said Paul Pergans, 1427 S. Spaulding av., found the woman. The woman was 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighed 165 pounds, and had blue eyes and gray hair. She wore a black cloth coat and a green flowered dress.

HITLER'S HOME TOWN CAPTURED BY U. S. 3D ARMY

Patton Races On to Trap Nazis in Czechoslovakia

PARIS, May 2 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Braunau, quaint little Austrian town where Adolf Hitler was born 56 years ago, was captured last night by United States 3d army tanks just as the German radio was telling the world that the Nazi fuehrer was dead.

The 13th armored division took Braunau on the Inn river after storming across the Isar river and driving 25 miles.

A field dispatch said Gen. Patton's forces had established radio contact with Russian columns pounding westward from Vienna and that the two armies were probably less than 40 miles from a junction which would trap all Germans in Czechoslovakia and isolate nazi forces in the Alpine redoubt below Munich.

Units of the 13th armored division which hammered to the Braunau area on the German-Austrian border were only 30 miles from Salzburg, eastern rampart of the Nazis' southern stronghold and 44 miles from Berchtesgaden.

Patton Gains on Wide Front

The 3d army, called by field correspondents the "Gen. Patton express," plunged forward along a 100 mile front. Towns identified as swept up in the drive included Eggenfeld, 15 miles northwest of Braunau, and Geisberg, 16 miles northeast of Hitler's birthplace.

The 14th armored division plunged east for gains up to 12 miles and entered Oberhausbach, nine miles south of Landshut, and cleared Hubenstein and Hilpolding, each about 13 miles south of Landshut. Landshut, 24 miles southwest of Landau, was cleared by the 99th infantry. Other 13th armored division units drove 13 miles southward to Kosslarn.

Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army smashed beyond captured Munich to within 10 miles of Innsbruck in Austria and within 15 miles of the northern gateway to the Brenner pass thru the Alps.

All of southern Germany was overrun except the southeast corner of Bavaria. Only bomb craters and road blocks were impeding the 7th army's tanks as they plunged toward the rail center of Innsbruck.

Ike Hails Munich's Fall

Hailing the capture of Munich, Germany's third largest city, Gen. Eisenhower said yesterday in an order of the day that "the whole AEF congratulates the 7th army on the seizure of Munich, the cradle of the nazi beast."

Sixty thousand more prisoners were taken.

The allied commander in chief appeared to have been roused by the fresh disclosures of horror at the near-by Dachu prison camp, freed just before Munich fell.

Reports persisted at supreme headquarters that the Germans might be expected at any moment to accept the allies' demand for unconditional surrender.

In the north, American air borne troops and the British 2d army hammered out a bridgehead 20 miles wide and 12 miles deep across the Elbe river east of Hamburg, threatening to cut Denmark and Schleswig-Holstein province off from the rest of Germany.

Back Up Montgomery

The Hamburg radio said United States parachute troops and glider borne infantry were landed in the bridgehead to support Field Marshal Montgomery's forces in the fight on the north German plain. The broadcast said strong German tank forces were engaging the allies.

[The North German radio reported yesterday that allied troops had pushed into Oldenburg, German town covering the approaches to the naval base at Wilhelmshaven.]

Two Writers Suspended by Allied Headquarters

PARIS, May 1 (AP)—Supreme headquarters announced today that two war correspondents accredited to it had been suspended, but refused to permit other correspondents to disclose their identity or tell the reasons for its action. [The remainder of this dispatch was deleted by censor. It was learned, however, that no Associated Press correspondent was involved].

CIVILIANS SAVE SCHILLER'S AND GOETHE'S BODIES

WEIMAR, Germany, May 1 (AP)—"When American troops approached Weimar the Nazi gauleiter ordered the remains of Goethe and Schiller removed to Jena," Lt. Bruce Fessenden, Washington, D. C., said today. "They were hidden in an air raid bunker beneath a hospital there. After our troops took Weimar and were nearing Jena the gauleiter told the SS chief to go and destroy the coffins to keep 'The American barbarians' from finding them."

But a German lawyer and a doctor of philosophy had taken the bodies of Goethe and Schiller and hid them among articles of household furniture in another air raid shelter in Jena.

Goethe, known as the "German Shakespeare," is best known for his "Faust." Schiller, a poet and playwright, won his greatest fame with his play "Wilhelm Tell."

U. S. 9TH ARMY HALTED AT ELBE BY IKE'S ORDER

WITH THE U. S. 9TH ARMY IN GERMANY, April 26 [Delayed by censorship]—(AP)—A direct order from supreme allied headquarters halted the United States 9th army's drive to Berlin at the Elbe river at a time when the most pessimistic officers were predicting Lt. Gen. Simpson's forces could reduce the German capital in 10 days "even if the Germans fought hard."

Gen. Eisenhower's order stated the 9th would halt on the Elbe and await the arrival of Russian forces from the east, thereby leaving the capture of the capital to the Red army.

It also was understood the American 1st and 3d and British and Canadian armies received similar orders to halt at the Elbe.

TWO CHICAGOANS ROUND UP 24 NAZI COLONELS

MILAN, Italy, April 30 [Delayed]—(AP)—With a German colonel as a guide Sgt. Frank Makowski of St. Cloud, Minn., and 11 other doughboys today rounded up twice their number of nazi colonels and several hundred German troops.

They were Germans who had barricaded themselves in buildings when the Partisans took over Milan four days ago, and who refused to surrender except to allied troops.

Members of Makowski's platoon included two Chicagoans, Privates Robert Kato and Raymond Peterson.

CHURCHILL SEES POLES WANTING TO RETURN HOME

LONDON, May 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill predicted today that conditions in Poland after further Big Three discussions would be such that all but "a very few" Poles would want to return. He told commons he could not conceive that any Poles who might fear reprisals would be sent back to Poland against their will.

Churchill's statement followed a declaration by Comdr. Robert T. Bower, Conservative, that as a result of the delay in forming "a democratic government" in Poland many thousands of liberated Polish prisoners "could not return without fear of reprisals."

Churchill replied that large numbers of Poles liberated by the western allies are being cared for under Gen. Eisenhower's authority "at various centers set up for their reception," and "they will continue to be cared for in this way so long as conditions make it impracticable for them to be repatriated or otherwise provided for."

FASCIST ARMY SURRENDERED BY GRAZIANI

ROME, May 1 (AP)—Fascist Commander Marshal Rodolfo Graziani announced the unconditional surrender tonight of his Ligurian army as New Zealand units linked up with Yugoslav forces near Trieste at the head of the Adriatic sea, and American units raced for the southern end of the Brenner pass into Austria.

Graziani told his troops in a broadcast that "the time has arrived when further resistance would be useless and inhuman, and, as far as I am concerned, criminal."

Graziani, who had been erroneously reported executed after his recent capture, is now an allied prisoner of war.

Only Skirmishes Now

Thus the two and a half year old Italian campaign was rapidly drawing to a close. Only skirmishes were reported as the allied troops spread over the northern end of the peninsula to engulf the few knots of German soldiers offering a demoralized resistance.

British troops entered Udine, 33 miles south of the Austrian frontier in Northeastern Italy, New Zealanders linked with Marshal Tito's Yugoslavs at Montfalcone, 14 miles northwest of Trieste, and American units in the west apparently already had joined the French tank spearheads pushing into Piedmont from France.

Graziani disclosed that he personally had ordered the unconditional surrender of his army two days ago, and that copies of his order had been dropped to his troops by allied planes.

Praises His Troops' Valor

"In this final battle," he told his troops, "you have borne yourselves with your customary discipline and valor altho you found yourselves 'n most heavy inferiority to the enemy.

"The German higher command in Italy has for a few days issued no further orders and it is not known where it now is."

Altho the Yugoslavs apparently had pushed on from Trieste it was doubtful whether they actually controled the city.

A plane carrying allied correspondents swooped low over Trieste this afternoon, attempting to ascertain whether it could land. The aircraft fled when it met bursts of light flak.

While one British column pushed into Udine northeast of captured Venice and outflanked Trieste on the northwest, another force marched thru Vittorio Veneto, 45 miles west of Udine. At Vittorio Veneto the Italians routed the Austrians in World War I.

37 Miles from Border

Units pushed on north of Vittorio Veneto to Belluno, 48 miles north of Venice and 37 miles from the Austrian frontier.

The 10th mountain division troops made another amphibious landing near Campione Del Garda, on the west shore of Lake Garda six miles north of Gargano, site of the slain Benito Mussolini's villa. One amphibious task force led by Col. William O. Darby, assistant commander of the 10th, reported finding important documents in Mussolini's villa.

ALLIES, GERMANS AGREE; DUTCH TO GET FOOD TODAY

Nazi Sees His Limousine in Prince's Hands

800 Tons from U. S.

LONDON, May 1 (AP)—Aerial grocers again flew over Holland today. This time, 400 American Flying Fortresses dropped 800 tons of food near The Hague and Rotterdam.

WITH CANADIAN TROOPS IN WESTERN HOLLAND, May 1 (AP)—By air, land and sea the allies will begin tomorrow to transport thousands of tons of food into western Holland to feed 3,500,000 starving Dutch civilians behind the enemy lines.

The gigantic operation will see trucks loaded with bulk food from stock piles directly on the front lines speed straight into enemy territory.

In Antwerp, ships are now taking on thousands of tons to be unloaded at German-held Rotterdam. Aircraft based in Britain already have started dropping food rations into the Holland fortress.

Transportation of the food behind enemy lines is the result of an unprecedented series of negotiations between high allied and German officers in the only formal allied-enemy conference of its kind in this war.

To Provide 7,000 Tons a Day

The allies are expected to provide an average of 7,000 tons of food daily for an indefinite period. Twenty-five field teams specially trained in England already are on their way into the area to feed intravenously those persons too weakened by starvation to digest staple food.

At the allied German food conference, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, gauleiter of west Holland, led the enemy delegation to the first meeting in this peaceful Dutch hamlet. Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, Eisenhower's chief of staff, headed the allied delegation representing supreme headquarters, the 21st army group, the Canadian army and the Netherlands government.

The limping gauleiter stepped stiffly from the staff car which had carried him from No Man's land and gave a brief palm-outward salute to the allied officers. Suddenly he halted and stared hard at a long, low, leather upholstered limousine bearing the license "RK One" and the Netherlands standard.

Dutch Prince Smiles

A flush slowly spread over his heavy, florid face. He turned and limped into the schoolhouse conference building. Prince Bernhard of Holland smiled. His chauffeurs hugged one another with glee.

The racy automobile just a few weeks ago had belonged to Seyss-Inquart. In a dash thru northeast Holland it was captured by the Dutch underground.

Gaunt Dutch civilians accompanied the Germans. They were to head the civilian food distribution of supplies the allies brought in. They had refused to ride with the Germans and instead had clustered into one vehicle altho some were forced to sit on the floor.

Greetings between the Dutch civilians and Prince Bernhard brought tears to the eyes of both parties. Allied officers gave their salute of hand to forehead while most Germans gave a half-hearted shoulder high Nazi salute. There were no "Heil Hitlers."

2,453,595 TONS HIT NAZIS; LOSE 40,822 PLANES

LONDON, May 1 (AP)—American and British planes have dropped 2,453,595 tons of explosivs on German targets since the start of the war, it was disclosed today, and allied airmen destroyed 40,822 German planes, losing 26,715 of their own.

For every ton the Germans hurled at Britain by bomber plane or V-bomb they received 31⅝ in return. American bombers contributed 1,453,595 tons of the total, and the R. A. F. approximately one million.

Allied bomber losses were 16,552, of which 8,001 were American. Of the 10,163 fighters lost, 7,165 were American. The German air force sacrificed 20,574 planes in combat to American fighter pilots and 12,337 more were shot up on the ground.

ALL TRANSFERS OF PRISONERS CEASE IN REICH

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP)—Definite assurances from Germany that imprisoned Americans will be left in German camps for liberation by advancing allied armies have been received thru the Swiss government, the state and war departments announced today.

The German government's message said that all transfers of allied prisoners of war have ceased.

Swiss and Red Cross representatives will assist in the orderly turn over of the camps to allied control, the departments said. Main camp guards will be withdrawn prior to the arrival of allied units.

According to the latest available information, the Germans are still holding some 45,000 to 50,000 American prisoners. Allied armies have taken 64 of 78 prison camps and hospitals where American soldiers are known to be held.

300 Tons Food Destroyed by V-Bomb in Market Area

Canada Plans Holiday Declaration on V-E Day

OTTAWA, Ont., May 1—Canada plans a public holiday the day after V-E day is declared, acting Prime Minister J. L. Ilsley announced yesterday. He said the first Sunday after hostilities cease will be proclaimed a day of solemn thanksgiving and remembrance.

SEIZE HORTHY, 2 NAZI MARSHALS AND 7 GENERALS

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY, May 1 (AP)—American doughboys probing Germany's Bavarian redoubt south of Munich took into protective custody today Adm. Nicholas Horthy, former Hungarian regent, and captured two German field marshals and seven German generals.

Adm. Horthy [left], Field Marshal Von Leeb, and Field Marshal List [right].

The field marshals—Wilhelm List, Hitler's World War I. regimental commander, and Wilhelm Ritter von Leeb—had both been relieved of all commands by the Nazis as result of German disasters in Russia.

[A British radio broadcast said a third field marshal, Ewald von Kleist, and six other German generals also had been captured in recent days by the Americans.]

The generals captured by the 7th army troops were Lt. Gen. Frederick von Boetticher, German military attaché in Washington, D. C., in 1933; Gen. Franz Beyer, commander of the 80th corps; Maj. Gen. Nicholas Maier of the luftwaffe; and Generals Mattner, Becht, Pappe and Scheurlen. Two unidentified generals were captured by French forces between Bregenz and Oberstdorf.

The 77 year old Horthy was taken with his family by the 36th division doughboys at Waldbichl castle in Weilheim, south of the Amer see. He was seized by the Nazis last Jan. 16 when he announced that Hungary was suing for an armistice with the soviet union.

WOMAN SENTENCED TO 30 DAYS

Mrs. Lena Pedigo, 25, of 915 Wilson av., was sentenced to 30 days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Felony court on a charge of tampering with an automobile. She said she drove off in a car which she thought belonged to a friend.

OPA AREA HEAD WILL BE CALLED IN PACKER CASE

Marion W. Isbell, area office of price administration director, will be called by the defense as an adverse witness in the suspension hearing against the Marhoefer Packing company, 820 Fulton st., before Kenneth Lemmer, OPA hearing commissioner, this morning. Isbell said he would appear voluntarily at the request of Atty. Harry Rudnick, counsel for the Marhoefer company, and George H. Marhoefer, partner in the firm and two other concerns. Rudnick's request followed a statement that the Marhoefer firms had tried to comply with all OPA regulations, and that the OPA's case was "based on minor technicalities."

Customers Ask...
Why DOES FANNIE MAY SHIP CANDY ONLY TO SERVICE MEN and WOMEN?
Shortage of shipping cartons! That's the big reason why we can't send candy out of town—except to service men and women!
The small number of containers that we can 'scare-up' just about takes care of those orders—and we know you won't blame us for reserving our entire supply for candy sent to folks in the armed forces!
So during this emergency, we can ship candy only to service men and women!

TRUMAN VISITS CAPITOL; SHAKES HANDS OF HOUSE

Bid for Co-operation Seen in Meeting

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 1—President Truman, paying a surprise visit to the capitol today, lunched with house leaders and then met all congressmen present in an informal handshaking reception in Speaker Sam Rayburn's office.

House page boys were included in the handshaking, and one page who slipped thru the reception line twice was smilingly recognized by the President as a second timer.

A Good Will Visit

The "good will" visit, regarded as additional evidence of the President's intention to work closely with congress, was not announced to the house until after the President arrived on Capitol hill for luncheon. He lunched as Rayburn's guest along with Majority Leader McCormack [D., Mass.] and Minority Leader Martin [R., Mass.] in the speaker's private dining room.

It was Truman's third appearance in the capitol since he took office. He met with senate leaders April 13, the day after he was sworn in, and addressed congress in joint session three days later.

Rayburn told reporters that Truman himself suggested the visit last Friday at a White House conference with Democratic leaders. The President explained he wanted to meet members of the house personally. Capitol veterans could not recall any other time in history that a President had paid his respects informally to house members in person. The visit was warmly welcomed by congressmen of both parties as a coöperative gesture.

Arrives Minus Fanfare

Mr. Truman arrived at the capitol at 1 p. m. without sirens or other fanfare. He was accompanied only by a motorcycle escort and secret service men. No White House officials were with him.

The house was debating a proposed constitutional amendment to change treaty ratification machinery when word was received the President was in the capitol. Fewer than 100 members were on the floor, and a quorum call was held so the entire membership could be told of their distinguished visitor.

The congressmen then filed thru the speaker's office and shook hands with the President. He appeared calm and in excellent spirits as he greeted those he knew already and was introduced to the others by Rayburn. Truman then said he would like to meet the page boys, and more than a score of them filed thru to shake the President's hand.

Republican Leader Martin expressed the sentiment of both parties when he said the visit was a "friendly gesture" that would help keep smooth relations between congress and the chief executive.

Confers with Gen. Marshall

The President sandwiched his trip to congress into another busy day. He spent the morning at the White House keeping appointments with senators and high government officials.

After he returned to the executive mansion, he was visited by Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, who spent 45 minutes with Mr. Truman.

Mr. Truman conferred this morning with OPA Chief Bowles and later issued a statement defending the OPA against "irresponsible criticism." Admitting OPA has made mistakes, the President said that, nonetheless, its administration of rationing and price control has been a "remarkable" achievement, and called for congress to continue price control authority for another year.

Prisoners Trudge Thru Streets

fidence." The general's aide, Capt. James B. McCahey Jr., son of the president of the Chicago board of education, fetched a Rainbow division insignia patch, which was fastened to the top of the portrait.

The beer hall putsch of 1923 was climaxed at the Feldherrnhalle, a loggia at the south end of Ludwigstrasse. There Hitler and his band encountered the police. Adolf ignominously spread himself on the ground, but Gen. Ludendorff continued to march erect. Sixteen of the Nazis were killed and there is a plaque on the Feldherrnhalle in memory to them.

Bored Yanks Stand Guard

The Bavarian military monument and the statues of the Bavarian generals, Tilly and Wrede, in the loggia have been nicked by allied bomb fragments, and there is a big bomb hole a few yards from the dais where Hitler often addressed his elite guard and party members when he was at the acme of his power. Some very bored Rainbow division soldiers stood guard there today.

Once there had been a brown house on the Briennerstrasse where Hitler had held his party councils. It was a good target for allied bombs and now the house is a crumbling ruin. When we approached Pvt. Jule Wright of Argenta, Ill., was the only person there. He was cooking his rations on the charred bricks.

"Do you know what this place was?" Wright was asked.

"Some guy came by a while ago," he replied, "and told me this was a club Hitler used."

"Well, it's kaput now," Wright added, as he reached for another brick of Hitler's house on which to prop a coffee cup.

The basement of the brown house is intact and other GI's are bunking in what had been Hitler's personal air raid shelter.

Strictly a Joint, Says Yank

"If you want to know what I think of the brown house," remarked Pvt. Sam Merrare, "I can tell you that it was strictly a joint compared to my house in Niles, O."

Adjoining the remnants of the brown house are the two temples of honor erected by Hitler to contain the caskets of the 16 Nazis slain in the beer hall putsch.

The camouflaged Corinthian pillars still stand, but there are bomb holes in the roofs. Flames intended to be eternal had burned in braziers by the caskets. They were ephemeral instead of eternal, having been snuffed out long ago by allied bombs. The bronze caskets are intact, as are their bas-relief adornments of swastikas and scripts in German: "The Last Call."

Much of the center of Munich is in ruins. The railroad station, largest in Europe, is completely wrecked. Hotels, churches, offices and factory buildings also suffered. Most of the breweries are not functioning, and the little beer that is available is very thin, an insult to the brews for which Munich had been noted.

Church Towers Intact

Of the 23 churches in Munich, only a few can be used for services. The twin towers of the Frauenkirche on the Augustinerstrasse still soar 320 feet, but the rest of this famous 15th century church is smashed and gutted.

The city's biggest art gallery, on the Briennerstrasse, is not harmed. Most of the paintings and sculptures were removed by the Nazis. A restaurant in the museum, occasionally frequented by Hitler and his Nazi heirarchy, is a mess hall for American soldiers.

Under command of Maj. Eugene Keller Jr. of Memphis, Tenn., the military government is functioning in the city hall in the Marienplatz. The exterior of the buildings is damaged, and all the windows are out, but the interior is still usable. Among Yanks seen in the area was Pvt. Alfred Bates, 628 Central st., Evanston, Ill.

Tonight in Munich the rumble of distant gunfire can be heard. But the city is calm, and the Angel of Peace monument erected near the Tsar river in 1899 still stands unmarred.

OPA PLANS QUIZ ON PRICE OF NEW CIGARET BRANDS

New York, May 1 [Special]—Manufacturers of mitherto unheard of brands of cigarets that have appeared on the market in recent weeks and are being retailed at 4 or more cents a package higher than ceiling prices for scarce popular brands will be called upon by the office of price administration to show that the new products are of a quality rating the prices charged, it became known today.

Daniel P. Woolley, regional OPA administrator, said an investigation was in progress as a result of complaints by smokers who said they had paid 21 cents a package for cigarets "they had previously never heard of."

The United Wholesale Tobacco and Cigret Distributors association, a sub-jobbers' group, in a telegram to Sen. Langer [R., N. D.], demanded an immediate investigation of the entire cigaret shortage.

FOOD, CLOTHING INCREASE LIVING COSTS .2 OF 1 PCT.

The cost of living for moderate income families in Chicago continued its upward trend from Feb. 15 to March 15, the bureau of labor statistics reported yesterday. The rise was .2 of 1 per cent, said John B. Parrish, regional director, and was accounted for by an increase of .4 of 1 per cent in food and .9 of 1 per cent in clothing costs. Among food items, eggs went up 6.8 per cent and fresh fruits and vegetables' 4.2 per cent. The index as of March 15 was 126.0 on a 1935-'39 basis of 100, Parrish said, or 2.9 points above March 15, 1944.

ALLIED FORCES LAND ON BORNEO, SAYS AUSTRALIA

Tokyo Reports Invasion on Northeast Coast

MANILA, May 2 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Official Australian sources and the Japanese radio agreed today that allied forces have invaded Dutch Borneo. There was no immediate confirmation of the operation from the headquarters of Gen. MacArthur.

At Canberra, Joseph B. Chifley, Australia's treasury minister, told the house of representatives that a veteran Australian division was participating in an invasion of Borneo.

Japanese broadcasters reported that 5,000 allied assault troops, pouring from three cruisers and 13 destroyers, landed at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning at Linkas, on Tarakan, oil port island just off Borneo's northeast coast. Japan said an earlier try was repulsed.

Hit 800 Miles from Manila

The reported invasion point is 800 miles south of Manila, just under 1,000 miles from Singapore and about 900 miles from Saigon, Japanese stronghold in French Indo-China.

America's air power in the Southwest Pacific and the Yank 41st division have been paving the way for a Borneo invasion for several months. The doughboys, under Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe, have been headed for oil and rubber rich Borneo since they first entered Pacific action more than three years ago.

Bombers Blast Borneo

They invaded Palawan, Philippine Island, just north of Borneo, last February. The next month they hopped to Zamboanga, in Mindanao, and on April 2 they took the former Japanese naval base at Tawitawi, on the southwestern tip of the Sulu archipelago and only 30 miles off the Borneo coast.

Meanwhile, American flyers hit Borneo 24 times during March and 28 times in April, plastering air fields, supply and dock areas, refineries, and shipping. They struck Tarakan 16 times.

Gen. MacArthur heralded the Palawan and Tawitawi invasions as cutting off the Japanese from their southern conquests, especially Borneo and other parts of the Netherlands East Indies.

The Australian forces reportedly engaged in the Borneo action undoubtedly came from the regions they took over after the Yanks headed northwestward for Leyte on the road to Manila.

A 10 hour air trip from Chicago to London or Paris, via Detroit and Montreal was promised last night within six months after the war by Col. J. Carroll Cone, assistant vice president of Pan American Airways, at the fourth session of the Chicago forum on aviation in the La Salle hotel.

Col. J. C. Cone

Col. Cone said an examiner for the civil areonautics board had recommended issuance of a permit for such a transoceanic flight and that the permit is expected within the next two months. The trip, he said, would be made in a plane with a pressurized cabin seating 128 passengers.

Bigger Plane, Lower Fare

Four years later, he added, a newer ship—parts of which still are secret—costing 1½ million dollars and with three decks, will be carrying 204 passengers at a 30 to 70 per cent reduction in rates from today's fares. "This is no pipe dream," Cone said. "The fare from Chicago to Paris or London will be $100 one way or $180 round trip, as compared with $575 from New York to Europe, one way, as now exists."

The speaker predicted that Chicago will become one of the three great international air ports of entry of the world. "It has been blessed by geography to make it so," he said.

Chicago, he explained, is 300 miles closer to London and Paris over the great circle route than is New York. Trips to these European capitals would by-pass New York.

To avoid what he termed "difficulties of foreign competition," Col. Cone recommended the establishment of a "community company." All American transportation companies on sea, land, and in the air who are able to contribute, would participate in this company. It would be privately owned and operated by all interests and would have the political, diplomatic, and financial support of the government.

Raps Berle Suggestion

The speaker rapped the Chicago international aviation conference, and the so-called "freedom of the air," as suggested by Adolph Berle, then undersecretary of state. Col. Cone declared that American air lines, operating under such a policy, would be "exposed to low cost foreign competition" and as a result would "wither up and of necessity be taken over by the government. Unless we retain control of foreign air travel in and out of this country and so capitalize on our geographic and economic advantages, we never will be able to stand up against the low wage standard of foreign competition."

In conclusion, Col. Cone termed it a duty to recommend that the principles of the Chicago air conference be referred by the state department to the senate for full and open consideration and debate, as treaties, in accordance with the Constitution, before "our government becomes irrevocably bound by the so-called executive action that may even destroy our present air leadership."

YANKS 6 MILES FROM DAVAO IN COASTAL DRIVE OF 11 MILES

MANILA, May 2 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur today announced that American troops had reached within six miles of Davao City, vital port on Mindanao Island in the Philippines.

Maj. Gen. Roscoe Woodruff's 24th infantry division overran Darong airstrip and reached Daliao air field in an advance of 11 miles along Davao gulf.

There was no mention of opposition, but the Yanks expect a tough fight at the city. The estimated enemy force of 50,000 troops was yet to be encountered.

To the east, the 31st [Dixie] division drove northward along the main central Mindanao highway against scattered enemy elements.

On Luzon Island, doughboys were crushing Japanese strong points and pockets of resistance in the Balete pass and Villa Verde trail sectors.

The 37th division captured Trinidad, in the northern mountains, and the 33d division spread southeast to capture hill positions and the Laocan air field.

YANKS CAPTURE OKINAWA TOWN NEAR AIR FIELD

Drive to Flank Base Near East Coast

GUAM, May 2 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Advance elements of Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's 7th infantry division yesterday entered the village of Kuhazu in a move to flank the Yonabaru air field on southeastern Okinawa.

Kuhazu is on high ground one mile west of Yonabaru, one of the immediate objectives of the 10th army drive. The Machinato air field on the west coast already is in American hands.

Local gains were made elsewhere along the line. This was reported by Adm. Nimitz, who announced also that light Japanese air attacks were made on the Okinawa area yesterday. One medium sized American ship was damaged, but there was no indication of its type or casualties.

Tanks Shell City

The 96th division in the central sector was last reported within 800 yards of Shuri, second city of Okinawa. Tanks were dropping shells into the outskirts.

Capture of Yonabaru will give the Americans five air fields—four on Okinawa and one on Ie Island. Machinato field was added to the string Sunday by the 27th division on the west coast sector.

Lt. Gen. Buckner, commanding the 10th army, said his troops are overcoming the strongest Japanese fortifications and meeting the heaviest artillery opposition encountered anywhere in the Pacific fighting.

Jap Tactics a "Break" for U. S.

Fleet Adm. Nimitz said Monday that casualties for army and marine units of the 10th army thru April 27, the 27th day of the invasion, totaled 11,413—1,847 killed, 9,148 wounded, and 418 missing. Previously he had said that Japanese dead, thru April 25, was 21,269.

The original Japanese garrison on Okinawa was believed to total about 60,000. Buckner estimated at a press conference that half of that force had been put out of action and that its strength to resist had been reduced by more than half in the one month old campaign.

MEDIC OPERATES WHILE OKINAWA CEILING FALLS

OKINAWA [Delayed] — (AP) — Lt. Comdr. Aaron A. Topcik, Waukegan, Ill., attached to the 6th marine division, had set up his hospital in an abandoned seed mill when the first patient, who had been hit by rifle fire, was brought in. An operation was begun. A sudden blast near-by shook the old mill and plaster fell on the operating table. "We protected the patient with our bodies and then moved into another corner," Topcik said. "Everything turned out well." The 40 year old officer, who was a physician in Waukegan for eight years, insists his hospital be close to the front lines to avoid delays. In 30 hours, within a mile of the front, Topcik and two assistants performed 12 operations and attended 60 patients.

ALEUTS RETURN TO HAPPINESS OF BLEAK ISLES

UNALASKA, Alaska, April 23 [Delayed]—(AP)—Home tonight out here on the ragged edge of the world are the Aleuts, the only North Americans forced to flee their homes by the Pacific war.

Gone three years, they came back today, their oriental stoicism unbroken by the sight of rundown houses, dilapidated as a result of foul weather and souvenir hunters.

One by one, 120 came down the gangplank of an army transport and blinked their eyes when they looked at the snow covered mountains, palisades of light.

The island looked different to the repatriated people. Good roads had replaced muddy trails. Army and navy air fields were beehives of activity where the Aleuts used to graze their sheep.

TRUMAN REVIEWS FACTS OF JAPS' HAWAII ATTACK

Article Critical of U. S. Military Recalled

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 1—President Truman is making a study of the facts surrounding the Japanese attack and the events preceding the blackest day in American history, it was learned tonight.

The new chief executive, who traced responsibility for the disaster to the divided command of the army and navy in a magazine article last summer when he was a candidate for Vice President, has called for the official records.

It was learned that the records, which contain the plans for defense of the Hawaiian Islands, the messages exchanged between Washington and Honolulu on the plans, the official reports on what happened Dec. 7, 1941, and all the findings of the various investigating bodies, were brought to the capital reportedly by Rear Adm. Morton L. Ring, who is on the staff of Adm. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific area.

Doubt Early Court Martial

Altho the call for the records spurred reports in army and navy circles that the President is preparing to order early court martial proceedings for Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short—navy and army commanders at Pearl Harbor at the time of the attack— it was considered doubtful in informed circles that the officers will get the early trial they have been seeking.

It was felt that Mr. Truman would not open the pandora box of Pearl Harbor in the last hours of the European war and in the early hours of the final offensive against Japan, but had called for the records to satisfy himself on responsibility for the disaster so that he will be able to chart his course when investigation is demanded after the war.

Took Issue with FBI

Not only did Mr. Truman tax military officials with heavy responsibility for Pearl Harbor in the magazine article, but on the floor of the senate he derided federal bureau of investigation excuses for failure to capture spies in Hawaii who paved the way for the sucessful enemy assault.

Taking issue on Feb. 4, 1942, with the Roberts report and impugning the excuses made by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, Mr. Truman said "a study of the record will show that wire tapping and interception of messages were fully practiced prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor."

Mr. Truman, then chairman of an interstate commerce subcommittee on wire tapping, denounced public accusations that Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.], leading senate foe of interventionism, blocked legislation to authorize wire tapping by the FBI and that Wheeler was therefore responsible in part for Pearl Harbor.

LT. HEMINGWAY, SON OF AUTHOR, FREED BY YANKS

WITH THE 14TH ARMORED DIVISION, Germany, May 1 (AP)—Lt. Jack Hemingway, son of Ernest Hemingway, author, was liberated at the Moosburg prison camp yesterday. His mother lives in Oak Park, Ill. He was captured at St. Die, France, last Oct. 28.

Lt. Hemingway's mother, now Mrs. Paul Scott Mowrer, heard the news of her son's liberation in Lake Bluff, Ill., where she is giving up her house in order to join her husband in Paris as soon as feasible. Mowrer is European editor for a New York paper in Paris.

Mrs. Mowrer said Lt. Hemingway, 21 and a native of Oak Park, had previously been in the Hammelburg, Germany, prison camp and evidently had been moved by the Germans to Moosburg. He has been in service since February, 1943.

Camp Liberated Too Late

BRITISH FORCES LAND ON COAST NEAR RANGOON

CALCUTTA, India, May 2 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Southeast Asia headquarters announced today that allied forces have landed on the Burma coast on both sides of Rangoon. The first landings, from British ships, were followed by parachute landings, the bulletin said.

Simultaneously Tokyo radio reported a British task force bombarded Car Nicobar Island in the Indian ocean south of Burma today for the second consecutive day.

Cut Off Jap Force

ADVANCED 14TH ARMY HDQS., Southern Burma, May 1 (AP)—British armored columns of the "Rangoon express" stormed Pegu today and cut the main road and rail escape routes for an estimated 30,000 Japanese troops remaining in southern Burma.

Pegu is 50 miles north of menaced Rangoon and the only railroad and highway from Rangoon to Thailand passes thru it. Other units which by-passed Pegu were reported on Monday to be only 36 miles from Rangoon, capital of Burma.

HOUSE DEBATES RIGHT TO SHARE TREATY MAKING

Amendment Arouses Little Interest

Washington, D. C., May 1 [Special]—The house today began two days of general debate on a proposed Constitutional amendment offered by its judiciary committee giving the house co-equal authority with the senate in ratifying or rejecting treaties and providing for a simple majority vote of both houses for action in place of the two-thirds majority of the senate alone now required.

Only Few Present

The proposal did not seem to arouse great interest. Shortly after debate began only some 70 of the 345 members were on the floor.

Rep. Sumners [D., Tex.], chairman of the judiciary committee, was applauded when he ended an opening speech in favor of the proposal.

Mr. Sumners said:

"This house, which has the initial power of appropriating money, is continually being called upon to exercise that function to implement treaties on which it has had no decision. It seems sound to me that we here, who have to appropriate the money, should have a voice in passing in the first place on the soundness or unsoundness of the agreement for which the money is asked."

Leads to Future

Rep. Springer [R., Ind.] opposed elimination of the requirement for ratification by a two-thirds vote. He recognized, he said, the argument of proponents of the amendment that congress declares war by a simple majority of both houses, but held that treaties often involve the making of peace which, he held, "leads us into the distant future."

"The declaration of war," he asserted "means that congress takes action to meet a temporary emergency, but the declaration of peace is an entirely different matter."

LUEDER URGES BANKS TO HELP ORGANIZE DAD-G. I. JOE CLUBS

State Auditor Lueder yesterday called upon the presidents of 483 state banks in Illinois to join and help organize "Dad to G. I. Joe" clubs in their institutions and communities.

Lueder acted in response to an editorial in which THE TRIBUNE suggested that fathers of men and women in service purchase bonds for the fighting men and women to help Illinois reach its quota of 490 million dollars in the 7th war loan drive. His letter to the banks said:

"The idea is one which has exceptional and tremendous merit and should be given the complete cooperation of every one everywhere. It will help bring in the sinews of war and that's what we need until the unconditional surrender of both German and Jap."

Andrew N. Rebori, architect, has been appointed Chicago and Cook county general chairman for the clubs.

ISBELL RESIGNS OPA POST; RILEY MAY TAKE OVER

Marion W. Isbell, Chicago restaurant man, has resigned as area director of the office of price administration, the resignation to be effective as soon as his successor is named, it was disclosed last night. Isbell has been area director since Aug. 1, 1944.

Prior to that, he served for four months as chief of the institutional users' branch of the OPA in Washington, D. C. The branch has charge of all rationing for restaurants and other large food users. Since his appointment as area director, he has turned his $8,000 a year salary over to war service organizations.

Isbell intends to devote himself to active management of his seven restaurants. James F. Riley Jr., former insurance executive and Isbell's deputy director, is expected to succeed him. Riley is known as a protege of Sheriff Mulcahy, who set up the Chicago OPA office.

KOSHER MARTS HALT $1 A POUND BUYING OF BLACK MARKET FOWL

With the price of black market chicken at $1 a pound and unscrupulous dealers raiding as far as 150 miles into Indiana to get supplies directly from farmers, more than 300 kosher butchers resolved yesterday to stop dealing in poultry until ceiling levels are restored.

The Kosher Butchers' Association of Chicago, thru its executive secretary, Philip Cohen, issued a statement declaring that kosher butcher shops in Chicago no longer will deal in chickens in an effort to promote compliance with wartime regulations and force fowl back to ceiling prices.

Quentin Johnston, poultry price chief for the regional office of price administration, said his office had filed suits against retailers and wholesalers who have been charging over ceiling prices for chickens.

"We are having trouble with retailers and wholesalers driving into the country and paying illegal prices directly to farmers in an effort to get supplies," he said.

DALEY TO OFFER NEW TERMINAL MEASURE TODAY

Provides for Public Ownership

BY ROBERT HOWARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 1—Public ownership of passenger and freight terminals in Chicago by the Chicago Terminal authority, a new Cook county governmental body, would be provided in a bill which Sen. Daley [D., Chicago] said today he would introduce in the senate tomorrow. Only airport and harbor terminals would be exempted from the scope of the authority.

Broad powers to acquire, construct, reconstruct, improve, own, operate, and maintain terminals would be conferred by Daley's bill. One of the powers would be to force the removal and relocation of public utility structures and appliances. Railroad attorneys waited for printed copies of the bill to see whether that wordage might be used in an attempt to force railroads to use trackage into a proposed union passenger terminal to replace the present four stations south of the loop.

Giffin Co-Sponsor

Daley said that Sen. Giffin [R., Springfield] would be co-sponsor of the bill. On traction and housing bills passed earlier by the senate under the Kelly-Green program for Chicago, Daley's co-sponsor was Rep. Laughlin [R., Freeport], the president pro tem. Republicans did not comment on the terminal bill, altho Gov. Green said last week that he wasn't committed to support it.

In the bill by Daley, who is legislative spokesman for Mayor Kelly, the public interest was announced in this language: "The indiscriminate location and use of diverse and numerous passenger and freight terminals in Cook county contributes to the growth of blight in business and residential property, obstructs the continuity of many public roads and streets, creates traffic congestion upon public roads and streets, impairs the prompt and efficient interchange of passengers and freight, causes undue delay and expense in the transportation of persons and property, and retards the development of commerce and industry."

Money Raising Power

The terminal authority, composed of three men appointed by Kelly and two by Green, wouldn't have taxing power, but could raise money thru sale of revenue certificates under the plan approved by the legislature for the Kelly-Green transit authority.

MEASURE COULD FORCE CHICAGO BUS LINE SALE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 1—Under two new bills introduced today by Sen. Daley [D., Chicago], legislative spokesman for Mayor Kelly, the Chicago Motor Coach company could be compelled to sell out to the Kelly-Green transit authority, which hopes to take over the street car and elevated lines.

One bill would give the authority the right to operate motor buses in the parks and on boulevards of the park district without first getting the park district's permission. Transportation men said that under such a law the bus company would be forced to meet the authority's terms in selling out.

Daley's bills also would give the park district the power to adopt an ordinance giving the transit authority the exclusive right to operate transportation facilities. The authority would be required to pay "reasonable compensation" for damage or wear on park district streets.

THORNTON G.O.P. TO TEST NAMING OF POLICE JUDGE

Appointment of Police Magistrate William B. Kane of Harvey, a Democrat, by Sheriff Mulcahy to sit in the Cook county highway police court at Homewood each Tuesday will face a court test under plans now being prepared by Thornton township Republican leaders.

James Gouwens, Republican township committeeman, said yesterday that Kane's jurisdiction does not extend beyond the limits of Harvey and that he is without authority to act in Homewood. He asserted the place on the highway police court bench should be filled by one of the five Republican justices of the peace elected at the recent election.

Kane will replace Joseph Glewartowski of Calumet City, Democratic justice of the peace who was defeated for reelection. Gouwens insisted that Kane's appointment is based on the fact all Democratic candidates for justice of the peace were defeated and that Kane is a Democrat. Mulcahy said it was "only coincidental" that Kane is a Democrat and added he will welcome a court test of Kane's appointment.

SURFACE LINES REPORT GROSS OF 66 MILLIONS

Judge Michael L. Igoe of the federal District court yesterday received the annual report of the Chicago surface lines, showing gross receipts of $66,771,559 and earnings applicable to bond interest of $5,454,628.

The report, presented by Attorneys William Wilson and Charles Aaron, showed that 14 million dollars had been spent on maintenance and renewals of equipment.

The court gave all interested parties 30 days to file objections to the report.

William H. Sexton, special traction attorney for the city, objected to that part of the report which listed a 5 million dollar franchise and an $800,000 franchise as assets. The surface lines have had no franchisees since 1938, he argued.

NOT MIRACLES BUT . . .

THE HEALING of supposedly incurable diseases, the overcoming of lack, the uncovering of unsuspected capabilities in themselves, and the release from old anxieties and joylessness, which came for multitudes through the work of the Founder of Christianity, were not miracles in the usual sense of the word, Christian Science shows, but results of the utilization of natural, spiritual law.

Proof of this fact appears in the similar results which students of Christian Science are today accomplishing for themselves and others all around the world.

The complete explanation of Christian Science and its method of healing and liberation, which are for all to understand and use, is given in

HOUSE REJECTS 'CON CON' PLAN BY 21 BALLOTS

Chicago city hall 'con' means bunk, the kind of bunk used by a confidence man," Rep. Crowley [R., Peoria] said in the debate preceding the roll call.

"How long are we going to be on the 'nothing' end of a 'something for nothing' game? This is a double strength confidence game, operated against the people of Illinois. If this brazen scheme goes thru, do you know who will control this legislature? Not the people of Chicago, no more than they control the Chicago city council or the school board or park board.

"One man would run it—all of the time, not just once in a while. If you are against one man government for Illinois vote 'No.'"

Rep. Branson [R., Centralia] said real friends of the governor would vote against "con con." In advocating "con con," Gov. Green made a mistake which should be erased as quickly as possible, not perpetuated, he said. Votes of "no" would be against poor advisers of Green who did not counsel him wisely, Branson said.

Reed F. Cutler [R., Lewistown], majority leader the past two sessions, told members to use their intelligence and not be coerced by minority pressure groups.

"If you go ahead and waste two years of the people's time and millions of their money on a constitutional convention the people will just beat hell out of the product as they did in 1922," Cutler said.

Denies Public Demand

Rep. Monroe [D., Collinsville], newspaper publisher, charged Kelly and Green concocted "con con" to divert the public's attention from plans to boost state spending nearly a quarter of a billion dollars above the current biennium.

"There is no demand by the people for this and no dilemma in government," Monroe said.

There were 14 downstate Democrats voting against "con con" on the incomplete roll call. One of the ablest attacks was made by a new member, Rep. Hilvers [D., Rockford], who likened the proposal to a surgical operation when one didn't know the cost, the duration, the results, or the doctor who would wield the scalpel.

Rep. Keller declared that Illinois has not only gained wide fame for its success story, but is known everywhere to have "one of the greatest state constitutions in the union."

Harris Leads Proponents

The main speeches for "con con" were made by Majority Leader Harris and Rep. Rategan, [D., Chicago] who sometimes acts as Mayor Kelly's spokesman in the house.

Harris said it was neither the time nor the place to speculate about the probable contents of a new constitution. The only issue today, he said, was whether the voters should be given the opportunity to decide in the 1946 general election whether they favor holding of a constitutional convention.

Rep. Rategan challenged the top leaders of the Illinois Federation of Labor as to their right to oppose "con con" on behalf of the membership. The CIO is for "con con," he reminded the house.

'45 Vehicle Tax Receipts Are Up $15,834 Over '44

Vehicle tax collections in the first four months of the year exceeded by $15,834 collections in the corresponding period of 1944, City Collector Bauler said yesterday. Thus far $4,217,886 has been received in 1945 compared to $4,202,052 in 1944. Bauler attributed the increase to a police campaign against delinquents.

THIS WEEK'S POST X-RAYS

THE SIXTY-MILLION-JOB MYTH
by Forrest Davis

THE Post's Washington editor takes the sixty-million-job promise apart—unscrambles figures, people and theories—terms it "an instrument of mischief in the hands of the jobocracy".

How the figure of 60,000,000 was hit upon; where it came from; how and why it was later trademarked by Henry Wallace—these and many surprising revelations appear in this deeply penetrating article. Read it—and see the guessing and wishful thinking stripped from America's No. 1 postwar problem.

Part of a Battle
by C. S. Forester

A NERVE-TINGLING drama of raw courage. A gun-side view of the burning carrier Princeton and the destroyer Irwin standing by in an inferno of sea and flame and flying bullets. A battle story of terrific impact—a story to make you proud of Navy men.

THREE YEARS OUTSIDE THIS WORLD
by Lt. Eunice F. Young, U. S. Army Nurse Corps, as told to Frank J. Taylor

THREE years under the stare of stolid, emotionless Japanese eyes. An army nurse, captured at Corregidor, relates the first hand story of life at Santo Tomas—of starvation and deprivation—of Jap trickery and lies. A story for "those who don't know what liberty means, because they have always had it."

THE QUESTION
by Dana Burnet

"WHY does our boys have to go and git kilt to keep God's world in order?" This is the current, moving story of a mother who asked the most frightening question ever asked about God. To many, it will bring peace of heart and new spirit.

'STALIN STOOGE' IS EXPOSED BY POLISH LEADER

Denies Agitator's Role at Global Parley

Leo Krzycki, quoted Monday in a San Francisco news dispatch to be representing himself at the allied nations security conference as the "unofficial eyes and voice of the workers of Poland," yesterday in Chicago was classified "a professional patriot and a soviet stooge" seeking crumbs from Russia's largess.

Stanley E. Basinski, 4915 S. Ashland av., president of the Polish American Business Men's association, who denounced the 65 year old vice president of Sidney Hillman's Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, said he had known Krzycki for many years.

"Once Krzycki was a pretty good fellow," Basinski said, "but apparently he has aged too fast to continue to remain good. He does not represent any Poles. He represents only Joe Stalin. Poor fellow, he must be in his second childhood."

Looking for Recompense

Basinski, national leader in numerous Polish-American fraternal organizations used the expression "professional patriot" as applying to Sidney Hillman's aid to mean, he said, that Krzyski, with a handful of Ukranians, was possibly hoping to cash in on Russia's recent territorial conquests.

"He is just a soviet stooge working for Sidney Hillman," the Polish-American leader reiterated.

The San Francisco news report said Krzyski told newspapermen at a press conference that he brought greetings to the security conference from the premier of the soviet sponsored Warsaw [Lublin] government, and that he had cablegrams from Polish workers whom he described as living inside Russia.

Strike Agitator in Chicago

Krzycki was born in Poland and is remembered in Milwaukee, Wis., where he formerly lived, as an active socialist.

He is remembered in Chicago as the CIO representative who made a rabble rousing speech that on May 30, 1937, started rioters on their march against the Republic Steel company's South Chicago plant. In the subsequent clash with police 10 of the strike mob were killed or later died of wounds suffered in the melee.

At the time of the riot, Krzycki was associated with Joseph R. Weber, alias Hudson, Judson, Ray and Ruick, another CIO organizer, who had been graduated in 1929 from the Lenin school in Moscow, where he majored in strike strategy and revolutionary tactics.

He also was one of the organizers of the 1937 strike at the Fansteel Metallurgical company plant in North Chicago. On June 1, 1937, when 12 of the Republic Steel rioters were taken before Judge Thomas A. Green, in South Chicago municipal court, Judge Green said:

"What the policemen should have done was to arrest Leo Krzycki, as he was the one who incited the whole affair."

Ex-Waukegan Mayor Named by Liquor Body

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 1—Mancel Talcott, former mayor of Waukegan, was appointed supervisor of the Illinois Liquor Control commission today by Chairman Chales J. Fleck. He succeeds William P. Buchanan, Peoria insurance man. Talcott is preparing to inspect European battlegrounds as national chairman of the American Legion's Graves registration committee and for the last two years he has been supervisor of the public school lunch program in the office of the state superintendent of public instruction.

$6,000 FIRE DAMAGES TWO BUILDINGS

Two two and one-half story frame buildings at 4014-16 State st. were damaged last night by a fire that Acting Chief Michael Cody said was caused by sparks from burning rubbish in the alley behind the buildings. He estimated total damage at $6,000.

4 COMMISSIONS NAMED TO DRAFT WORLD CHARTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 1—The allied security conference today put Belgium, South Africa, Norway, and Venezuela in charge of four major commissions which will draft its charter for a world organization. Each of the commissions has several committees. The commissions with their chairmen are:

General provisions of the peace league charter—Belgium; general assembly—South Africa; security council—Norway; judicial organization—Venezuela.

The committees under the first commission are: Preamble, purposes and principles—Ukrainia; membership and general provisions—Costa Rica.

The committees of the second commission are: Structure and procedure—Turkey; political and security functions—Bolivia; economic and social coöperation—India; trusteeships—New Zealand.

Under the third commission the committees are: Structure and procedure—Greece; peaceful settlement—Uruguay; enforcement arrangements—Ecuador; regional arrangements—Colombia.

The fourth commission has two committees: International court—Peru; legal problems—Egypt.

San Francisco, Cal., May 1 (AP)—White Russian and Ukrainian delegations to the world security conference are due by the end of the week by plane from Moscow.

PARLEY TO SCAN EUROPEAN PACT BY FOUR NATIONS

BY ARTHUR EVANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 1.—A rehalibitation pact signed by France, Belgium, Luxemburg, and the Netherlands, is among the regional agreements which will come before the San Francisco security conference. The agreement among these four western European nations was signed March 20. Under the Dumbarton Oaks plan, such agencies must have the approval of the proposed new league of nations as being consistent with its principles and aims.

The delegation from the Netherlands, one of the signatories, declares the pact is not a military or political entente, but simply an agreement among the four countries to work together in economic reconstruction after the war, and in employment and social security questions. At the time the agreement was made some European circles were reported as regarding it as groundwork for a political entente.

Distributed at Conference

Copies of an announcement issued by the French foreign office in Paris last March 21, dealing with the four nation economic consultations agreement, as it was termed, have been distributed at the conference here. The announcement said:

"Desiring to resolve their restoration in the spirit of international coöperation and hoping in the future to contribute to the development of a working economic activity, the four parties have decided to coöperate in lending reciprocal aid and to conciliate their interests.

Common Recources

"The governments concerned are desirous of utilizing their common, disposable resources in the best way, and favor—as far as each party is concerned—the progressive resumption of international trade.

"An economic coöperation board will be constituted in order to study these problems and to propose solutions to the four governments. The board will study the possibility of coördination of policy in the matter of social security and full employment of man power. Delegations will designate commissions of experts, and a permanent secretariat will be charged with liaison between the governments, the economic coöperation board, and the commissions."

FORMER SALESMAN KILLS SELF

Charles L. Saul, 52, of 840 Ainslie st., a former salesman, ended his life yesterday in the kitchen of his apartment by inhaling illuminating gas. A note to his wife, Mrs. Maude Saul, said failing health prompted his act. A son, Lester, was killed in France. Another son, Edwin, is in the army, now in Germany.

VET OF BRITISH ARMY IS AID TO U.S. AT PARLEY

Represents Viewpoint of Fighting Man

BY WILLARD EDWARDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 1—An American born veteran of the British army is serving here as a state department consultant on the attitude of the United States soldier toward an international organization to maintain world peace.

He is Charles G. Bolte of New York City who joined the British army in June, 1941, six months before Pearl Harbor, served in the middle east, and lost a leg at El Alamein. He returned to this country to organize the American veterans' committee which was given the official recognition of the state department and invited to appoint consultants to the American delegation.

At a press conference today the youthful Bolte assailed "crippling reservations" to the Dumbarton Oaks charter, such as the one which would require the United States delegates to obtain congressional approval of wars by the international army upon a nation labeled an aggressor.

Consulted with Stassen

Bolte said he had consulted with Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, member of the American delegation

The American veterans' committee has only 2,500 members, Bolte said, having been formally organized four months ago, but it is hoped to make it the American Legion of World War II. He repudiated a suggestion for collaboration with the Legion, asserting "the gaps between the two generations are too great and our program goes further than the Legion's."

With Bolte as "associate consultants" are Pvt. Alfred M. Lilienthal, 31, also of New York City, who is on furlough from a convalescent hospital after 11 months in Italy and Egypt with the American forces, and Arthur W. Coats Jr., 30, discharged from the chemical warfare division in September, 1943.

Petition Stettinius

State Secretary Stettinius, head of the American delegation, was presented last night with a memorial from the committee which called for the establishment of an international veterans' council in the new world organization.

Bolte said he believed himself qualified to express the American soldier's viewpoint, altho he himself had not served in the United States forces. The soldier's attitude was international, he asserted, remarking that great interest had been expressed in the objectives of his veterans' committee in Canada, Great Britain, and Russia.

U. S. DELEGATION SUPPORTS SOLE RULE OF BASES

supported three votes for Russia and the admission of Fascist Argentina under duress, Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] said.

"Some things had to be done that were repulsive to me and to the other members of the delegation. But they had to be done for the sake of achieving our great purpose here. And I want to say with regard to Secretary Stettinius that in these matters he has acted like a thorobred and has my total support."

A Military Guard

With mysterious hints that reporters should watch to see what happened, the press officer at the militarily guarded Russian headquarters on the tenth floor of the St. Francis hotel refused to affirm or deny the report of Molotov's impending departure.

It was confirmed indirectly by Secretary Stettinius, who said that he never had expected that Molotov would stay in San Francisco very long. He said the Russian foreign minister had now been here a week and he expected that Molotov would be here a few days longer.

A Roosevelt Obligation

Molotov's one success in the conference was the admission of the White Russian and Ukrainian soviet republics, giving Russia three votes in the new peace league and in the conference. In reality, however, he did not win this victory. This success was assured when the American delegation decided to support three votes for Russia as an obligation incurred by Mr. Roosevelt at Yalta which America was in good faith bound to honor and when Stettinius and Nelson Rockefeller brought the Latin Americans, theretofore disposed to oppose the arrangement, into line for it.

Molotov was overwhelmingly defeated in his attempt to get Russia's Polish puppet government admitted to the conference and in his effort to block the admission of Argentina.

British Foreign Secretary Eden expects to return to London at no distant date. Stettinius, however, will remain on the job here till the conclusion of the conference.

The American delegation's trusteeship proposal has been transmitted to Eden, Molotov, and Chinese Foreign Minister Soong, by whom it will be considered on Thursday and then made public.

Conference leaders have decided that only the machinery of the new league of nations trusteeships shall be constructed at San Francisco and that there shall be no consideration of the specific territories to be placed under this form of government. The assignment of territories to trusteeship is a matter to be dealt with by the allied powers at the peace conference and in subsequent international agreements.

The territories to be placed under trusteeships fall into three categories:

1. Territories taken from Germany and its allies after the first World war and assigned to allied powers under mandates of the league of nations. Among such territories are the former German colonies in Africa, for which Great Britain was given mandates.

2. Territories taken from the axis powers in this war, such as the Japanese Volcano and Ryukyu Islands and the Marshall, Caroline, and Marianas archipelagoes for which Japan had the mandate; also Libya and other Italian colonies in Africa.

3. Territories such as British India, Burma and Malaya, The Netherlands East Indies and French Indo-China that might desire voluntarily to be placed under a league of nations trusteeship.

Consider U. S. Security

In framing its trusteeship proposals the American delegation took into account the following four considerations:

1. The security of the United States.
2. World security and stability of world relationships.
3. Dependent peoples.
4. World access to natural resources.

The adoption of its plan by the American delegation followed an adjustment of the divergent views of the war and navy departments on the one hand and the state department on the other. The state department held to the view that all territories taken from the enemy, including the Pacific islands, should be placed in a trusteeship under which the United States, if made trustee, would be responsible to the new peace league for administration of the areas.

The war and navy departments favored outright cession to the United States of the Japanese islands and archipelagos for military bases for our national defense. They contended that it would be contrary to national interest to establish a system under which the league powers could interfere with our control of bases required for vital defense and even take them away from us and turn them over to another nation.

Cite Atlantic Charter

The state department argued that outright cession of the islands to the United States would contravene the Atlantic Charter's renunciation of territorial aggrandizement. The navy retorted that the acquisition by the United States of some scattered pinpoints in the Pacific of no economic value could hardly be classed as territorial aggrandizement while Russia's annexation of more than one-third of Poland is not.

The state department dodged that one but proposed a compromise to which the war and navy departments finally agreed under pressure by President Truman. Under this compromise the Pacific islands would be placed under a trusteeship with the United States presumably the trustee.

That having been done, the United States would obtain a leasehold for such areas in the islands it needed for military bases. The United States does not own the canal zone, which consists of a strip five miles wide on each side of the canal. The republic of Panama owns the zone but has granted the right of occupation to the United States under a treaty providing for an initial payment of 10 million dollars by the United States and $250,000 a year thereafter. The United States has sole control in the zone.

Similar exclusive control of bases and freedom from interference would be granted the United States as trustee of the Pacific islands.

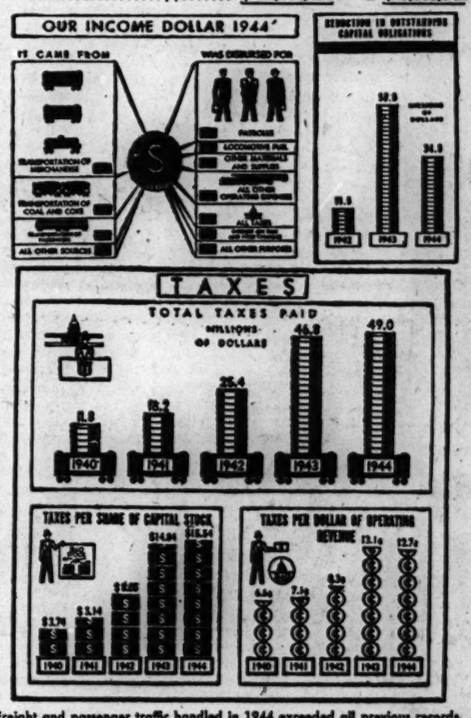
Total	$ 20,914,438	D $ 9,595,042



Freight and passenger traffic handled in 1944 exceeded all previous records, due largely to the heavy tonnage of war supplies, troop movements and other war travel. Totals were 147,314,981 tons and 14,303,937 passengers.

The tremendous task of moving this extremely heavy traffic volume was accomplished through the continued cooperation of the various agencies of the Government, shippers, and the public generally, in the conservation of equipment and manpower and in meeting the unusual war-time conditions.

Operating Revenues—$387,193,036, and Operating Expenses—$287,068,754—were highest in the Company's history.

The Company's tax bill at $48,984,845, was larger in 1944 than ever before.

During 1944 debt of the Company was reduced by $34,801,828. Total debt reduction during the last three years was more than $105,000,000.

The President and Directors acknowledge with grateful appreciation the loyalty and cooperation of stockholders and others interested in the Company's success; the Army, Navy and other agencies of the Government; our patrons, whose patriotic understanding of present day conditions has been most helpful; and, the officers and employees, without whose enthusiastic support we could not have accomplished the tremendous task of 1944.

More than 16,000 employees of the Company have been furloughed for military service and more than 130 of these have given their lives for their country.

VETO CRITICIZED, MOLOTOV WALKS OUT OF MEETING

Fraser Hits at Power of Big Nations.

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 1 — A double feature program of plenary sessions at the international security conference brought a stern request for a "declaration of human rights" in the world charter at the afternoon session and a bitter denunciation at the evening session of the veto power granted the great nations in the security council, which was the signal for Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov to walk out of the San Francisco Opera house in an apparent huff.

Molotov's hasty retreat occurred at the night session, presided over by T. V. Soong of China, one of the conference presidents. The afternoon meeting was conducted by State Secretary Stettinius.

Smuts Asks Bill of Rights

Field Marshal Smuts of South Africa called for the bill of rights in the opening speech of the afternoon session. Peter Fraser, prime minister of New Zealand and chairman of his delegation, was speaking when Molotov walked out.

Fraser had said that veto powers for the Big Five permanent members of the security council were not only wrong but "ridiculously and absurdly wrong." He said that it was legally possible for a nation with veto power to defy the council and that if such power was used "defiantly or even cynically" the world would suffer.

AFTERNOON SESSION

As the afternoon session began, Stettinius, who was presiding, recognized Dr. Guillermo Belt, committee reporter-secretary, who read the credentials committee report. It was approved without objection. Then Dr. Belt read the steering committee report on conference organization and the appointment of chairmen of the working groups, which was gaveled thru without a murmur from the delegations. The business session consumed only 10 minutes. Stettinius then announced that the alphabetical routine would be interrupted in honor of Marshal Smuts, who was one of the architects of the old league of nations.

Wears Uniform

Smuts, who is 75, strode briskly down the center aisle to the speaker's stand, shaking Stettinius' hand as he passed the rostrum. He wore a khaki field marshal's uniform with red collar and shoulder tabs and four or five rows of campaign ribbons. His sharp, white goatee and gold rimmed glasses glistened in the lights of the movie camera crews.

Smuts called the old league of nations a "noble effort," and said it failed only in one respect, that it did not prevent war. It failed, he said, because "we lived and thought in a political world and did not foresee the economic and social upheavals which were to change the very basis of our society."

Nobody, for instance, expected the United States of America would refuse to enter the league and to allow it to drift on the rocks in the dangerous post-war seas, as in the absence of the United States of America it was bound to do," he added.

Great Powers' Responsibility

"The Dumbarton Oaks charter, on the other hand, realistically recognizes that war must be prevented at the start, and that no half measures to that end will suffice. That being so, it also recognizes in the same spirit of realism, that a new responsibility for peace must be placed on the great powers."

He drew a big round of applause when he declared: "I would suggest that the charter should contain at the very outset and in its preamble, a declaration of human rights and of the common faith which has sustained the allied peoples in their bitter and prolonged struggle for the vindication of those rights and that faith.

"It has been a war of ideologies, of conflicting philosophies of life and conflicting faiths. In the deepest sense it has been a war of religion, perhaps more so than any other war of history."

Blatta Ephrem Tewelde Medhen, Ethiopian minister to the United States, who followed Smuts, chronicled the history of his country's experience with aggression, during the Italo-Ethiopian war. He called for a league security council which would "vote promptly without interruptions and delays." He said there must not again be the "spoliation by procedure" which Ethiopia suffered under the powerless old league of nations.

"I proposed marriage to her, but still she wouldn't sell me a package of cigarets."

Explains French Stand

Georges Bidault, foreign affairs minister and chairman of the French delegation, gave the delegates in flawless French the official De Gaulle explanation of why France failed to join as one of the sponsoring powers of this global meeting.

"The particular position of France at the conference has raised much comment," he said. "Some people thought they detected a somewhat negative attitude, some ulterior motive, or some show of ill humor. This position is simply due to our desire to be honest with ourselves and with those who place their trust in us.

"Faced with decisions with which he had not been associated, and some of which we knew nothing about, we had to decline the offer made to us that we should recommend a system on which we were not fully informed; but this in no way signifies that at this conference we do not mean to play our due part thoroly, or that we intend to renounce the rank which is ours, and which I repeat, the misfortunes of yesterday have not promoted us to give up today."

Bidault also promised that "the French government will not initiate anything which might result in complicating action decided in common by the great powers concerned," and said that "for the moment" France will raise no objections to the veto power of the large nations accorded in the Dumbarton Oaks charter and its Yalta amendments.

Wears Brilliant Tunic

While Bidault was speaking a large officer wearing a brilliant, spotless, off-white tunic with gold epaulets wandered into the Netherlands' delegation row. Applause interrupted Bidault several times from the delegates who understood French. Dean Gildersleeve and Comdr. Stassen of the American delegation were among those who applauded. Eden, who sat in front of them, did not.

Stettinius next introduced a group of about 50 wounded war veterans from Letterman General hospital who were seated in the rear of the orchestra beneath the balcony. These boys, several of whom had amputations, were wearing red hospital dungarees. Stettinius asked them to stand, but instead, the delegates jumped up, turned around to look at the soldiers, and gave them a two minute ovation.

The afternoon session adjourned after brief speeches by Guillermo Toriello, Guatemalan chairman, Gerard E. Lescot of Haiti, Arshad Al-Omari of Iraq, and Hasan Saka of Turkey.

NIGHT SESSION

Chinese Foreign Minister Soong opened the evening plenary session 10 minutes late, striding briskly onto the conference stage at 8:40. The big main floor auditorium was so empty it was difficult to distinguish more than one or two of the prominent world diplomats.

Soviet Ambassador Gromyko was the only delegate in the Russian, British, or American sections. Soon, however, British Foreign Secretary Eden, Stettinius, and Molotov, flanked by the Russian interpreter, V. Pavlov, marched down a side aisle.

Their entry created the first major flurry of the session. Delegates scurried about and stood up for a look, and galleryites craned their necks. When the three sat down informally in the same row, photographers climbed over seats to get one of the first such pictures of the conference leaders.

All attention was centered on the stellar cast in this ninth row of the opera house orchestra while Dr. Guillemo Belt, chairman of the Cuban delegation, reported that Cuba opposes the establishment of permanent members in the world council, and thinks that decisions of the proposed international court of justice ought to be compulsory for all.

Address in French

Joseph Bech, chairman of the Luxemburg delegation, followed Dr. Belt to the front of the theater and his address in French gave the crowd a chance to concentrate on Eden, Stettinius, and Molotov. The Big Three diplomats passed a note back and forth, and then back to Comdr. Stassen, an American delegate, who sat in the row behind. Stassen handed it to a Red Cross girl runner.

Peter Fraser, prime minister and chairman of the New Zealand delegation, followed Bech. The first part of his talk, a long list of tributes to the late President Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt, Cordell Hull, and then the armies of the great and smaller powers, gave Stettinius opportunity for a chat with Molotov thru the interpreter.

Fraser said that while New Zealand on the whole thought the Dumbarton Oaks charter "admirable," there were several defects, one of which was "absence of any definite plan to protect one another from aggression" and "no declaration that the security of member nations is the objective."

He said that he also found no evidence that the principles of the Atlantic Charter would be included in the peace plan and declared that "some guarantee of international good conduct is unfortunately missing in the present proposal."

Flash Bulb Explodes

About that time an army photographer leaned out of a box to make a picture of Eden, Stettinius, and Molotov. A flash bulb on his camera exploded with a loud report which startled the audience, guests, and delegates alike.

This flurry was just dying down when Fraser reached a point in his discourse that brought the crowd up short. New Zealand was not too hopeful about the new league of nations, he said. New Zealand opposed any veto power by the great powers. New Zealand regarded it "not only as wrong but ridiculously and absurdly wrong."

Molotov Walks Out

Molotov, who had been sitting in quiet comeraderie with the other two top diplomats, enjoying the slaps on the back Stettinius gave him when the might of Russia's war accomplishments were mentioned, got to his feet and walked quickly out of the theater.

The night session wound up with an address by Carracillo Parra Perez, chairman of the Venezuelan delegation, who spoke in French without a translation.

China Will Yield Veto Power If Others Do, Soong Asserts

BY EUGENE GRIFFIN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, May 1—China will yield its right to vote the use of force against itself by an international security council if the other big four powers also will surrender their veto powers under the Yalta compromise formula, Dr. T. V. Soong, foreign minister and chairman of the Chinese delegation to the allied nations' conference, said today.

Marshal Stalin demanded at Yalta that Russia be allowed to stop compulsory action by a world police force, and the power of veto then was given also to the United States, Great Britain and China.

Others Must Yield Too

Dr. Soong was asked at a press conference if China is willing to permit the use of force against itself as a means of preventing aggression and war. He said China will agree to give up its veto if the other powers surrender their veto rights.

Suave and urbane, Dr. Soong drew frequent applause and laughs at one of the largest press conferences held here by any delegation.

Dr. Soong turned aside many embarrassing questions with oriental wit.

"Does the Atlantic Charter apply to India and Asia?" he was asked.

"Those who formed the Atlantic Charter will be better qualified to answer that," he said smiling.

"Why did China refrain from voting on the ticklish question of admitting Argentina to the conference yesterday?"

"I am very glad to answer that," he said, with a twinkle in his eye. "We telegraphed home for instructions, and do you know, the instructions did not arrive in time for us to vote."

Not Blindly Following U. S.

Another question was: "Has China agreed to vote with the United States on all questions at the conference?"

"I don't think that any delegation would care to follow blindly any other delegation," Soong replied.

"Is it reasonable to expect Russia to enter the war against Japan?"

"For me to answer that would be trespassing on the prerogative of my good friend Mr. Molotov."

"Do you think any good leaders will arise in Japan and reclaim that country for the good of society?"

"I might be a Chinese," Dr. Soong said, "but I'm from Missouri and I have to be shown."

China's Soong Comments on Hitler and Destiny

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 1—Comment of T. V. Soong, minister for foreign affairs, chairman of the Chinese delegation, on report that Hitler is dead: "Hitler prophesied that he had settled the destiny of Germany for 1,000 years; he spoke only too truly, but he did not know what he was saying."

WOUNDED WITH CANADIANS

OTTAWA, Ont., May 1 [AP]—The Canadain army announced today that Pvt. George A. Phillips, Detroit, Mich., had been wounded overseas. Warrant Officer Exra Gershater, Omaha, Neb., previously reported a prisoner of war, was reported safe.

SENATORS TO GO TO PARLEY OVER TRUSTEE ISSUE

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP)—A senate naval subcommittee will go to San Francisco tomorrow to discuss post-war Pacific naval and air bases with the American delegation to the security conference.

Disclosing this today, Chairman Walsh [D., Mass.] of the naval committee said he thought the consensus of the views the senators will give the delegation is that this country should retain outright any islands wrested from Japan and needed as bases.

"I think the members of our committee are generally opposed to the idea of an international trusteeship for such bases," Walsh added. "I anticipate that they will endeavor to impress that view upon the delegation."

Walsh designated to the subcommittee Senators Byrd [D., Va.], Eastland [D., Miss.], McClellan [D., Ark.], and Tobey [R., N. H.].

THE VOICE OF A BILLION CAPTIVES

Carlos Romulo, speaking for the Philippines, made one of the few notable addresses that have been heard thus far at the San Francisco conference. His remarks drew great, spontaneous bursts of applause, from which he could take the greatest satisfaction. These were tributes to him as a personality and to the valiant people he represents and, beyond that, they were a recognition of the essential soundness and decency of the opinions he expressed.

Mr. Romulo was the spokesman, as he intimated, of a billion orientals held in colonial subjection. There is an Indian delegation at San Francisco, but it was chosen by the British rulers of India. There is no one at San Francisco with even a nominal claim to speak for the millions of Burmese and the other millions living in the Dutch and British East Indies and for still other millions subject to alien rule in Indo-China, Malaya, and Korea. All these people have been denied their independence and have been excluded from the conference as if they had nothing to expect of it and nothing to offer it.

Only a Filipino could undertake to represent them because only the Filipinos have been released from the colonial yoke. Mr. Romulo did not have to say explicitly that his people was the only one of the colonial peoples to have made a real fight against the Japanese invaders. The conference knew that and the delegates and the spectators knew why it was so. The Japanese were welcomed as liberators to Burma and Java and would have been welcomed to India. They were not welcome in the Philippines. The islanders never stopped fighting the invader because they knew that they had everything to gain from an American victory and nothing but exploitation and humiliation to expect if the Japs came out on top.

"Today," said Mr. Romulo, "one billion oriental faces are turned pleadingly toward us for recognition of their human rights. It is their hope and their prayer that the peace . . . will help raise them to a plane of living where they can become not merely bystanders but effective collaborators in the promotion of human welfare and the maintenance of peace."

This is the viewpoint not only of the oppressed millions in Asia but also of the overwhelming majority of the American people. That was why the gallery cheered Mr. Romulo and why, again, it cheered Mr. Molotov when, in the debate over the seating of Argentina and Poland, he said:

"We have here among us an Indian delegation. As is well known, India is not an independent country. We all understand that the time will come when the voice of an independent India will be heard, but we comply with the request of the British government to invite India to this conference."

The reporters noted that the delegates chuckled in enjoyment of a shrewd debating point, but the gallery burst into applause in frank approval of the sentiment.

To the American people the colonial system is a hateful thing. Americans cannot look with favor upon an international organization dedicated to holding great masses of men in unwilling subjection to self-appointed overlords and exploiters.

INGRATITUDE

This country's altruism is receiving a poor reward. Our armies have been used in two foreign wars and our influence exerted for a generation in behalf of the liberation or independence of other countries. But memory is short overseas. The latest proof is provided by Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of Eire.

David Gray, the American minister to Eire, distributed a news story concerning the deaths of four Irish priests who were killed by the Japanese in Manila. The story was sent in the form of a letter to all Dublin newspapers. De Valera's rigid censorship ordered deletions, leaving possible the inference that Americans were responsible for the deaths of the priests.

All of the Dublin newspapers except that owned by De Valera were honorable enough to return the letter to Gray in its censored form, asking if he would acquiesce to printing it as deleted. When Gray objected they refrained from publishing the distorted account. De Valera's paper printed the censored story. Gray has properly protested this attempt to bring odium upon his country.

De Valera has chosen to forget that if it were not for American pressure brought upon England after the first World war there is slight possibility that the cause of Irish freedom would have succeeded, or that he himself would be the leader of the Irish nation. He has done this country a serious, and, it would seem, a calculated disservice.

Czechoslovakia was organized in this country, which for many years gave asylum to the late Thomas Masaryk, the first president of Czechoslovakia. He was a professor here in Chicago, and it was in Washington, on Oct. 18, 1918, that he proclaimed the independence of the Czechs. His wife, Charlotte Garrigue, was an American.

Now their son, Jan Masaryk, the Czech foreign minister, addressing the San Francisco conference, does not choose to stress that Czechoslovakia is free only because of American interposition, but praises Prime Minister Churchill and Stalin's Russia. Churchill, he said, was "the voice of all decent people" after Dunkirk, and Russia is Czechoslovakia's "greatest ally."

"One of the good qualities of Czechoslovakia," Masaryk said, "is that we know how to be grateful."

France owes its salvation in 1917-'18 and its liberation in this war to the United States. But Gen. de Gaulle, in his imperialist mania, has been impeding the operations of the American 7th army by his insistence on seizing and holding the communications and supply center of Stuttgart in order to further his claims to the Saarland and southwest Germany. Gen. Devers was compelled to issue a communique accusing the American-equipped French 1st army of staging a sit-down strike in the city.

The French are still receiving charity from us, yet they encroach upon the operational zone of our army in Germany and obstruct our military movements, displaying an interest only in territorial aggrandizement and not in finishing the war.

It need hardly occasion surprise if the disposition already generally manifested to disregard America's past services and unselfishness and regard us merely as unwelcome interlopers should spread. That has been the course of conduct by Europeans on all occasions. We have our uses, but the attitude is that not even a thank you is required.

THE DEBATING SOCIETY

The report on the status of the food investigation undertaken by the senate agricultural committee is typical of the present trouble with congress as a whole. "A majority of the full committee," it is stated, "apparently was convinced some action was needed, but its form was not certain." So the committee goes on investigating and debating.

Congress is getting nowhere. What the country wants is action, not investigation and more investigation, talk and more talk. There is a paralysis of will in the legislative branch. Its perpetual affliction seems to be indecision. It never gets around to resolving any of the problems that harass the country. It looks at them from one angle, and then from another. It speculates; it considers this solution or that. But in the end it does nothing.

Its inertia is all the more incomprehensible because the climate now favors legislative action and reform. President Truman spent many years in congress. He knows that the function of the senate and the house is to make laws—to pass legislation that is required, to repeal measures that are unnecessary or that are hamstringing the nation. He has promised congress cooperation, informed its members that he is willing to be advised by them, and virtually invited Capitol hill to recapture its initiative. Is it impossible for the legislators to get out of the habit of dependence, of always waiting for orders?

The food situation is crying for remedial action. Not only is the senate investigating it, but so is the house. The house committee "may" demand that rule over the food supply be taken from OPA. But the investigating committee doesn't say that it will. Instead, it is expected that there will be another report. Reports we have in abundance; food is rather more scarce.

An anomaly of the whole situation is that the burocrats in the hundred and one agencies suffer no lack of confidence. They write regulations with the effect of laws in the most offhand way. They blithely pursue the course of disregarding congress entirely and arrive at solutions which they themselves, sitting in sole judgment, say are good. The people know they're not. They look to congress for relief. But all congress does is debate some more.

If the country is ever to get back on an even keel and pursue a sensible course, the 531 gentlemen in the house and senate will have to get rid of the mental road block which for so long has prevented them from getting anywhere. The people elected them to legislate. It's time they start doing what they were sent to Washington to do.

THEY PLANNED THIS FOR YOU, TOO

The only persons to whom the current shortage of sugar should be a surprise are the little minds in Washington who call themselves planners.

The sugar trade has been warning the planners of an impending shortage for two years or more. Its warnings have gone unheeded. American sugar producers have protested in vain against continued application of quotas limiting their production, under the policy originated as part of Henry Wallace's scarcity economics. Producers in Cuba were discouraged from increasing their production. They were told that if they raised more sugar, transportation wouldn't be available to move it to market.

Now the nation is suddenly informed that there is a great need for sugar in the liberated countries of Europe. That, of course, is something that a planner couldn't possibly have foreseen. As usual, it is the American consumer who pays for the shortsightedness of his own public officials.

THE R. O. T. C. IN GARY

By order of the Gary school board R. O. T. C. training is no longer compulsory for boys in Gary high schools. The change is not effective, however, until the start of the 1946-'47 school year. A Gary member of the American Legion calls attention to the incongruity of hampering the R. O. T. C. program at the very time that it has proved its great effectiveness by helping its graduates to quicker promotion after their entrance into the army.

It is not apparent who counseled the school board in this silly action. Long observation has demonstrated, however, that the people most active in preventing this country from preparing for its own defense are equally active in urging that we take on international commitments designed to get us into trouble all over the world.

"Man's superior intelligence is best proved by the fact that he is the only animal that laughs," says a psychologist. This so-called evidence is insufficient and inconclusive. Nine times out of ten when he laughs it's because of some fool thing another man did.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WAITING FOR THE END

[Written after midnight, May 1.]

People are still asking us now and then what V-E day means. Any one who has staggered thru the Alphabet Deal for 12 years ought to be able to guess, of course, but the fact remains that full-blown, lucid English is always preferable to code. Victory-Europe will arouse more cheers than V-E.

It will be taken calmly, we believe; perhaps so quietly that worriers over an outbreak of bedlam will be surprised. Last Saturday night, when there was a small flurry of public elation over a mistaken report that Germany had surrendered, we traveled across Chicago from the far south side to farthest north, on crowded trains, and did not hear a word spoken about the matter.

* * *

This has not been a cheering war; its civilian emotions have always been under control. Great victories have caused no dancing in the streets, or smiling, either, as far as this column's observations have gone. When V-E, which has been inevitable for weeks, is officially confirmed, we do not look for demonstrations that will recall Armistice day of 1918. It will be only the halfway post to V-J, which means, if you can't guess, Victory-Japan.

About 10 days ago Marcia Winn, wise girl, wrote a column to have on hand for V-E day. It was called "The Long Day Is Ending," and dealt with the subject of Nazi extinction in terms of the Teutonic legends that end with the Twilight of the Gods. She became doubtful about the time factor and decided to print her article last Saturday. The next day brought the news that Mussolini had perished.

CRIMSON VISITOR

The cardinal comes to our window
At dusk, with a flutter of wings;
On nuthatch and sparrow
His views are quite narrow,
He scolds at the poor little things.

Our feeding tray's his, he supposes;
The squirrel who rudely intrudes
Has advantage of bulk,
Makes the cardinal sulk
Till his ire every feather exudes.

At last, all alone in his grandeur,
He settles and ruffles his crest;
Eating seeds, this bold bird
Looks a trifle absurd,
But we're proud that he comes as our guest.

Casual

In Shakespeare's Garden

If you enter Lincoln park from Webster av. you will come upon one of the most delightful spots in Chicago. Right there is the statue of Shakespeare. He holds a book, with a finger marking his place, but he gazes in dreamy contemplation over the gardens that surround him. These gardens are a profusion of soft colors during June, July, and August. They are laid out in small, irregular beds, separated by grass plots. About a week ago, in time for the Bard's birthday, the violets and snowdrops blossomed.

Our family likes to wander down the maze of paths. Davy wondered if this were an English garden and if these flowers came originally from England, maybe even from Stratford-on-Avon. To settle the question we called the conservatory and were told that they called it "the grandmother's garden," but since so many seeds and plants had been brought over here from England in former years, and since the garden was laid out informally, we could think of it as an English garden.

Whatever one calls it, we understand why Mr. Shakespeare never seems to be able to go back to his reading! Cinder Ella of Rogers Park

Mrs. A. K. writes: "Who gets the larger salary, a first lieutenant or a warrant officer? Both are overseas. Is the warrant officer considered a commissioned officer?"

A warrant officer, junior grade, receives a base pay of $1,800, the same as a first lieutenant. A chief warrant officer receives $2,100, except masters, army mine planter service, and chief engineers. A warrant officer receives a warrant from the United States government rather than a commission. Both receive an additional 10 per cent of base pay for overseas service. A warrant officer is addressed as mister.

Mrs. W. J. W. writes: "I have read that there is an army rule that a sole surviving son can apply for nonhazardous army duty. My son, an only child, recently was liberated from a German prison camp. Can he apply for a nonhazardous assignment?"

A joint statement by the army and navy last week said remaining members of families that have lost two or more members in the war will be assigned to nonhazardous duty on their request or that of an immediate relative. The departments said that in cases where the service man is the sole surviving son he will be returned to the United States for permanent assignment.

STIFLE THAT SNEEZE

DURING the last 10 years the medical profession has been confronted with an increasing percentage of patients with respiratory diseases. It has been estimated that one-third of the number of days lost to industry can be laid on the doorstep of these maladies. On the basis of 300 working days per year, this waste is equivalent to the time of 470,000 persons working for one year. With the present man shortage this has proved a real hazard to our war effort.

Because of rubber and gasoline rationing more and more of us must commute by train, street car, and bus, thus exposing ourselves to colds. Crowded, confined places of amusement provide another source. Chilling and exposure to drafts, especially after being overheated, play a role.

Colds are more common in autumn and spring. Unfortunately, we do not become immune. Certain individuals are unusually susceptible and have two to four bouts a year regularly. Others are rarely bothered.

Two types of germs are active in producing this disorder. A virus is considered the primary cause. This organism is responsible for early symptoms consisting of generalized aching, chilly sensations, headache, and sneezing. The throat may feel sore and the nose "stuffed up." It is during this period that bacterial invaders [streptococci and staphylococci] — already present in the mouth—become active and join in the fight. Soon they get the upper hand and aggravate the existing condition. The tissues in the throat may become so swollen that swallowing is difficult. The watery nasal discharge often increases and becomes thicker. This infection may spread to the ears, the sinuses, or the lungs. As a rule, after four or five days, improvement is noted.

How are colds passed along? Sneezing, coughing, and speaking vigorously will expel into the air thousands of germs. Thru high speed photography and special lights, these "showers" can be visualized. An ordinary sneeze throws approximately 20,000 infected droplets into the atmosphere. Some of these travel as far as three feet and may remain for hours or days in the air of enclosed spaces. By holding the bare hand in front of the lips fewer particles are atomized into the air; when a handkerchief is used, pollution is almost insignificant.

As the treatment of colds cannot be considered specific, our attention must be turned toward prevention. The victim should avoid crowds and contacts with others. Unavoidable "barking" and sneezing should be stifled by covering the mouth.

Those not affected should make every attempt to ward off trouble by keeping resistance at a high level. This includes adequate rest and nourishing food. Vaccine therapy is helpful in some cases but is more often a failure.

The most logical approach is the continuous disinfection of indoor air. The use in schoolrooms and business establishments of ultraviolet light, coming from correctly installed lamps, has proved valuable. Spraying certain chemicals, harmless to man but deadly to organisms, is another means of accomplishing the same end. These include hypochlorous acid and various glycol preparations. Attempts to minimize dust are worth while. It is conceivable that in the future, air sanitation will become as important a health measure as the purification of water and milk.

CATCHING?

A. L. writes: What is the difference between an infectious and a contagious disease?

REPLY

All infectious diseases are caused by organisms of various types. They are capable of being communicated to others. When they can be spread by direct or indirect contact—as with colds, tuberculosis, scarlet fever, etc.—we refer to them as "contagious." Malaria and yellow fever—tho infectious—are not contagious because they must be transmitted thru an intermediate host—the mosquito.

Door Prize

Strange things have happened in this war, many terrible, many wonderful. One of the latter variety happened in Chicago yesterday when the largest of the six Wieboldt stores here opened the seventh war bond drive with a rally for its employes. The rally was held before the store opened for the day, and employes, all down an hour early, jammed the cafeteria. As each entered he tossed his name into a box at the door. From it two names would be drawn.

The two door prizes stood on the stage, a focus for wondering, hopeful eyes, as speeches were made about the drive. Each seemed to be a tremendous packing box done up in heavy brown paper. They looked as tho they might contain refrigerators or, possibly, something as rare in war time as a new electric stove. No one could really believe they were refrigerators or stoves, but still . . .

At last the time for the drawing came. The first name called was that of an elderly clerk in men's wear, George Matthei. The other was that of Jennie Sullivan, a salesgirl. The master of ceremonies beamed at them as they hurried up, considerably flurried, to receive their prizes. "There they are," he said, indicating the big boxes. "If you like them, you can keep them. If you don't, you can trade them in for something else in the store." He rubbed his head for a minute, as tho undecided which prize to give to whom. Finally, turning to the girl, he said, "You take that one," and, to the gray haired man, "The other is yours. I suggest you tear a bit of the paper off to see if you like it."

The girl rather shyly punched a hole in hers. Out popped the tanned, smiling face of an army private. She screamed. So did her fellow workers. It was her husband, Joseph, who presumably was in camp in Florida. The equally smiling face of another army private had popped out of the other. It was Matthei's son, Francis, who presumably was in New Mexico.

A marine back from the Pacific who thinks he is tough told us about it. "There wasn't a dry eye in the place," he said. "It was one of the most beautiful things I've ever seen."

Tett, Tett!

Chicago apparently has a nudist colony right on Michigan av. A sign in the lobby of the Continental hotel [the old Medinah club] reads:

"Check your clothes at the checkroom on the main floor."

Horrors of War

A photo studio in Evanston has ruled out for the rest of the war the taking of any photograph of women more than 25 years old. Our information comes from The Saunterer, columnist in the Evanston Review, who writes that ordinarily in the well-fed suburban belt great staffs of retouching artists are employed in photographic studios to take out the wrinkles, crow's feet, and multitudinous chins, brighten up those bleary eyes and, occasionally, do a neat straightening job on a lop-sided nose. The war has taken many of these artists for camouflage work more directly related to military matters, and at least one studio has solved its problem by restricting its trade to customers "who can stand their faces as is."

Chipper's Haul

From Frank King, creator of Skeezix, comes word that the public is seeing to it that Chipper, the war baby, wants for nothing. The mail is topheavy with cards, letters, and gifts, most of them from young women whose husbands, like Skeezix, are in the Pacific, or from mothers with sons of Skeezix' age. The gifts range from clothes to cribs, but the most ingenious to date came from a dental laboratory with the explanation: "Sorry Chipper has no choppers." The gift is a miniature dental plate with a full set of porcelain teeth.

Strange Events

The letter inclosed a Hollywood gossip paragraph:

"Andrea King, hailed by Warner Brothers as a '21 year old' find, is the daughter of a flyer who was killed in World War I. 27 years ago. . . ."

The sender asked: "Can you explain this?"

Frankly, madam, no, and it is difficult to see how her mother can.

THE COST OF VICTORY

Glen Ellyn, Ill., April 28—I am copying a portion of a letter received today from my husband, who is fighting with the infantry of the 1st army in Germany. Perhaps it will help to keep people serious and thoughtful when V-E day comes.

"So the people back home think it is all over over here," he writes. "They should be here and then they would know the score. If they would only stop to figure the price that is paid for victory, they would be on their knees praying instead of making whoopee and thinking it is all over as soon as we gain more territory. I know I will be happy when it is over, too, but I will thank God for victory first."

My husband has been on the front lines in action since last September with the exception of November and December, when he was hospitalized for wounds received in action. So he knows what he is talking about.

ARMY DENIES HOLDING RESERVATIONS

Chicago, April 28—The following is from a letter sent to E. R. Murphy of Long Island City, N. Y., whose letter appeared in the Voice of the People on April 22:

"Your letter infers that the army held a lot of Pullman reservations which it did not use on one of the Erie evening trains on April 11, whether No. 2 train or train No. 8 cannot be determined from your letter. Actually, the army had no reservations on train No. 8, and therefore, canceled none. On train No. 2, an upper and a lower had been reserved, which were canceled at 3 p. m. Inasmuch as each train carries only one sleeping car, your statement that "five minutes after leaving, the reservations of about two cars were canceled," is inconsistent. It would appear from the above that you have been somewhat misinformed. JAMES D. HAVEY,

Captain, Transportation Corps

PIGEON SOUP

Chicago, April 24—This being Clean-up week in Chicago, may I present a suggestion:

I am a pigeon lover and am all for people who want to keep pigeons and take proper care of them and their young. However, these hungry hordes of pigeons that breed in droves all over the city and have no owners, should be collected by our city government and mercifully killed. With our present food shortage, they could be sold cheaply without points and would make excellent soup to supplement the now so scarce meat supply.

These ownerless pigeons are a detriment to our city, where they befoul most of our buildings.

A PIGEON LOVER

TARIFFS AND MINIMUM WAGES

Elgin, Ill., April 25—It seems strange that while our government compels the manufacturer here to pay certain wages besides time and a half or double time for overtime, which automatically raises the cost of goods he manufactures, the same government entertains the idea of lowering or abolishing the tariffs on competitive goods made in a foreign country where these handicaps from a competitive standpoint do not exist. This does not make sense even to a school boy.

BOND BUYER AND INCOME TAX PAYER

HANK APPRAISES THE NEWS

GERMANY, April 21—Press Wireless handed me half of a garbled message from the office raising three rousing cheers for my exclusive list of names of American prisoners released from Stalag 11-B at Fallingbostel, and I would sure like to receive the entire message.

I started first to take only Chicagolanders' names, but when those dirty, unshaven, and miserable chaps lined up to give their names I just couldn't refuse to take them. They were all so anxious that their folks should receive word they were still alive and well, so I figured by taking all names, the Tribune syndicate could send them around to papers it serves and thus cover the whole country.

You see, most of these lads were captured in the last six months and with the dilatory service in notifying the International Red Cross at Geneva, and then getting the messages to our war department in Washington, and then notifications to next of kin, very few of them had been advised. So while I filed about 6,000 words on the tale, I felt in my bones readers would jump on the story, as knowledge of whether their son or husband was alive, and not killed, is bigger and better news than the capture of Berlin, the surrender of Hitler, or the signing of an armistice, to the persons vitally concerned. HENRY WALES

IT'S GRAND

PHILIPPINES, April 19—Boy, it's great to get a good old TRIB way over on this side of the world.

We manage to get hold of a few copies of the most popular paper in the Philippines, and it's a "kick" reading about the good old Windy City once again.

I used to plunk my 2 cents on the counter daily back home [Joliet], so you can see what it means to my morale. T/5 DONALD A. BOB

WE FURNISH THE RIDE

Sacramento, Cal., April 26—San Franciscans have been asked to furnish limousines for use of delegates to the united nations conference. As long as we are to be outvoted and "taken for a ride," are we supposed to furnish the ride, too? JOHN H. CURTIN

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept; hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem, a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters without name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

DUST FROM UPSTAIRS

Chicago, May 1—The people who live in the flat above us evidently believe that we should share their dirt. They shake their mops and rugs out of the windows and from the porch, and the dust comes into our rooms when we have our windows open. Isn't there a regulation forbidding such practice? G. O.

Section 99-38 of the City Code prohibits such operations where the dust will pass into occupied premises.

Dr. W. D. Jack Appointed to Board of Health Staff

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, yesterday announced the appointment of Dr. William David Jack, 105 E. Delaware pl., to the board's consulting staff. Dr. Jack, senior physician of Henrotin hospital and associate professor of internal medicine at Loyola university, replaced the late Dr. Irving S. Cutter, former health editor of THE TRIBUNE, on the consulting staff.

GROCERS REPORT AMPLE SUGAR; RUSH EXPECTED

Business in most retail groceries was quiet yesterday, altho managers questioned in a Tribune survey admitted they were prepared for rush business to follow the OPA announcement Monday of a 25 per cent cut in sugar. Most store managers said a rush on sugar may be anticipated later this week.

In most cases, retail stores were reported to have sufficient stocks of sugar to fill the needs of customers. A few managers reported dwindling stocks, but said new supplies were expected in a few days. Two store proprietors complained they needed more stamps to get the amount of sugar necessary to their business.

Several wholesale grocery houses reported sufficient stocks of sugar on hand "at least temporarily." A representative of the Sugar Supply corporation said only that the OPA "is doing the best it can."

Rae E. Walters, regional OPA administrator, said a three weeks' investigation had turned up counterfeit sugar stamps for more than a million pounds, and that the OPA has stepped up efforts to eliminate circulation of the bogus stamps.

NAVY PICKS 25 MORE COLLEGES FOR ROTC WORK

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP)—Navy Secretary Forrestal today named 25 additional colleges and universities at which naval reserve officer training corps units will be established. The new units, provided under recent legislation, are in addition to 27 units now in operation.

The institutions were selected by a joint committee of educators and naval officers. Courses at the schools will begin about Nov. 1.

Chicagoland schools in the group are the Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago; the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.; Purdue university, La Fayette, Ind.; Iowa State College of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts, Ames, Ia., and the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

Navy officials said there was no present intention to eliminate after the war units now authorized, but that the strength of each unit would be reduced.

Most Hand Laundries Violate Rules, OPA Says

More than 80 per cent of the power laundries in the Chicago area are in full compliance with office of price administration regulations, but only one-third of the hand operated ones abide by all the rules, Rae E. Walters, regional administrator, said yesterday. Only 5 per cent of the power laundries make over charges, he said, and the other 15 per cent of the violators are guilty of only minor infractions. He said a much higher percentage of the smaller laundries overcharge their customers.

DOCTOR'S TESTS PROVE SUPERIN BETTER THAN OTHER PAIN REMEDIES

1. Relieves Pain Faster.. more effective than aspirin.
2. Is Safer to take than tablets or powders containing bromides or acetanilid.

Safer because cannot cause bromide mental disturbances or acetanilid anemia even when taken in large doses.

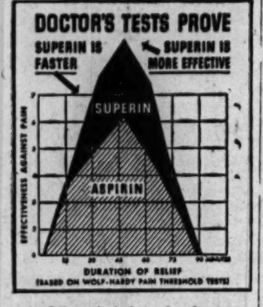
Thus ideal for relief of severe pain due to headaches, toothaches, rheumatism, arthritis, neuralgia and periodic pain and to ease distress of colds.

Yes—it's amazing—this new, better kind of relief from pain. For Superin brings you faster, more effective, and safer all around relief than other pain remedies.

Superin actually brings faster—more effective relief from pain than aspirin. Safer on the stomach, too.



And Superin is far safer than remedies containing bromides or acetanilid. You can take larger quantities safely—when you need them for the relief of severe pain.

These statements have been proved true beyond a doubt by doctor's tests on 100 people and hospital clinical tests conducted by doctors.

So You Think the War News Looks Good—

That's the way the hare felt about the race just before he took the snooze that cost him the prize.

Ask the boys on Okinawa if now is the time to relax.

Ask the prisoners in Japan.

Or ask their loved ones here.

Then go out and buy that extra war bond that you didn't think you could quite afford right now.

And hang onto it.

This is no time for a nap.

DAY by DAY on the FARM & GAIL COMPTON

May 1, 1945

ONE of the basic secrets in keeping live stock healthy and producing is water. A constant supply of clear fresh water is essential to the manufacture of beef, pork, lamb, poultry, eggs, and milk. At the farms every precaution is taken to see that there is water available whenever one of the animals wants to drink.

Last week the Guernsey cows were turned out to pasture before they had a good morning drink. Twice they broke from the pasture and traveled back to the barn before the herdsman realized what the cows wanted. After a drink the cows went back to the pasture and browsed contentedly the rest of the morning.

12 to 15 Gallons a Day

Milk production depends to a great extent upon the availability of water to the cow, and this is one of the reasons it is important to have individual drinking cups for the milk producers. Of all the farm animals the dairy cows in milk require the greatest amount of water because it forms 87 per cent of the milk they yield. The Guernseys consume between 12 and 15 gallons of water each day. A cow usually takes in about five pounds of water for every pound of milk it yields. A gallon of water weighs eight pounds.

The beef breeding Angus and Shorthorn cows will consume approximately 10 gallons of water. The yearling beef calves will drink between six and seven gallons a day.

The work horses take in between 10 and 12 gallons of water a day, and more when they have been working hard in the fields. The sheep take a great deal less water, consuming between one and two quarts a day. The fattening hogs will use around seven pounds of water a day and the brood sows slightly more.

Available for Hens

In the poultry house, 100 laying hens will use up seven gallons of water during the day. Water should always be available for hens if good egg production is desired.

Despite the chilly days, the trees and shrubs are slowly advancing to their summer state. The latest to join the parade of flower producers is the horse chestnut. White flowers have appeared now on the tall flower spikes which are profusely scattered thruout the tree.

For the first time the temperature inside the black oak tree has been higher than the outside air. A reading the other day showed 50 degrees inside the tree while the outside air registered only 46 degrees.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

MAY 1 is the traditional planting date for sweet corn in northern Illinois, but because of the cool weather and frosts of late April, many gardeners are making light first plantings. The ground still is cool and since sweet corn is susceptible to damage thru cool soil and light frost, there is some danger of seed rotting.

Recommended procedure for most gardeners is to plant only a short row of sweet corn this week; then, if the seed is damaged by weather, the row can be easily replanted. The first major planting of sweet corn could well be delayed until May 10. Successive plantings should be put in each 10 days to two weeks until July 1 to insure successive harvests until frost time.

ADMITS STEWARD OUSTER BEFORE UNION O.K.'D LAW

Pat Amato, president of local 1150, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America [CIO], admitted on the witness stand yesterday that Harry Morgan, 36, a former union steward, was expelled from the union under rules which at the time had not been ratified.

Appearing as a witness for the union, which is fighting an injunction suit brought by Morgan to enjoin it from having him discharged from his job under a maintenance of membership clause, Amato said Morgan was thrown out of the labor group under provisions on the "duties of the executive board." On cross examination by Atty. William J. Grace, representing Morgan, Amato then admitted the union constitution and by-laws had not yet been ratified.

The union has accused Morgan of disloyal statements concerning union activities, while Morgan has charged that the union is communist dominated. Morgan is employed as a lathe operator at the Chicago Flexible Shaft company, 5600 Roosevelt rd. The case, which was continued until this morning, is being heard by Judge Donald S. McKinlay in Superior court.

OPA TO SUBPENA 50 MEAT LOCKER OWNERS IN QUIZ

Homer Clay, chief enforcement attorney for the OPA, yesterday issued 50 subpenas for holders of lockers in the Dutch Frozen Food Locker company, 3316 Devon av., Lincolnwood, to show whether they have sufficient ration points to cover the meat they have in storage.

Ten of the owners, Clay said, have in the cooling room beef carcasses weighing up to 1,000 pounds each, which will spoil unless processed within the next three or four days.

Clay said that the cutting room book, as well as certain other records of the concern, have disappeared. Rudolph Malz, one of the owners of the concern, was ordered by Federal Judge John P. Barnes to turn over all records to the OPA. Clay disclosed that more than 16,000 red points have been collected by OPA agents for meat found stored in lockers at the plant.

REPORT INDICTMENT OF EX-PROSECUTOR AND 2 IN RUM FRAUD

True bills charging conspiracy to defraud Theodore Vonbrack, a Rockford liquor dealer, of $19,000 were reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday against Norton I. Kretske, a former assistant United States attorney; Irving Robins, 40, of 914 Margate ter., a liquor dealer at 1068 Argyle st., and James Weinberg, 853½ Agatite av., a restaurant owner. Vonbrack allegedly was swindled in May, 1944, in a deal for the purchase of American Distillery company stock. Assistant State's Atty. C. Vernon Thompson said Kretske, who was sentenced in 1942 to serve 14 months in prison for conspiracy to fix bootleg cases, posed as a distiller's contact man in the transaction with Vonbrack.

BACK FROM NAZI PRISON, HE FINDS GIRL SAID 'YES'

Pvt. Robert C. Kemman, 23, who arrived at Fort Sheridan yesterday after his liberation from a German prison camp, didn't know until last night whether his proposal of marriage had been accepted. He was captured before he could get an answer to the letter, written last Christmas, in which he asked Miss Marian Davies of Brookings, S. D., to be his wife.

He called Miss Davies from Fort Sheridan and she said "Yes." She added that she had considered herself engaged ever since she received the letter, even tho the private had no way of knowing it.

Pvt. Kemman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kemman, 329 N. La Grange rd., La Grange, met Miss Davies while he was studying in the army specialized training program at Brookings college last year. He went overseas in October with the 28th division.

Quick Response Is Expected to Appeal for Nurses' Aids

The response of Chicagoland women to needs in other war activities encourages civilian hospital staff members to believe that the plea for 1,000 additional nurses' aids will be answered as soon as women realize that they can lighten the civilian nurses' load.

Nursing directors contacted in a Tribune survey joined in an appeal for immediate recruits for Red Cross nurses' aid classes. They added that, in the long run, hospitals receive more and better service from aids if volunteers sign up for only as many hours as they can work without becoming too fatigued, and cited cases where aids were forced to quit because they had overworked.

Miss Mabel E. Haggman, director of nursing at Augustana hospital, appealed for 24 additional day aids, each to work two days a week, and 26 night aids. These women are needed to assist the 45 graduate nurses in caring for 288 patients.

"We cannot permit ourselves to be dependent upon volunteer help," Miss Haggman declared, "for the welfare of the patient is the first factor to be considered. But a capable, dependent nurses' aid is amazingly helpful."

At Billings hospital, which in 1941 was staffed by 143 graduate nurses, there now are from 80 to 90. This hospital, where the nursing shortage is more critically felt than at those with nursing schools, averages five or six nurses' aids daily. There are 300 patients. Seventy-three of the institution's nurses have gone into service.

Twenty-one men volunteers are helping out at Wesley Memorial hospital. Among the volunteers are lawyers, a cotton broker, a hair dresser, a switchman, a minister, a shoe salesman, and a war worker. They contribute day time and evening help in the emergency room, in men's wards, surgery, and central supply. Additional men volunteers and nurses' aids are needed at Wesley.

Giving emphasis to the situation here, the American Hospital association reported yesterday that American hospitals in 1944 cared for nearly a million more patients than in 1943, despite personnel shortages. The total was 16,036,848—the equivalent of a patient entering a hospital every two seconds. A baby was born every 16.4 seconds and 2 million mothers obtained hospital protection and care.

The report was issued in preparation for the annual observance of National Hospital day May 12. It cited the heavy war time demands on civilian hospitals, with one of every five nurses serving in the army or navy, and reported that the United States mortality rate among war wounded in this war is 3 out of 100 in the army and 2 out of 100 in the navy.

Those interested in joining the nurses' aid corps may call Wabash 7850.

Mother Needs Rest After Her Baby's Birth

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Baby week, the public observance of it going on right now, could well be turned into "Baby Year." For there is so much that could be written in public print that would help new mothers. We could go on and on right now writing about babies, for mothers (and expect to a little later!), but at present we are just touching upon a few of what we from experience consider certain high points that cannot be emphasized too much.

In two recent articles I talked briefly, but I hope convincingly, about the importance, vital to both mother and baby, of regular visits to private physician or clinic during pregnancy. Today I want to talk to you about another matter you must take care of, if possible, before you go to the hospital. It has to do with aftercare.

I believe no one, no matter how sympathetic or understanding, and I include even family, nurse, or doctor, who has not had a baby can appreciate how much a young mother needs rest after her baby is born, even when all has gone smoothly. But if, in addition, there has been some difficulty, it is imperative for her well-being, upon which hinges the well-being of her baby, that she have a "hiatus" before taking the helm of her household again, with some one on hand "to do" for her.

I know whereof I speak, both at first-hand, and second-hand as it were. At second-hand, since I have only recently been daily in and out of a maternity ward filled almost entirely with young service men's wives; and at first-hand, since I have personally nursed a young mother and her baby because no nurse or household help was available. Many of those girls were going back to their little apartments, or even to single rooms with no real conveniences, after only nine or 10 days, to take care of themselves, their babies, and soldier-husbands living "off the post," without help of any sort. This immediate resumption of normal duties is to be avoided if possible.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by THE TRIBUNE. Today's question was submitted by Russell Leonard, 910 W. 66th st.]

THE QUESTION

If you were commissioned to spend $1,000,000 for humanity's sake without help from any existing societies how would you do it?

WHERE ASKED

Chicago Service center No. 2, 430 S. Michigan av.

THE ANSWERS

Staff Sgt. John McKee, Dallas, Tex.—I'd invest part of the million so it would earn money each year. Then I'd use the remainder to build an old people's home on the east coast of Georgia. Poor, elderly people from all over the United States would be chosen to live there free. The income from the investment would support it.

Pharmacist's Mate Lawrence Sullivan, Jersey City, N. J.—So many boys and girls would go to college if they had the financial means. I'd establish an educational fund for children of service men killed in this war. The money would be given in the form of scholarships to outstanding students of the country whose fathers served in this war.

Pvt. F. D. Bilbrey, Clarion, Ia.—The boys who have been crippled in battle deserve every consideration. I'd set up an employment bureau that would help wounded G Is to find suitable employment—giving financial aid if necessary. I'd do everything I could to help them find a happy future.

Yeoman Elizabeth Donahue, Tyler, Minn.—As far as my million would go, I'd take a section of some large city and clean up the slums. I'd build new buildings and let the people who occupied the old ones return to decent homes. All they'd have to do to keep their new homes would be to pay the taxes.

Yeoman Fay Guenther, 2027 W. Congress st.—My mother died of cancer. Doctors were unable to do anything for her. I'd take my entire million and build a laboratory for research in the prevention and cure of cancer. Then some day other children's mothers wouldn't be taken away from them because of an incurable disease.

Sister Kenny Asks State to Aid Her Fight

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 1 — Sister Elizabeth Kenny spoke today before a joint session of Illinois legislature to ask legal protection of her method of treating infantile paralysis. To an attentive audience, including crowded galleries, she said:

"It is imperative that legislation should recognize this newer science and protect the technicians by law and the people from exploitation. If this protection were given, it would induce medical men to become interested in physical therapy of the more advanced type and explain to young orthopedic surgeons how to deal with the bodily mechanics to avoid operations and keep the body straight."

A tall woman standing erect before a microphone and reading her long speech in a clear voice, the Australian nurse charged that an "organized boycott" exists against her on the part of officers of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association.

Whether she would be able to appear before the joint session was for a time doubtful, since the house was involved in an uproar over the constitutional convention issue, but she was finally escorted to the rostrum by Rep. Keller [R., Waukegan, who is ready to propose that funds from the state treasury be used to finance further research by Sister Kenny.

Sister Kenny was introduced at length by Dr. Roland Cross, state director of public health, who didn't express opinions on the polio controversy.

"I wish to give a gift worthy of a great people," she said, "and give it in its entirety, and I wish every child on earth to be released of suffering and deformity. I would consider any person that stands in silence and allows these things to happen when they can be prevented is guilty of a crime as great as that committed in any concentration camp, to condemn to four months of pain when it could be reduced to four days."

Huntington, W. Va., May 1 (AP)—Dr. Morris Fishbein said today that the Kenny method of treating infantile paralysis is being used "in the vast majority of hospitals." His statement was in reply to a charge contained in an address by Sister Elizabeth Kenny, originator of the method, before the Illinois general assembly.

Crocheted Cap

BY ELLEN BRUCE

An attractive crocheted hat for summer, with an openwork crown and ruffle trim, is inexpensive to make and requires little time. Cotton or synthetic straw is an ideal medium, and the stitches are so simple a novice may attempt it. If cotton is used, the hat should be slightly stiffened when finished.

For instructions in crocheting the ruffle cap, No. 1113, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Hats of White, Gloves Ditto, Signal Summer

BY REA SEEGER

Optimistic shoppers believe that summer must be just around the next weather report because white gloves, white hats, and white handbags suddenly have popped up all around the shops and stores.

The white hats abundantly displayed on various hat bars in accessible spots in the stores are exceptionally smart and distinctive. The newest lacy straws and stiffened coarse mesh laces are picturesque items, white as frosting and very feminine, whether worn with cottons or crepes. Some are tied with bows of contrasting ribbon, others with bows of the same material.

Spanking white pique skimmers, or white peanut straws, have bands of blue, gray, or white ribbon clipped off in short streamers at the back and veils to match. Both shallow brimmed models and those of wider brim are available, but the emphasis is on the small circumference and extreme height. The days of dot size millinery, casually perched atop the head, are gone. These new hats are put on with care and make the wearer look sleekly sophisticated because of the face veil.

White fabric gloves are short and neat. Some have seams of contrasting colored thread for decorative accent. Pull-ons have trick stitching along the outside of widened cuffs and on the backs of the hands. Long gloves of jersey materials are available in a wide range of colors—bright, neutral, and pastel tints. A new pull-on glove smartly combines two materials—linen texture for the tops, and a thin jersey for the palms—and comes in a dozen summer colors.

Thru the Looking Glass

Despite the fact that laugh lines about the mouth generally are conceded to be an indication of a good humored person, you'll seldom find a woman who is content simply to let them form and grow deeper without trying to do something about it.

Regular use of a lubricating cream, soothed on in a gentle upward and outward motion, is, of course, one of the first means we resort to in a campaign of this kind. Keeping the skin supple and pliable with the help of these rich preparations does much to ward off the etching of wrinkles and lines which are practically an inevitable result of smiles and grins.

However, in addition to such treatment, we like to recommend a facial exercise, a sort of "counter-contortion" which we have found effective in controling the formation of such lines. Simply blow the cheeks and lips out full, as if—you were blowing out candles on a birthday cake. Puff in and out, wider and wider, until it almost feels as if the skin were stretching. Be careful not to purse the mouth meanwhile, rather keep it relaxed and loose so that it may puff out along with the cheeks.

It's a silly looking business, we know, and you won't want to be caught doing it, but it's kind of fun, and whenever you have a few minutes to yourself, start blowing at imaginary candles or thistledown. You'll find it an unbeatable aid in minimizing the lines that can add years to the appearance.

Don't wait until the lines have crept up to start this little routine. We know many young women who practice it faithfully as a guard against possible wrinkles in the area about the mouth because close scrutiny in their mirrors has proved these were imminent, and they're smart enough to be one jump ahead of them.

News of Freed War Prisoners Brings Joy to Families Here

BY JUDITH CASS

TYPICAL of the joy in homes of liberated German prisoners of war is the happines in the family of Mrs. Percival B. Palmer Jr., whose son, Lt. John H. Palmer of the navy, was included in the list of freed Chicago area service men printed yesterday in THE TRIBUNE. It was the first word Mrs. Palmer and young Lt. Palmer's wife had received of his liberation, and the good news was the first thing Lt. Palmer's sister, Mrs. H. Ferris White, heard when she stepped off a train from California yesterday.

Lt. Palmer was reported missing in action in October, 1943, just at the time a son, John Jr., was born to him and the former Caroline Wheeler. Mrs. White had been in California with her husband, Lt. White of the marines, until he left for active duty in the Pacific.

Peter Berkey described himself as "happy and elated" at reading the name of his son, Lt. Peter Berkey III, of the army air forces, in the same list. He had not heard from his son since last November, and, along with parents of other prisoners, was waiting anxiously for word of their liberation.

The Alfred MacArthurs' telephone rang constantly yesterday as friends telephoned to rejoice with them after seeing the name of their son, Staff Sgt. Alex MacArthur, on the same list. The MacArthurs' last news of their son had been contained in a postcard received Nov. 30.

Flight Officer David Prosser's latest address is Paris, to which he has been transferred from England with the United States strategical air forces. Flight Officer Prosser has taken a room with a family with which he stayed in the course of his escape from occupied France, described in his story, "Journey Underground," which appeared serially in THE TRIBUNE. Already he has been reunited with a number of French patriots who helped him to escape and who were captured subsequently by the Gestapo but later liberated. "Journey Underground" soon will go to press in book form and will appear some time in December. Its author now is collecting material for a new book.

Begin Judging Style Contest Entries Today

Expert appraisal of the thousands of entries in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S sixth annual American Fashions contest will begin today, according to Mrs. Grace Pickering, fashion authority and director of all THE TRIBUNE'S fashion competitions. The contest closed at midnight yesterday.

A preliminary check of the fashion sketches indicates that American women will continue to be smartly gowned in the pencil-slim mood that has won for them the coveted distinction of being the best dressed women in the world.

One difference is apparent, however. Designs are less tailored and more feminine than heretofore. The emphasis on femininity is carried out not in ruffles and frills, but in soft, subtle details of stitching or shoulder and waist tucks.

Many designs show the influence of Chinese, Russian, Grecian, and South American ideas on American fashions. But here, too, the foreign effect is subtle; American simplicity predominates.

Entries were received from leading designers all over the country, as well as from thousands of amateurs.

Thousands of sketches were marked for the teen-age division which appeared as a special department of the contest for the first time this year.

Approximately 40 designs will be selected from all entries submitted, to compete for the grand prizes of $2,000, $1,000, and $500 in the general contest and $500 in the teen-age division. The others chosen will receive honorable mention awards or $50 each.

Winning designs will be made up into garments this summer at the expense of THE TRIBUNE and under the supervision of Mrs. Pickering, and will be modeled by professional mannequins at the annual Chicago Tribune Fashion shows next October. The dates will be announced later.

The American Fashions competition was inaugurated five years ago for the purpose of advancing and stimulating the creation of American fashions for American women.

Richard Strauss, 81, Found in a German Villa, Still Composing

GARMISCH, Germany, May 1 (AP)—Richard Strauss, now 81 and fairly vigorous and rosy cheeked, is still composing and hoping that with the war's end his later works will get a wider hearing. He was found today in his villa here, to which he came with his entire family from Vienna last December.

The 10th armored division and the 103d [Cactus] division moved in here yesterday. They immediately took over a number of villas and hotels for quarters, and one advance party which had not recognized Strauss' name had a sign posted on his villa with orders to the occupants to move out by morning. Military government officials who entered the city later found out about it and got a stay from high authorities. The Strauss family was permitted to remain in its home.

With Strauss are his son, Franz, and Franz's wife, a Jewess, and their two sons, Richard 17, and Christian, 13. The composer said Franz's wife was "the only free Jewess in Germany during Hitler's reign."

Strauss' newest work, on which he still is working, is "Capriccio," a one act opera.

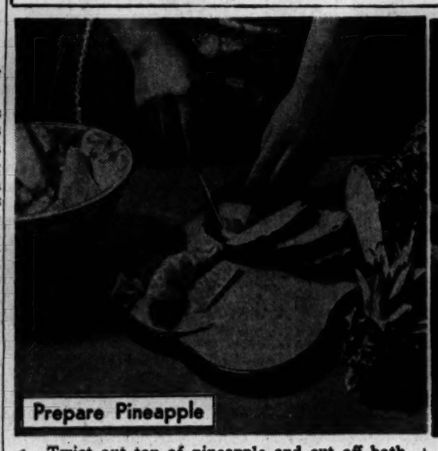
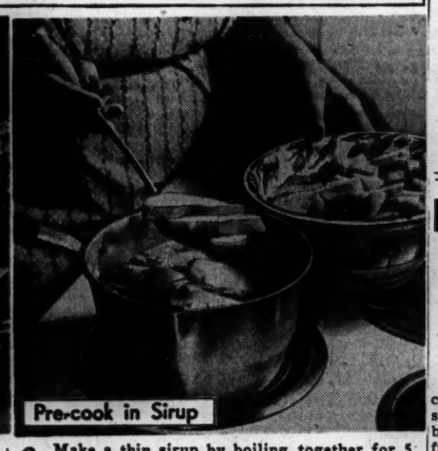
Mary Meade Illustrates Steps in Canning Pineapple



Prepare Pineapple

1 Twist out top of pineapple and cut off both ends, using sharp knife. Slice crosswise and pare slices, cutting out eyes. Cut slices in half and remove core. Leave in halves or cut into wedges. Or cut pineapple lengthwise into "fingers."



Pre-cook in Sirup

2 Make a thin sirup by boiling together for 5 minutes 3 cups water and 1 cup sugar. Drop in pineapple a little at a time and cook for 10 minutes. Pre-cooking before processing is necessary to make a better pack and insure sterilization.

Place Jars in Canner

3 Pack fruit into hot jars and fill with sirup to within ⅛ inch of top. Wipe rims of jars, put on two piece metal seals, and tighten bands. Place jars on rack in canner half full of boiling water. Fill with boiling water, an inch over jar tops.

One of Many Uses

How's Your Health?

With 200,000 American women in military service, and 17¼ million women employed in this country, it may be surprising to some that the death rate of women of working age is lower than before the war. The Metropolitan Life Insurance company learned this fact from studies of insured women, ages 15 to 54.

Some of the credit for this record goes to vitamins and diet-consciousness. Some of it goes to industry for safeguarding the health of women workers thru safety devices, restrictions, medical services, and placement of women in jobs for which their abilities fit them. Much of it goes to the women and their own care of their health.

Even at that, a decline in mortality thru these strenuous years makes one wonder whether it isn't additional evidence that being constructively busy is one of the essentials of sound living.

How Did This Get Started?

Being the methodical type, I made a scientific check on the question of caboose, cabooses, or cabeese, with the following results:

From a check of 50 railroad publications and from asking 50 railroad freight men, the score adds up: In favor of singular caboose, plural caboose, 1; in favor of singular caboose, plural cabooses, 48; singular caboose, plural cabeese, 51; singular cabeese, plural cabeese, 0; singular cabeese, plural cabeeses, 0.

The cabeese have it, provided you do not allow yourself to use slang phrases such as vans, crummies, taggers, etc., and provided you do not work on the Pennsylvania, which evades the question delicately by calling them cabin cars.

Thorberg's Venomous Ortrud Peak of "Lohengrin," with Traubel, Sved, Baum, and Leinsdorf

"LOHENGRIN"

Opera by Richard Wagner. Presented in German by the Metropolitan Opera association in the Civic Opera house Tuesday evening, May 1, 1945.

THE CAST

King Henry.....Nicola Moscona
Lohengrin.....Kurt Baum
Elsa of Brabant.....Helen Traubel
Ortrud.....Kerstin Thorborg
Telramund.....Alexander Sved
The King's Herald.....Hugh Thompson
Conductor.....Erich Leinsdorf

Music drama is still the key to Wagner, so Kerstin Thorborg's Ortrud in the first part of the second act was the high point of the Metropolitan's "Lohengrin," staged in the Civic Opera house last night. True, her voice no longer holds its full splendor. Some of the velvet has been stripped away, and she now struggles to reach the mountain ranges Wagner so mercilessly demands that his singers climb. But she has what it takes to turn handicaps to her own advantage.

Last night she sat thru the first act with no more than a gleam of paranoia in her eyes to indicate the secret dreams of Wagner's [illegible] Macbeth. But in the second, a gaunt figure with a gaunt and haunting voice, she needed only the paper white mask of her face and the mesmeric brilliance of superbly restrained gesture to galvanize an audience that until then had sat comfortably, many of them thinking that opera, after all, is a sumptuous institution with comic implications. When things like this happen, you know opera isn't dead, tho people have been doing their best to murder it for generations.

I doubt that Thorborg in that mood could easily have been revealed but perhaps her triumph was easier because Elsa is one of Helen Traubel's less compatible roles. The statuesque soprano, superbly gowned to resemble a radiant Statue of Liberty [I mean that as a compliment] is a goddess of voice and figure on any stage, but Elsa is no goddess. She is a vulnerable woman in love, one most people want to protect, and she ought to be, at least in the first act, lyricism incarnate. When Traubel made her entrance, she looked like Norma and she sounded more like Bellini's heroic heroine than Wagner's tender one.

Of the others, Mr. Sved's Telramund was a hawklike figure of commanding style but not the voice to exploit it in terms of opera. Mr. Baum was a mediocre Lohengrin, pasty in make-up and bleating of tenor. Mr. Moscona's King had the appearance but not quite the voice for the splendor of the score. Mr. Thompson was a good Herald, which is by no means as simple as it sounds.

The staging was as usual, except that the bit of the four nobles was left in and the pages forgot to tip the garlands over the balcony on the wedding day. But Mr. Leinsdorf's conducting was by no means to be so easily dismissed. It was vivid, alert, sensitive, and alive with promise of performances to come.

Meanwhile, a major mishap on the Wagner front. George Szell has nothing short of German measles, and Paul Breisach will conduct "Die Meistersinger."

Business Men's Music Tuneful, if Not Perfect

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

The Chicago Business Men's orchestra gave its final concert of the season in Orchestra hall last night before the usual sizable body of friends and well wishers, with the fatherly and imperturbable George Dasch again on the conductor's stand and the beautiful Carol Silver as piano soloist.

War has no doubt made its drain on the Business Men's orchestra as on every other institution, and those who are left carry on valiantly, tho with less enthusiasm and with less musical success than once made these concerts unique of their kind. Mr. Dasch last night seemingly made an effort to temper the wind to the shorn lamb by choosing less arduous fare than the courageous business men ordinarily undertake. There was no full length symphony and the orchestral numbers were not of a sort unduly to tax musicians long on earnestness but short on technic.

Tschaikowsky's "Elegie," from the Serenade for strings, is one of that master's most beautiful and deeply felt compositions, and Mr. Dasch and his string players offered convincing evidence of their awareness of that fact, tho naturally tonal lushness does not arise from good intentions alone. And the succeeding waltz fluttered amiably, with not a great deal more recognition of its difficulties than one sometimes hears from professional orchestras.

Hobart Sommers then joined Mr. Dasch and his men to narrate the triumphal tale of Prokofieff's "Peter and the Wolf," which was right up the orchestra's alley, tho we could hear Strauss' "Sinfonia Domestica" moving over on the library shelves to make room for another piece of overly explicit music heading for an early grave.

Rachmaninoff's C minor concerto, despite its universal popularity, is not everybody's concerto and we doubt that it is a woman's concerto at all. At least it is not yet Miss Silver's concerto. She played it with the careful calculation of the conscientious student but without the incisive accentuation it takes to clarify the piano's meanderings over the orchestral hubbub and with little of the largeness of expression which alone can rescue Rachmaninoff's long breathed melodies from the charge of tawdriness. The orchestra also found it quite a handful.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 1—Jimmy Cagney broke down a 56 year old tradition of the San Francisco Press club when the club sponsored his picture, "Blood on the Sun," which opens here tomorrow night. Jimmy donates the proceeds of the picture to help entertain the press. The club cracks out and gives Jimmy a welcoming party before the premiere—even opens its doors to Co-Worker Sylvia Sydney. . . . But that isn't the first time San Francisco's Press club welcomed women. My memory goes back to a party it gave the late Lillian Russell and De Wolfe Hopper. That wasn't before my time—but it wasn't my day. . . . And I wonder how many people remember another San Francisco first? Ten years after the fire the city put on a celebration. Naturally it had to have the top star of the country. So earphones were fixed on the back of every seat in the biggest theater here. The audience clamped them over their ears and listened to Enrico Caruso singing "Celeste Aida" from New Orleans, La.

A Touch of England

I'm not surprised the British delegates and correspondents are so happy in Burlingame. It's more like English country life than any other part of America. Many of them were lunching at the club over the weekend. I sat opposite that lovely Katheleen Theriot. After luncheon many of them went on to Mrs. Sam Knight's, the George Camersons', and to other homes. All were delighted with the excellent food. Said one Britisher, "I haven't eaten such food since the war started." His wife cut in, "And darling, we didn't even get food like this before the war!"

More Hollywood Stars

Our Hollywood stars are still rolling in. Now its Jack Benny for a look-see at the conference. He got caught in a blitz of my radio staff on the train. While the boys were polite and didn't toss him out on his ear, they tossed him out. He was supposed to be in room "B." He got in "D," occupied by my staff. Jack said, "Why, boys, I'm in the right place. You know, 'B'—as in Dover." Sonja Henie was on the same train. . . . Sylvia Sydney's hats are getting all too much attention. But the real star of this show is America's No. 1 mother of 1945—Mrs. Harper Sibley. She has six children and 13 grandchildren. After I looked at a picture of them I thought, "Let's build a monument to the Sibleys—they've built 19."

At Stage Door Canteen

Jimmy Cagney took time out to do his old dance from "Yankee Doodle Dandy" at the Stage Door canteen. And Yehudi Menuhin, a San Francisco boy, brought down the house—he always does. First time he appeared with the San Francisco symphony he was 8. He was promised a bicycle if he played the Lalo concert his very best. When he finished, and while the audience was shouting and stamping because he had just made genius history, Yehudi, looking up at the conductor, said, "Now, Mr. [Alfred] Hertz, will I get that bicycle?" . . . Liz Whitney and that smart Anita Colby and Mrs. Jules Stein of Hollywood arrived recently. They heard about those Russians and had to come up to see what the shootin's all about. . . . When I met the Turkish press representative he wanted me to take him to Hollywood. He's a type. Wore a fez and a beard and has more white teeth than any one I've ever seen. What a dentifrice ad he'd make! And an English newsman followed me all over the place at the big press party because he wanted me to get him to Paulette Goddard. He'd met her once but he was sure she was dying to see him again.

Russians Having Fun

And have the girls gone overboard about those Russian soldiers? They throw their arms about them and smack them right on the mouth. "You cute Russian boy—are you having fun?" said one girl. "Fun?" replied the Russian boy. The girl came back with "Say, don't you know what fun is?" The boy grinned, "O, fine, fine. Sure—very fine." . . . Before Ernie Pyle pushed off for the South Pacific on his last big assignment, he wrote a picture about his life, "The story of G. I. Joe." He said he thought it was going to be a good picture and he hoped the producer wouldn't forget to give his dad and Aunt Mary some tickets when it showed in their town. Well, Producer Lester Cowan is going to do better than that. He's having a 16 millimeter film made of it and he'll stop off at Dana, Ind., to give it to Ernie's dad, so he can have a showing any time he likes for his friends.

Tweedledum and Tweedledee

I hear Mrs. Thelma Furness and her twin, Mrs. Reggie Vanderbilt, appeared in identical prints the other day at the Hollywood Brown Derby. One print was black on white—the other white on black. One wore a black sailor with a huge white flower, the other vice-versa. . . . Anita Louise has been making a picture and running her husband, Maj. Bud Adler's newsreel theaters at the same time. . . . Gail Russell's newest is Billy De Wolfe. Which leaves Peter Lawford looking about for another girl. . . . When three mysterious fires broke out on the "Early to Wed" set recently, the cast gave up and went home.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	Double	Pass	2 diamonds
Pass	2 no trump	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Nine of spades.

When an opponent opens the bidding ahead of you and you find yourself in possession of an abundance of honor tricks, it may be obligatory for you to take immediate action. Yet the proper course is not always clearly indicated and an injudicious choice may turn a prospective profit into a certain loss.

In today's hand East opened with one spade, and South felt that he had too much to "trap," with the hope that the opponents would bid themselves into trouble. He therefore doubled, and when partner responded with two diamonds, felt obliged to show his double spade stopper by bidding two no trump. North, who had been waiting with baited breath for misfortune's arrival, naturally accepted this parking place and on the spade opening South took seven tricks, for a loss of 100 points. It was suggested that South should have passed the bid of two diamonds, inasmuch as he had forced his partner to bid. Whether or not this is sound advice is not the present question, but it will be noted that such a contract would have met with the same fate. Since South holds 4½ honor tricks what seems to be wrong with this picture?

In my opinion South's best procedure would have been to overcall the opening bid with one no trump. This, of course, does not request partner to bid unless he has definite values. If North has little or nothing, one no trump will in all probability be the ideal place to play the hand. If North has some strength and chooses to bid, a game at no trump may be attempted on the next round.

When is a no trump overcall preferable to a double? When you have a no trump type hand with strength varying from three and a half to four and a half honor tricks and some of your values are in the suit adversely bid.

What about the suggestion that South should make a "trap pass"? That is not my preference for the reason that South has too much high card strength to entertain any reasonable prospect that the opponents will bid themselves into trouble. There is too great a likelihood that West will not be able to keep the bidding open.

Usual Fervor Is Present in Russian Movie

"ZOYA"

Produced by Artkino, featuring Galina Vodianitskaya, Katia Skvortsova, Xenia Tarasova, Nikolai Ryzhov, Tamara Alfeova, Alexander Kuznetsov, Boris Poslavsky, Victor Volchek, Boris Podgorny, and Roman Pliati and presented at the World Playhouse.

By Mae Tinée

Howard Fast, author of "Citizen Tom Paine," wrote the English text and Dmitri Shostakovich composed the musical score for this Russian film. It tells the story, said to be based on fact, of a Russian girl, Zoya, who becomes a member of the partisan brigade and is captured and tortured by the Germans. Because pain will not break her, she finally is hanged, but spits defiance at her captors from the gallows. The film shows her life from early childhood and interprets the world events and the training which imbued her with her fierce patriotism.

Galina Vodianitskaya, the heroine, is quite beautiful and gives her role a fervor which makes it convincing. The usual Russian intensity is noticeable in the entire cast and the dialog is simple and unobtrusive. Perhaps I was concentrating too much on the plot, but the musical background did not seem particularly striking and, technically, much of the film is poor.

It would seem difficult to conceive of such treatment given to a prisoner by the enemy if it were not for factual stories of similar cruelties to be read in every newspaper every day.

and Mrs. Cleon Headley of St. Paul, Minn. Miss Brock attended Chevy Chase college in Washington, D. C. Lt. Headley attended St. Paul's academy and Princeton university, at which he won the Poe cup "in recognition of his outstanding contribution to Princeton football interests." He is serving overseas and has received the air medal with 11 oak leaf clusters.

Here and There

The Howard Rafterys have named their son John Edmond, combining a family name and the given name of Mr. Raftery's father, the late Edmond Raftery. The baby, who was born Saturday in Presbyterian hospital, has a 2 year old sister, Kate. Their grandparents are Mrs. Edmond Raftery of Geneva and Charles Ellsworth Montgomery, who divides his time between Texas and Kansas.

Mrs. Ward C. Castle was elected president of the Chicago-Smith college club at the group's annual meeting Monday in the Arts club. Other new officers are Mrs. Herbert W. Sanborn, Miss Frances Amberg, and Miss Mary Nixon. Miss Mary Goelitz, Miss Barbara McClurg, Mrs. Herbert Shorney, and Mrs. George Bobrinskoy will retain the offices to which they were elected last year. Mrs. Joseph O. Hanson is the retiring president.

Miss Nixon, who was elected a director of the club, has had word from Florence, Italy, that her large villa there has remained unscathed during the war, tho a few bombs landed in the gardens. The villa, which once was a part of her school, served as quarters for Italian officers and now houses allied officers.

Mrs. George B. Dryden and Mrs. Kenneth Horan will entertain at luncheon in the Arts club today for Mrs. Alvin Jenkinson, president of the Chicago Drama league.

On the Calendar

When the Hinsdale Junior Infant Welfare society holds its regular luncheon meeting today in the home of Mrs. Lawrence Johnson Jr., plans will be made for a dinner-dance May 19 in the Hinsdale Golf club and for its second annual Country Fair in September. Mrs. Chester Johnson serves as chairman of the dance. The fair will be given at the Paul Butlers' stables in Oakbrook.

The Glencoe Junior center of the Infant Welfare society will celebrate its 10th anniversary today with a business and sewing meeting at 9:30 a. m. in the home of Mrs. Jackson Burgess, followed by luncheon in the Country Fair. Officers who were on the board 10 years ago will be special luncheon guests.

The "Baby Week" meeting of the senior auxiliary of the Glencoe center of the Infant Welfare society will be held today in the home of Mrs. Ralph Cogswell. After the morning sewing there will be a program by Mrs. Charles S. Lewis Jr., pianist.

The alumnae association of Ferry Hall will give a spring luncheon today in the Arts club for Miss Eloise R. Tremain. Miss Tremain will retire in June as principal of the school, a position which she has held since 1918. Mrs. Ira Jay Ingraham, president of the alumnae association, will preside.

Some of the directors of Association House will attend a carnival today planned by residents of the neighborhood the house serves. The settlement is one of the oldest on the northwest side.

'Midsummer Nightmare' . . . . . By Christopher Hale

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

SYNOPSIS: Olivia Warburton suddenly reverts to a childhood habit of walking in her sleep. She and her secretary, Winnie Leslie, occupy an enchanting little cottage, cared for by Tillie, on the Jennesma estate. The Jennesma furniture factory now makes gliders and is in charge of Dirk Adams, to whom Winnie is engaged. Sybrand Jennesma plans to manufacture his brother Gerrit's latest invention, a motor for a new type of car, and hopes to interest Morgan Riley, chief owner of a car body company. Sen. North is investigating the Jennesmas for Riley. Jason Kimball handles publicity. Winnie leaves an envelope containing money at Hilda Jennesma Paradine's cottage. Hilda claims some of the money is missing. Next morning Hilda is found murdered, a knife in the back of her neck. Olivia is summoned. Sen. North, in love with her, proposes, offering the protection of his position, but she refuses. Lt. French of the state police questions Olivia. Tillie has informed him that Olivia went downstairs during the night and took a knife from the kitchen table—the knife. North knew of this accusation when he proposed. There are no finger prints on the knife. Hilda was jealous of Winnie. The missing money is found in Winnie's bedroom. Kimball believes it was planted there. He has no knowledge of an unsigned telegram to James Kimball. Eddie Paradine heard nothing during the night, nor is he aware of the terms of Hilda's will.

INSTALMENT IX

NOT SUSPECTED

One of the troopers on the lawn started toward them. Dirk snatched at Winnie's hand and whispered frantically:

"Win, look. I'm in a jam. Got to put in a couple of urgent phone calls and get in to see Jennesma before the police question me. Matter of life and death. I'll be thru as soon. Then we'll talk things over."

"Don't bother. I'll be busy."

She bounced his ring on the floor, ran down the steps blindly, and banged into the trooper, nearly knocking him off his feet. Dirk scooped up the ring and escaped into a side door.

On a bench in the woods on the edge of the ravine, Winnie found Miss Warburton and Sen. North quietly talking. She would have run down the steps and on home, but Miss Warburton called her over.

"We'll go call your father, right away," Miss Warburton said, with authority.

"Too late."

"What do you mean?"

Winnie gave the results of her recent interview with Lt. French. She concluded:

"The money was there. I saw it. I don't suppose the police would plant it there, would they?"

"Of course not," raid the senator. "But some one did. Are there any finger prints on your stocking case. Have they examined it for prints?"

Winnie shrugged. "Who knows."

"Winnie dear," Olivia asked, "did you tell Lt. French who your father is?"

"I said he was F. W. Leslie. It didn't seem to register and I was glad of it. I don't intend to make a career of being father's child."

"But this is serious. French should know you are Farnsworth Leslie's daughter," North exclaimed.

"'You wanted to see me, Mr. Jennesma?' Miss Warburton closed the door and came toward the desk."

Kim came down the ravine path where they were waiting. "French knows. I told him." He dropped on the grass.

"I am not going home until this is all cleared up . . . if then," Winnie said angrily. "And if there's any funny business I'll just say I swiped that money."

"Winnie! Please! If you're trying to help me . . . " Miss Warburton began, curtly.

"I'm warning you. Just keep hands off, everybody." Winnie meant it. "I wonder who did put that money into my box?"

"That's easy. Eddie."

"But why?"

"O, she kept the poor devil on short rations. He swiped it and she probably accused him of it. He got panicky and decided to hide it somewhere. Any one can walk into your cottage any time of the day."

"But why not just hide it? Why pick on me?"

Kim gave her a cold look. North, too, was surveying Winnie. He said dryly:

"My money's on Mrs. Paradine for that job."

Miss Warburton said, "It's much more her style. And by the way, why couldn't it have been a burglar who killed her? She kept all that expensive jewelry in the house."

The senator shook his head. "No, she'd have been shrieking for help and some one would have heard her. She had a shrill voice and the night was very still. Confidentially, I was awake from 2:30 on and I heard nothing."

Miss Warburton stole a glance at him. Mrs. Paradine had made her usual open overtures in his direction the first day he had arrived.

"O," Kim was saying impatiently, "there's no doubt she went out to meet some one she knew and trusted. Probably some man. Certainly she wouldn't let Miss Warburton entice her out on a 3 a. m. date, when she could talk privately to her any hour of the day."

Winnie cried, "And just incidently, my good oaf, is Miss Warburton supposed to have made a date with Mrs. Paradine in her sleep? And if she didn't how did she happen to meet the woman? And if she made it when she was awake, she'd remember it, and she doesn't. It all sounds nuts to me."

"A very excellent point, Miss Leslie," exclaimed North and he took out an envelope and made a note on it.

At last Winnie stood up. "I'll be over at the cottage if you want me, Miss Warburton. The lieutenant ordered all us criminals not to leave town, so I'm returning with thanks, the mitten you handed me." She ran lithely down the ravine steps.

Miss Warburton said, "Why don't you and Win declare an armistice, just for the duration, Kim. Why must you be so mean to her all the time?"

"Me? Mean? Have you heard her talk to me?"

He got up and walked toward the house.

Miss Warburton sighed. "Something's bothering him, poor boy. He always acts like that when he's worried."

"Let's not waste time talking about him," said the senator brutally. "Let's talk about what's bothering me."

Miss Warburton turned hastily from the look in his eyes. Fortunately, before the pause grew awkward, one of the maids from the house came down the path.

"O, Miss Warburton, Mr. Jennesma wants to see you in his office."

"Thanks, Effie. Tell him I'll be right there."

"You wanted to see me, Mr. Jennesma?" Miss Warburton closed the door.

Gerrit Jennesma spoke from behind the desk: "My brother sent for you. He'll be back in a moment. We want you to know we don't believe you had anything to do with Hilda's death."

"Thank you." She sat down, rather weak with relief. She'd been fairly sure of Sybrand, but support from Gerrit, too, was surprising and cheering.

"Yes. Tillie is loyal and faithful but she has a bad disposition toward people outside the family. She's vindictive. You see, neither my brother nor I believe her."

Miss Warburton felt flutterings under her belt from loosened tension. "I can't tell you how much I appreciate this. I understand she's to have a polygraph test, tomorrow. It may clear things up for me."

"Yes. I know the polygraph. A very clever invention. We'll see she takes that test."

"Do you think . . . could it be possible . . . that Tillie, herself, might have done it?" she asked diffidently.

"I don't think so. She really worshipped Hilda. You know she's devoted to the family. But no doubt the police will question her about everything. They seem capable."

Sybrand Jennesma came in.

"Sit here, Sy," Gerrit said.

"AMERI-GLO"

from the laboratory to you in this unique collection

Men not easily satisfied will find it the fabric they've been dreaming about. Laboratory tested and proved to be more durable, washable and sun-fast, less likely to shrink, fade or slip in the seams, "Ameri-glo" is now available in business and sports shirts or pajamas. Together with the fabric, you will be equally pleased by the way it borrows fine tailoring detail, along with the softer, smoother feel of this new Ameritex product.

HAYNES YIELDS 1 HIT; SOX BEAT TIGERS, 5-0

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

EDNYFED H. WILLIAMS, chairman of the Illinois Racing commission, once studied for the ministry. . . . The Detroit Free Press, which abandoned Golden Gloves a few years ago, will return to the tournament in 1946. . . . Helper Larmer can see no reason for any one questioning Happy Chandler's baseball background. . . . "Wasn't he a Washington Senator?" Mr. L. inquires . . . Adm. Jonas Ingram, who commands the Atlantic fleet, and Adm. William Halsey, who is chasing the Japs in the Pacific, are former full backs of the Naval academy football team. . . . Jockey Eddie Arcaro estimates that horses he has ridden won a total of $3,618,587. . . . It may or may not be the Hollywood influence, but the manager of the White Sox has calling cards on which is a Sox emblem in gold and black and the name of "James Jimmie Dykes." . . . Lynn Waldorf, football coach at Northwestern university, will be the principal speaker at the Wake banquet, May 10. . . . George Kosmas, Seattle's best bowler, averaged 194 pins in 153 games. . . . Beans Reardon, dean of National league umpires who was a wow on a winter tour of service areas in the South Pacific, will contribute further to winning the war, altho involuntarily. . . . His income tax estimate is up $2,300 this year over last. . . . Lecturing about his trip did it. . . . There is no No. 3 uniform in the Cub wardrobe and probably there never will be. . . . Three first basemen—George Grantham, Rip Collins, and Phil Cavarretta—suffered broken legs while wearing the number. . . . Three, by the way, is the number which indicates the first baseman in the standard scoring hieroglyphics.

The evening before the opening of the major league season Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager, addressed a youth gathering. . . . One of his audience asked about the hidden ball trick and Boudreau explained that it happened so seldom in the big leagues it wasn't worth worrying about. . . . But that isn't what he thought next afternoon when Tony Cucinello made him the victim of the trick. . . . Clarence Rowland, president of the Pacific Coast league, rates Walter Johnson, Grover Alexander, and Ed Walsh the greatest pitchers he ever has seen. . . . Nobody can accuse the St. Louis Browns or the Cleveland Indians of observing that moth-eaten "Don't change horses in the middle of the stream." . . . Each club has made midseason switches seven time. . . . The American league record, however, was established by Boston in 1907 when George Huff, Bob Ungkaub, and Jim McGuire did stretches in the boss chair.

Friends

You'd never guess to look at me
That I have wealth galore,
And locked within my treasure chest
Rare jewels by the score,
That my home is a castle
With furnishings so grand,
I am the richest fellow
In this whole wide land.

You scoff, my clothes are ragged?
I have a hungry look?
One should not judge the contents
By the cover of a book.
My wealth is a contented soul,
My gems, kind friends and true,
My castle is my heart that beats
With warmth and love for you.

CONFERENCE'S 'CARRY ON' PLAN PAYS DIVIDENDS

War Time Turnouts Near Normal

Gold Star Flag of Ohio State

FOLLOWING are the names and military rank of the 22 former athletes and coach from Ohio State university who have given their lives in World War II.:

Capt. Don F. Scott	Lt. Robert White
Lt. George Bradfield	Pvt. Preston Wright
Lt. George Crick	Ensign Donald Ziegler
Lt. Gene Lindsay	Lt. H. J. Buckler
Lt. Herman Moser	Lt. Donald Walters
Maj. Wm. C. Nosker	Sgt. John H. Zeeland
Lt. Jay Ingram	Lt. Clarence Zieske
Lt. Maurice Kilgore	Lt. Edward Blickle
Lt. Don Reinicker	[Assistant coach]
Lt. Coleman Richards	Lt. De Forest Buchman
Pvt. Joseph Shapiro	Lt. Ben C. Fyle
Lt. Eugene Tisonyai	Lt. Vernon Zieske

[Second of a series concerning war time athletic activities of Western conference schools and Notre Dame, the problems faced and conquered, and their post-war plans.]

BY EDWARD PRELL

In the years of 1939, 1940, and 1941, Western conference football games attracted 4,234,565 spectators. A natural question to the sports minded is: How does this compare with the total crowds in the three seasons after the United States became a fighting nation?

The latter period does not suffer too much in such a tabulation. The total for 1942, 1943, and 1944 on conference gridirons was 3,660,160. This represents a decrease of 574,405, or an average annual falling off of 191,468. War time annual attendance figures at some of the schools actually top some of the yearly totals in the three pre-war campaigns.

Ohio Sets All-Time Record

Figures likewise show that basketball has done a remarkable job in keeping fan interest alive. In four pre-Pearl Harbor seasons, the basketball aggregate at seven of the conference schools was 1,780,567 against 1,496,139 in the four succeeding seasons. Excluded are Northwestern and Michigan, which do not keep crowd figures in this sport, and the University of Chicago.

Ohio State has stayed close to its pre-war pace. Last year it actually set an all-time football home attendance record of 336,802. Its total dipped to 150,080 in 1943, which is disclosed in this survey to have been the low ebb year of athletic interest in the conference. In 1942, 307,509 watched the Buckeyes' home games. This is a total of 794,391 for three war period years.

Twelve Coaches in Service

In the three years preceding the war, Ohio State played to 839,547 spectators. These were distributed as follows: 1939, 250,885; 1940, 300,947; 1941, 287,715.

Basketball, tho, took a marked drop. Ohio State's four year total ending in 1940-'41 was 180,678. In the four succeeding seasons, only 96,887 saw the Buckeyes on their home court. Last year's total was low for the eight year period, 18,383.

Twelve Ohio State coaches have gone into military service. One, Lt. Edward Blickle, aid to Paul Brown in football, was killed in an accident at the Iowa Pre-Flight school.

Latest count shows that 22 former Buckeye athletes have been killed in this war, with 45 wounded, 15 missing, and five prisoners of war. Ohio State has an estimated 1,080 former athletes in service.

Conference Shows Way

"When the war broke out," says L. W. St. John, athletic director, "the carry on policy was not too general among the colleges, but we feel the Western conference has been a leader in keeping athletics alive, particularly in contact sports. We insisted upon carrying out competitive sports. We felt it was important that physical fitness be linked with training men for military service. We feel we have been justified in view of the subsequent comments from army, navy, marine, and air corps officers.

"I look for a definite increase in interest among sports after the war, both from competitive and spectator viewpoints. When the boys come back, they should be given every opportunity to participate in all activities and there should be a big increase in the number of young men reporting as candidates for the various varsity squads."

Tomorrow: Purdue university.

W. Cooper in Navy; May Go to Great Lakes

St. Louis, Mo., May 1 (AP)—Walker Cooper, catcher and captain of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, was inducted into the navy today at Jefferson barracks and may be sent to Great Lakes [Ill.] naval training center.

Walker Cooper

Cooper, who thought he was thru with baseball and headed for the army, found he had a choice of services and decided on the navy.

Chief Specialist Bob Feller, coach of the Great Lakes nine, would welcome Cooper. The star pitcher has been having trouble finding a battery mate.

The husky Cardinal star has been the mainstay of three championship teams in St. Louis. In all three years he has been overshadowed individually for most valuable player honors. First it was his big brother, Morton, then Outfielder Stan Musial, and last year Shortstop Marty Marion.

BAKSI AND LANE BOX TONIGHT IN COLISEUM RING

BY FRANK MASTRO

Joe Baksi, foremost heavyweight contender when he beat Lee Savold in Wrigley field last August, will resume his campaign to regain that high position in a 10 round bout against Larry Lane, hard hitting 190 pound fighter of Trenton, N. J., in the Coliseum, 15th st. and Wabash av., tonight.

The contest heads the most attractive show of the three held this year in the ancient Wabash av. arena.

Joe Baksi

Larry Lane

Since his last appearance against Savold, Baksi has engaged in four fights, winning all except one with Lee Oma in Madison Square Garden on Jan. 26. That lone setback was of major importance, however, as it cost Joe his No. 1 rating.

He's No. 6 Now

As a result of scoring two straight victories at the expense of Gunnar Barlund in Miami, Fla., March 8, and Lou Nova in the Garden March 30, Baksi now is listed sixth best, behind Billy Conn, Jimmy Bivins, Mello Bettina, Tami Mauriello, and Oma, respectively.

Prior to losing to Oma, Baksi, former coal miner of Kulpmont, Pa., knocked out Corp. Buddy Knox of Dayton, O., in Pittsburgh, Nov. 27. Joe expects to weigh 210 pounds, 20 more than Lane, when he steps on

Fitness for All, Wieman's Post-War Plea

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP)—Tad Wieman, former Michigan and Princeton coach, spoke up emphatically today, not only for universal military training, but for a nation-wide physical fitness program as well.

"One program without the other would be unsatisfactory in improving physical standards, found shockingly low in this war," he told a reporter.

But integration of the two programs would "give the nation a yardstick with which to measure the physical soundness of thousands of young men every year," he added.

Wieman, civilian consultant to the war department on physical fitness, said that "physical fitness develops the man; military training develops the team . . . the machine."

"It's like coaching a football team," he elaborated. "The coach needs good parts, good players. If he doesn't have good parts, he doesn't have a good team. The same thing is true of a nation."

When Germany folds up, the war department will have a coördinated physical fitness, universal military training program ready for consideration by congress.

"I am satisfied that army officials are ready and eager to utilize to a far greater extent than ever before the many important contributions that physical education can make to the total program," Wieman said.

Wieman thinks that at least one hour a day, five days a week should be set aside for physical training.

CUBS BID FOR 1ST SPOT AGAIN; REDS ARE FOES

Derringer to Pitch in Game Today

BY EDWARD BURNS

It is mathematically possible for the Cubs to go back into first place in the National league this afternoon. If Paul Derringer slaps down the Cincinnati Reds in Wrigley field and the New York Giants absorb a licking in Philadelphia—presto, the Cubs will be back on top despite their colossal double fadeout Sunday before 36,637 fans who had paid to see something different.

The Chicagoans might not have had a chance to take over first place today if the weather man hadn't acted up in Philadelphia yesterday, as well as in Brooklyn, where the Braves were to have played, and in Pittsburgh, where the Cardinals were to have met the Pirates. The Cubs could have played had they been scheduled, but it was their second of three off days arranged for this week by the somewhat dizzy schedule makers.

Secory Ready for Action

Charley Grimm had all hands out for practice yesterday, including Frank Secory, who had been in a hospital for several days, suffering from a stomach ailment which developed recently. Frank was slated to open the season in left field, but pulled a leg muscle in the one exhibition game played with the White Sox. This gave Eddie Sauer his chance at the spot and Eddie hasn't been willing to give it up. He is leading the club in hitting, has been one of the most aggressive base runners and has played errorless ball on defense.

Secory, who can hit a ball a long way, will be used in frequent pinch batting assignments, Grimm said yesterday. Last Sunday, for instance, there were five spots in which a functioning pinch hitter could have won the ball game. Twice a fellow like Secory could have brought at least a tie with nothing more complex than a long fly out.

No Lineup Changes

Except for one single by Paul Gillespie, with two out and nobody on, Cub pinch batters have been a complete bust, three of them featuring the whiff technique. Secory probably will be able to at least hit the ball when called upon in an emergency.

The same lineup that lost those two Sunday games will face the Reds today. Most of the 11 errors the Cubs have committed this year, including the half dozen Sunday, have been around second base, by two gents normally the steadiest on the team, or in the league, for that matter.

FORMER BEARS CENTER DIES AT HOME IN IDAHO

Bert Pearson, who followed George Trafton as center of the Chicago Bears, died yesterday morning at his home in New Plymouth, Idaho, after an illness of several weeks. News of his death was phoned by the widow to Jules [Zuck] Carlson, 1734 W. Winona av. Carlson, a guard, was a Bear teammate of Pearson's.

Bert Pearson

Pearson came to the Bears in 1929, after having starred at Kansas State college. His career with the Bears continued thru 1936, after which he was with the Chicago Cardinals. At the time of his death, the former 210 pound football player was farming and coaching high school sports in Idaho.

JOHN J. PHELAN'S SON KILLED IN ITALIAN ACTION

New York, May 1 (AP)—Maj. Gen. John J. Phelan [Ret.], former chairman of the New York Athletic commission, was notified today that his son, Lt. Col. John J. Phelan Jr., was killed in action on the Italian front April 15.

The younger Phelan, a graduate of the United States military academy with the class of 1936, also is survived by his wife and two children.

CHANDLER TELLS POST-WAR PLANS FOR BASEBALL

He'll Quit Senate

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 1 (AP)—There are no governmental regulations to prevent Sen. A. B. [Happy] Chandler from serving in the senate and holding baseball's office as commissioner at the same time. But Chandler's aids today said that he isn't holding two jobs or drawing two salaries—that his present activities in baseball are merely preliminary to taking the commissionership formally when he resigns from the senate, probably about the first of June.

St. Louis, Mo., May 1 (AP)—Sen. A. B. [Happy] Chandler, who has only to sign his contract to become the new baseball commissioner, disclosed today his plans for carrying baseball back to the country to capitalize on "the tremendous sports boom we will have after the war."

In his first press conference since his election to the commissioner's post a week ago he asserted baseball has two immediate responsibilities:

1. "We must provide some place for baseball's war veterans to play. We are obligated to find jobs for them."

2. "Thousands of players have been wounded and will need rehabilitating and they ought to be able to see baseball games."

Plenty of Talent Available

Chandler's proposal is to locate leagues in the vicinity of government hospitals and in high schools and colleges.

"We'll have lots of opportunities to discover new baseball talent," he said.

Chandler came to St. Louis to attend the American league pennant raising ceremonies of the Browns, scheduled for tonight before the game with Cleveland. Rain caused a postponement until tomorrow night and Chandler will remain over for the celebration.

As to baseball's present status, Chandler said he talked with President Truman a few days ago just before leaving Washington. "I came away with the impression the President thought baseball had justified its right to continue," Chandler said.

He said he had been told of instances in which baseball players classified 4-F had been inducted into military service just because they were ball players, thru abuse of authority by some draft board officials.

"I have informed President Truman of this," he declared.

Gives Warning to Gamblers

Chandler, who said he attends every Kentucky Derby, but few other racing events, told reporters he did not expect to be confronted with organized betting in baseball.

"Some of the finest men I know are in the racing industry," he said. "Cases involving ball players who overemphasize their racing interests will be judged on their individual merits. Gamblers must not and will not get into baseball and my advice to ball players and umpires is to stay away from race tracks."

He said serious discussion was being given to transferring the commissioner's office from Chicago to Cincinnati because the Ohio city was more centrally located.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Detroit, Mich., May 1—Despite a temperature reading of 48 degrees today James Dykes' White Sox kept themselves hot enough to repulse possible intrusion on their first place tenancy. The Tigers wanted to move in but they encountered some bull's-eye hits by the Chicagoans and also a lad named Joe Haynes, who operated so effectively that the bat swinging of the locals netted only a solitary single. This all added up to a 5 to 0 victory for the White Sox.

The Haynes' demonstration really was on baseball's classical side and except for the one hit would have duplicated the last perfect game pitched in the majors. It was done on the same field more than 20 years ago by Charles Robertson and his White Sox associates. In eight of the nine innings the Tigers were dropped three in a row today by Haynes, the lone break coming in the third, which Skeeter Webb opened with a single to center. He died on second.

Sox Tally Four in Fourth

The Tigers started Walter Wilson, a recruit from Buffalo, and for three innings he had an edge over Haynes because the latter yielded that one hit and the former gave up nothing. The Sox half of the fourth was vastly different. Fellows like Oris Hockett, who retired with a leg injury; Johnny Dickshot, and Le Roy Schalk ganged up on the freshman who in his confused moments committed a balk, not to mention a couple of passes. The net of this demonstration of Sox power was four runs. The other went over in the eighth at the expense of Leslie Mueller.

If a few additional word must be said about the Sox attack they should be devoted to Schalk. He accounted for two of the runs in the fourth by tripling and subsequently was invited home by the Wilson balk. He produced a perfect bunt to send Tony Cuccinello to third after Tony had doubled to open the sixth. Tony didn't score because he was slapped down at the plate on Cass Michael's fly to Jim Outlaw. But Schalk did single in the eighth to drive in the Sox fifth run.

Dickshot Scores in Eighth

All the Sox could show on offense for the first three innings was a pass to Hockett at the start. He didn't get anywhere with the gift, but he came up with a single to right at the opening of the fourth and the hit precipitated distress for Wilson. Dickshot let go with a triple to right center, Bill Nagel was thrown out, and Tony Cuccinello was passed. This was where Schalk stepped in with his triple past Roy Cullenbine, who was making his debut as the result of the Tigers' deal with Cleveland. It was while Schalk was on third and Cass Michaels on first as the result of a pass that Wilson did the balking stunt that scored the fourth run.

The run in the eighth began to shape up when Dickshot walked with one out. Without any delay he stole second, from where he had a close up view of Nagel's pop to Ed Mayo. Cuccinello also walked and then Schalk let go with his aforementioned single, Dickshot scoring and the two runners moving up on Cullenbine's futile throw to the plate. Michaels wasn't able to fetch 'em home, however.

Michaels, Nagel Stop Threats

Most of the defense conducted in behalf of Haynes' one hit performance was a matter of ease for the fielders. One exception was Michaels' going far to his right in deep short and coming up with a rifle shot throw to nail Mayo at the start of the seventh. Another was a neat one handed stab by Nagel of a sure base hit grounder propelled by Ed Borom while Webb, the lone Tiger base runner of the afternoon, was on second base awaiting developments. Nagel, after his grab, tossed to Haynes, who covered the bag, and that was the end of the inning.

ILLINOIS, PURDUE HOSTS SATURDAY IN TRACK MEETS

Seven Conference Teams to Participate

BY WILFRID SMITH

Seven of the 10 Western conference track teams will gather at two sites Saturday as they begin three weeks of preparation for the annual conference games May 26 in Champaign. Illinois will be host this week to Chicago, Indiana, and Northwestern, with Marquette joining this quartet of Big Ten universities.

At Lafayette the Boilermakers will entertain Michigan, conference defending track champion; Minnesota, and Western Michigan, a worthy nonconference opponent. The Wolverines, of course, should win this quadrangular meet handily just as Illinois, despite injuries, probably will triumph in the Champaign meet. Marquette university, however, certainly will place second and may upset Illinois with sufficient help from the other teams.

Baumann Opposes Kilpatrick

This alignment ends the high jump duel between Marquette's Ken Wiesner and Purdue's Dick Kilpatrick. Last week, in the Drake relays, Wiesner was beaten by Kilpatrick. The latter will be opposed by Armin Baumann of Minnesota, co-holder of the conference outdoor high jump title.

Wiesner unquestionably is a better high jumper than his mark at Drake indicates. Against Marquette the week before he went 6 feet 6⅝ inches and he cleared 6 feet 6⅝ inches to win at the Purdue relays when Kilpatrick placed third at 6 feet 4⅝ inches. But Wiesner was beaten at the Chicago relays by Corp. Dwight Eddleman. The former Illinois freshman, now stationed at Wright field, jumped 6 feet 6 inches that night. Wiesner cleared 6 feet 4 inches.

Kilpatrick has steadily improved since the indoor conference meet when he tied with four men for fourth place at 6 feet. Baumann, incidentally, tied for second in the same meet at 6 feet 1 inch.

Illinois Squad Crippled

The quadrangular meet Saturday at Purdue will provide more equitable competition except for Michigan's unusual strength in the middle distances. The Hume brothers, Ross and Bob, tho, may not compete Saturday because of studies, according to a report last night from Ann Arbor.

Illinois will be further handicapped Saturday by loss of Bill Buster, who pulled a thigh muscle at Drake. Buster not only is regarded as Illinois' best sprinter—he's the indoor champion of the Big Ten—but he normally ran the first lap for the mile relay team. Since Illinois already has lost Dave Nichols, a better than average hurdler, the Illini scarcely can hope now to beat Michigan in the conference games May 26.

One Legged Vet Hopes to Play at Penn State

State College, Pa., May 1 (AP)—A one legged army sergeant may be playing football for Pennsylvania state college this fall.

Sgt. Johnny Schroyer, who lost his right leg in a German prison camp, but not his ambition to return to the gridiron, wants to get back into the game. "There's one thing sure, Coach Bob Higgins said today, "he has the coach rooting for him."

Johnny recently wrote Higgins from Atlantic City's England General hospital:

"What are my chances of playing football again? I love the game too much to give it up without a try."

Commenting that he "hopes all my future players possess as much courage as Schroyer," Higgins said:

"I don't know too much about artificial limbs, but if the army does a good job in fitting him with one and Johnny can accommodate himself quickly, he may play football again.

"Johnny was a blocking back when he last played for me in 1942, but apparently he is willing to return to the line when he rejoins the squad. Our inside tackle doesn't run very much so that may be the spot for him to try."

SMILIN' JACK

N. U. DEFEATED BY NOTRE DAME IN BOND GAME, 4-0

Notre Dame combined six hits with three Northwestern errors to defeat the Wildcats, 4 to 0, in Dyche stadium yesterday in a game which ushered in the university's seventh war bond drive. A total of $7,500 in bonds was purchased by nine Evanston merchants who bought a bond for each hit and putout made during the game. Five hundred dollars worth of war savings stamps were sold at the gate. The price of admission was 50 cents in stamps.

Jim Stewart, lanky right hander, held the Wildcats to four hits and struck out four. Don Glander, Northwestern freshman, struck out seven in six innings he pitched, but errors caused his downfall.

The Irish got off in front in the third inning when George Schneider singled, stole second and scored on Buddy Hassett's single. Hassett scored the second Irish run in the fifth when he was safe on an infield error, advanced to second on a fielder's choice and scored on Jack Barrett's single. Two errors and a single produced two more runs in the sixth. Score:

Notre Dame	001	012	000	4	6	3
Northwestern	000	000	000	0	4	3

Batteries—Stewart and Kolsch; Sanders, Bokelman, Schulz and Gargas.

ILINI BEAT FLYERS, 6-3

Champaign, Ill., May 1 [Special]—The University of Illinois baseball team rallied in the seventh inning to tie the score and in the eighth to win, 6 to 3, over the Lambert Field Flyers of St. Louis this afternoon.

Johnny Johns, Evanston, Ill., catcher, led the Illini, getting half their six hits. The Flyers got to Art Ecklund, Peoria, for all their runs in the first five innings and had a 3 to 2 lead when Bill Lindquist, Cleveland, O., relieved him on the mound. Score:

Lambert Field	000	210	000	3	8	2
Illinois	100	010	13*	6	6	3

Batteries—Larkin and Olshaw; Ecklund, Lindquist and Johns.

HOOSIERS WIN NO. 5

Bloomington, Ind., May 1 [Special]—Indiana kept its 1945 baseball record unmarred by defeating Stout field of Indianapolis, 12 to 10, today in a game featured by Freshman Ed Murray's two home runs and a total of 26 hits for both teams. It was the Hoosiers fifth victory of the season. Murray's homers came in the fifth with one on base and in the sixth with two on.

Batteries—Bowen, Duncan, Adams and Wyso; Kops, Leahy and Coehn.

PURDUE BEATS DEPAUW

Lafayette, Ind., May 1 [Special]—A three run rally in the last half of the eighth inning enabled Purdue to hand DePauw its first defeat in four games here this afternoon, 7 to 6. It was the third triumph in five starts for the Boilermakers.

DePauw	310	110	000	6	11	4
Purdue	100	103	03*	7	10	1

Batteries—Saltter and Schimmelpfenig; Stewart, Curtiss and Hughes.

MICHIGAN, 5; DETROIT, 3

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 1 (AP)—The University of Michigan scored its eighth straight baseball victory against one defeat today, beating the University of Detroit, 5 to 3. The losers previously had won three of four starts. Score:

Detroit	000	002	010	3	4	5
Michigan	100	102	01*	5	5	5

Batteries — Cunningham and Pendergrass; Peddy, Hackstadt, Louthen, and Stevenson.

ARMY AWAITS EDDIE DEMPSEY, GOLDEN GLOVER

Eddie Dempsey, 1938 Chicagoland Golden Gloves featherweight champion from Moline, Ill., has been accepted by the army and will enter the service about May 19. Dempsey, 29, and a father of two girls, is employed as a spot welder on farm combines for the Deere Harvester corporation in East Moline. He fought in Chicago as a professional until 1941, when he retired from the ring. . . . Phil Collins and Tommy Thomas, veteran Golden Gloves referees, will officiate at a two day international tournament between Canadian and United States army air force boxers in Edmonton, Alta., May 17 and 18.

Lane, who has been boxing professionally for nine years, knocked out Georgie Parks of Washington, D. C., in the second round on the Baksi-Savold program in his only previous Chicago start. That achievement followed a ninth round knockout scored over Lem Franklin in Newark last July.

Tony Musto, Blue Island heavyweight; Robert Satterfield, former city Golden Gloves welterweight champion, now fighting as a light heavyweight, and Johnny Flanagan, 1944 Chicago Golden Gloves heavyweight finalist, will appear in three supporting six round contests. Musto is paired with Buddy Waterman, Cincinnati; Satterfield with Mack Parshey, Detroit, and Flanagan with Odell Reilly, also of Detroit.

No Monopoly Here

Satterfield and Roth have been matched for an eight round encounter in Marigold Gardens Monday, which seems to refute the claim of sponsors of a state anti-boxing bill that a monopoly exists in this city.

Musto, who went nine rounds with Joe Louis in a championship battle in St. Louis four years ago, will be making his first appearance since receiving a medical discharge from the navy.

CLASSIC LEAGUE WILL EXPAND TO 16 TEAM CIRCUIT

For the first time in its history the Classic Bowling league next season will operate as a 16 team organization, it was announced late last night after a meeting of league chiefs. At the same time it was stated that the major bowling circuit would confine play next season to eight alleys after performing on 26 thruout the city this year.

Two new teams are definitely slated for Classic league berths next year and the 10 which operated this season are expected to roll again. John Petrie will captain a new quintet sponsored by Mobilgas and Leo Faetz, currently bowling for the Monarchs will enter one representing Faetz Recreation. The Faetz five will feature Buddy Bomar, also claimed from this year's Monarchs.

Jack Scott and Wally Freitag also will captain new entries but their sponsors have not been announced. A fifth new team reportedly has been approved, but there is definitely one spot left open in the new setup.

Tonight's Classic schedule:
Meister Brau vs. Prima Beer; Monarch Beer vs. Washington Shirts; Thompson's Restaurants vs. Keeley Half and Half; Congress Arcade vs. Chapin & Gore; Sunkist Pies vs. Du Bouchett Liquours.

Hoppe Boosts Lead Over Cochran to 48 Points

Los Angeles, Cal., May 1 (AP)—Willie Hoppe defeated champion Welker Cochran, 60 to 35, today in another block of their world championship three cushion billiard series. It took Hoppe 41 innings to win and the victory increased his lead to 48 points. Their totals at the end of this afternoon's block were: Hoppe, 3,029; Cochran, 2,981.

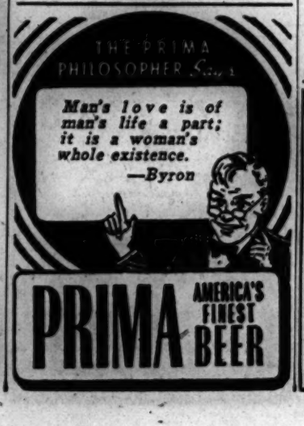
ARMY INDUCTS BOB HAMILTON, P. G. A. CHAMPION

Camp Atterbury, Ind., May 1 (AP)—Bob Hamilton, national Professional Golfers' association champion, has passed his physical examination and has been inducted into the army, reception center officers at Camp Atterbury announced today.

Hamilton left a job as professional at the Helfrich Country club in Evansville, Ind., several months ago to accept a position with a Chicago sporting goods firm.

University High Track Teams Beat South Shore

University High school seniors defeated South Shore High, 96 to 17, in a track meet in Stagg field yesterday. The University High juniors also won, 79 to 16. Capt. Bob Lincicome of the winners was the high scorer with 33⅓ points, winning the 50, 100, 220 yard dashes and the broad and high jumps, and running on the winning 440 yard relay.



Alumni Prove Golf School Critics Wrong

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Opportunity for all golfers to learn how to play the game free of charge—whether they actually play or merely talk the game—is presented today with the announcement of the Tribune Golf School.—From THE TRIBUNE of May 12, 1933.

The above statement, published nearly 12 years ago, was the first hint golf minded Chicagoans had that there might be something to teaching the fundamentals of the game to large groups.

The announcement of that inaugural school led to considerable adverse criticism in many quarters. A majority of the conservative golf authorities contended that the plan of the school was too cumbersome a project to accomplish its purpose. Since the idea had never been at tempted before, the real objective of the school was generally misunderstood by its critics.

Builds Self-Confidence

On the face of the initial call to these free classes, it appeared that THE TRIBUNE and its faculty, members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, were attempting the impossible, to make par smashers out of folks who never had been able to break 100. Such was not the prime purpose of the school, nor is it today. The original thought in setting up this largest system of mass education in the history of golf was to emphasize the game's simplicity to those who had entertained the thought of playing but feared the results of their first swings.

Since that original announcement in 1933, a total of 463,500 free lessons have been given to men, women, and children of the Chicago area.

School Opens Monday

The 13th annual free school, conducted by THE TRIBUNE with the coöperation of the Chicago park district and the Illinois P. G. A., will open next Monday evening on the four park district courses—Jackson, Columbus, Marquette, and Diversey-in-Lincoln. Each of the four lessons of the school—next Monday; Friday, May 11; Monday, May 14, and Friday, May 18—will begin promptly at 7:15 p. m.

Every student who plans to attend the first lesson is asked to bring one club, preferably a driver. If you don't own one, try to borrow one. All prospective pupils are requested to appear at that one of the four courses nearest their home or work by 7 p. m., if possible, in order to get the classes under way on time. There are no barriers as to age, sex, or ability. Every one from 8 to 80 is invited to come out.

Transportation for All

All of the four courses can be easily reached by surface lines, rapid transit, and motor coaches. Their locations are: Jackson park, 63d st. and Stony Island av.; Columbus park, Jackson blvd. and Central av.; Marquette park, Marquette rd. and Kedzie av., and Diversey, in Lincoln park at Lake Michigan and the foot of Diversey blvd.

TRACK MEET FOR GARY PREPS WON BY ROOSEVELT

Scoring in all but two events while collecting seven blue ribbons, Panthers of Roosevelt High school, Gary, won their second successive outdoor high school track championship in Gary yesterday.

Roosevelt scored 62¼ points. Frobel took second place with 36¼ points, edging Emerson's 35. Other team scores: Lew Wallace, 26½; Horace Mann, 15; William Wirt, 7; Edison, 5.

Outstanding performances included a winning broad jump of 21 feet 11¼ inches by George Taliaferro, a winning half mile run in 2:05.5 by James Floyd, and a 1:35.2 for the half mile relay. All three were members of the winning team.

SCHURZ WINS IN TRACK

Schurz High school defeated St. Ignatius in a track meet at Kay Branch stadium yesterday, the juniors winning, 48 to 20, and the seniors, 56 to 39.

NORTHERN PIKE SEASON OPENS IN ILLINOIS WATERS

BY BOB BECKER

Illinois fishermen observed a chilly opening of the pickerel, or northern pike, season yesterday. Fishermen on the Wolf river, Wisconsin, near Fremont and Weyauwega have been making big catches of pickerel while waiting for the white bass, and veterans along the Wolf expect a good run of white bass as soon as the temperature goes up.

The white bass fooled all the fishermen this year by failing to migrate up the Wolf any earlier than usual despite the spell of warm weather several weeks ago. The wall-eyes responded to the high temperatures by making their run earlier than usual. But the white bass weren't fooled by the unseasonable temperatures.

Fish and Hunt Together

Last week-end the fishermen and hunters operated side by side in northern Illinois when a retriever field trial was held on the banks of the Fox river below McHenry. The trial, sponsored by the Midwest Field Trial club, drew a big entry of 38 in the open all-age stake.

One of the most obvious evidences of spring at the trial was the presence of boats filled with fishermen in the river just above the place where the dogs were tested on their water retrieves. The fishermen kept right on watching their lines while a few yards below them the guns barked, ducks were tossed into the water, and Labradors and goldens splashed and swam thru the water.

Orphan Day Wins

The trial produced some outstanding examples of steadiness, fast retrieving and obedience with the prized all-age stake going to field trial champion Orchardton Dorrando, a Labrador owned by C. C. Buehler, Barrington, Ill.

In the nonwinner's stake it remained for an "orphan" dog to show the way to first place. Black of Scottswood, a black Labrador which was found wandering around in Chicago several years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Lee F. McCue, Riverside, Ill., finally taken home by them and then trained, won first in the nonwinners stake.

MORTON WHIPS PROVISO, 4 TO 3; LANE, TAFT WIN

Proviso High school's baseball team, defending state champion, yesterday suffered its first loss in three Suburban league games as Morton defeated the Maywood nine, 4 to 3, in Cicero after the game had gone into an extra inning.

The winning run was scored in the last half of the eighth when Louie Zam, who had doubled, scored on Dick Kavina's single. Karm Cusack, the winning pitcher, had a perfect day at bat with three singles in a like number of appearances.

In the City league, two previously undefeated teams were victims of north and south section opponents. In the south section, Harrison and Farragut, each undefeated in two vious starts, met in Douglas park, with Harrison winning, 5 to 2. Schurz sustained its first north section loss as Lane Tech won, 8 to 6, in Kilbourne park. Harry Wilson and Milt Majercik each hit home runs for Lane.

Score 17 in One Inning

Taft defeated Senn, 6 to 4, and Roosevelt routed Amundsen, 14 to 8, as Ronald Frost hit two home runs, in other north section meetings.

North Shore required but four innings to score 24 runs against Wheaton academy in the Private School league, winning, 24 to 6, after a third inning uprising that produced 17 runs. The game was halted after four and a half innings by mutual agreement.

Albie Plain, Todd school hurler, pitched no-hit ball as Todd defeated Chicago Latin, 7 to 0, in a five inning Private league contest on the Latin field.

Red Sox Beat Senators, 5-4, Before Cronin

Boston, Mass., May 1 (AP)—With Manager Joe Cronin and his crutches parked on their bench, the Boston Red Sox today won their fourth straight game by breaking their Johnny Niggeling jinx to defeat the Washington Senators, 5 to 4. It was Boston's first triumph over Niggeling since 1942 when he was with the St. Louis Browns.

Emmett O'Neill, the rangy right hander, held the Senators to four hits, three of which were made by George Binks, who drove in all of the Washington runs. O'Neill was yanked when he passed three batters with one out in the eighth and Pinky Woods came in to retire the side.

STRANGER RUINS A 'SELF-AIRING' PLAN FOR CATS

Elgin Pets Are Right Back Where They Started

When Elmer A. Gylleck, an architect, planned his new home at 515 Morgan st., Elgin, a few years ago, he made use of his professional training to fashion an ingenious cat's door in the basement.

He had need for it because his twins, Bill and Bonnie, 15, had a pair of cats, Peter and Skippy. Like most cats, they kept members of the family hopping to let them in or out of the house. Sometimes only one would want to get out, but after he had gone, the other would get the same idea. Sometimes they came home together, other times singly. It seemed that a cat was coming in or going out all the time.

Devises "Private" Entrance

So when he planned his new house, Gylleck, left a narrow five foot tunnel between the beams in the basement. The tunnel opened onto a landing of the basement stairway. Inside the tunnel, he devised a system of felt flaps, held down by weights, to keep out cold air.

A few days after the Gyllecks moved into the new house, Peter and Skippy had caught on and used their private entrance exclusively.

Two nights ago, when the cats stood at the front door howling to get in, the Gyllecks were amazed. Bill went out, and said: "Go on around to your door. You know." But the pair watched for an opening and slipped past him into the house. The old routine was resumed. It was a case of opening the door as Peter and Skippy cried to get in or out of the house.

Captures an Interloper

Yesterday, Gylleck investigated. In front of the cat's door he found some twigs and twine. He pushed some of the felt flaps back with a stick and peered into the passageway with a flashlight. He saw a furry mass and bared teeth. Then he rigged up a wire cage outside the opening, went into the basement, and shoved a stick thru the passageway. When he got outside, a full grown opossum sat in the cage staring at him.

Peter and Skippy didn't watch the capture and seemed little impressed when Gylleck showed them the prisoner. Bill and Bonnie started a program of retraining. Last night Peter and Skippy were still going in and out—thru the front door.

"But he's not a perfect stranger, Mom! He stood right next to me in a shopping line for an hour!"

KORMAN TELLS OF HITLER BEER HALL CAPTURE

U. S. Insignia Replace Adolf's Picture

Maj. Gen. Harry J. Collins of Chicago, commander of the 42d [Rainbow] division, now has possession of the big picture of Hitler that adorned the Munich beer hall where the Nazis got their start, Seymour Korman, Chicago Tribune correspondent with the 7th army, reported yesterday noon in a broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual network. Troops under Gen. Collins' command entered the beer hall where the abortive putsch of 1923 took place and took down the picture.

"And now insignia of the Rainbow division occupy the position of Hitler's picture," Korman said. Korman reported that, while Munich was heavily battered, the art gallery was intact.

V-E day on the networks calls for all-out broadcasting of the event with regular schedules subject to cancelation. Each network [and major station] has been preparing advance material insofar as that is possible. Special dramas, concerts, and the like are in store for listeners. Of course the day will be filled with radio pick-ups from the battle areas and other overseas points.

Comment by federal officials, by delegates at the San Francisco peace conference, and by the man in the street are in prospect. Pool broadcasts, in which all chains will be fed from common microphone sources, are being set up. While a certain amount of jubilation may be expected, there will be emphasis in the broadcasts on the fact that Japan must still be defeated.

AUTO HITS POLE; SCHOOL BOY DIES, DRIVER PAL HELD

Frank Trefny, 16, of 5917 Cermak rd., Cicero, a student at J. Sterling Morton High school, was killed last night when an automobile in which he was a passenger crashed into a pole in the center of the road in front of 4041 Cermak rd. The driver was Leonard Merkell, 17, of 1909 East av., Berwyn. He suffered several rib fractures. Police took him to the Bridewell hospital after, they said, he refused to answer questions. Police said Merkell was driving on the wrong side of the street at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Lillian Smith, 32, of 3751 N. Narragansett av., was killed early today when she was struck by an automobile at Cornelia and Narragansett avs. She was on her way home from a war plant where she worked as a machine operator. The car driver was Edward Maiorielllo, 28, of 5157 Wabansia av.

Michael Klaczak, 64, of 3059 Archer av., a shoemaker, died yesterday in People's hospital of injuries suffered April 15 when he was struck by an automobile driven by Walter C. Bollinger, 42, of Arlington Heights, at Archer av. and Loomis st.

MAYOR BLAMES FIREBUGS FOR 3 RURAL BLAZES

Firemen from South Holland, Harvey, Dolton, and Phoenix last night battled three fires in and near South Holland. James Gouwens, mayor of South Holland, said he believed all fires were of incendiary origin.

One fire destroyed a barn and two horses belonging to Henry Polaskey at 159th st. and Cottage Grove av., in Thornton township, just outside of South Holland, together with a chicken coop, garage, and wash house.

Another fire broke out almost simultaneously in the barn of Henry Gouwens, a neighbor, but was extinguished with slight damage.

The third fire was in an old onion house at South Park av. and the Grand Trunk railroad tracks, now used by William Gouwens, brother of Mayor Gouwens, for seed storage. This was extinguished with the aid of a C. & E. I. locomotive which pulled onto an adjoining spur. Firemen pumped water from the locomotive's tank onto the flames.

EXPERTS PAINT NEW LOADS ON TAXPAYER BACK

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK

Official figures compiled yesterday show what is happening to Cook county taxpayers and give a basis for estimating how tax bills may grow in the early future.

Experts in the field believe that governmental policies and more spending by taxing bodies will mean the total revenue will be 17 to 18 million dollars greater than the levies of 1942.

Among properties which are exempt from taxation now are eight federal housing projects in Chicago. They are assessed for more than 20 millions and would pay $805,000 a year if they were in the category of ordinary taxpayers. Assessor Clark has maintained that these properties should be taxable and keeps them on his rolls, in the hope they may be forced to pay.

Small "Service Charge" Paid

The housing bodies consent to pay only a "service charge," which Clark asserts is only 5 per cent of a normal tax.

Morgan L. Fitch, chairman of the tax committee of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards, said yesterday that, if all the proposals for tax free housing go thru, the private property owners may have to service for a pittance properties that should pay 25 million dollars of taxes each year.

Railroads entering Cook county are assessed by the state revenue department. The same body assesses the capital stock of utilities. Following its formulas, which require assessment on the average assessment rate for other property thruout the state, the department has set a figure that produces less revenue, by 5¼ millions, than these big companies paid for 1942.

Downstate Gets Benefit

This was due in large part to Clark's going to full value assessment for Cook county, while downstate assessors kept the system of reduced percentages of full value. In effect, his action changed the balance of the averages to the benefit of downstate and the hurt of Cook county.

Clark's full ratio also enabled the Cook county government to increase its 1944 levy by six million dollars—an impossibility while the assessor reduced his assessment, as in 1942, to 37 per cent of full value. The state legislature had set a rate limit that would not produce much more than half of the 14 millions levied by the county.

Federal housing, the railroad-capital stock change, and the county thus already have put the nonexempt taxpayer out of pocket some 12 millions a year. These taxpayers will have a chance to load themselves with additional burdens in an election June 4: A tax free publicly owned traction system instead of two systems paying about 3½ millions annually; city bond issues for 26 millions, and an issue of 24 millions by the park board.

ESTATE OF $50,000 LEFT BY VICTIM OF SUICIDE PACT

Judge John F. O'Connell, in Probate court, yesterday issued letters of administration to James H. Kellogg, 417 N. 3d st., Hinsdale, in the estimated $50,000 estate of his sister, Paula, 26, who died April 20 in what Philadelphia police said was a suicide pact. The bodies of Miss Kellogg and another woman were found, hands clasped together, in a parked automobile near the Pennsylvania city. According to Illinois law, the estate of Miss Kellogg, who died intestate, will be distributed among her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James G. Kellogg, 80 Locust rd., Winnetka, and the brother.

THREE STRONGARM MEN GET $35

Frank Baker, 846 Sheridan rd., was overpowered yesterday by three strongarm hoodlums in the rear of 602 N. Clark st. and robbed of $35.

CHICAGO'S FRUIT BASKET RIPPED BY LATE FROST

Frost struck again early yesterday. It touched lightly in Chicago and suburbs, but in southwestern Michigan, prime source of Chicago's fruit, it increased damage to the crops to more than 50 per cent—possibly to the extent of 10 million dollars.

The weather bureau recorded a low of 31 degrees in the city and some of the suburbs had a degree less. In Michigan, however, the thermometer dropped to 26 degrees. A low of 22 degrees had been recorded there last week.

L. A. Boyd, director of the Michigan Fruit Sponsors, reported that in his own orchards near New Troy he had lost 90 per cent of his apple crop, 25 per cent of his peaches, and 85 per cent of his plums. He estimated that Berrien county had lost more than 50 per cent of its potential harvest. This figure also applies to all southwestern Michigan, he said.

L. A. Zillman, assistant county farm agent for Berrien county, called richest fruit county in the nation, reported that, of all fruits, peaches probably were in the best condition.

Early in the season, southwestern Michigan had expected a 20 million dollar fruit crop.

WPB PLANNING ONE-WAR SHIFT IN 4-6 MONTHS

Tentative Program Ready for V-E Day

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP)—The war production board today estimated the economic shift from a two front to a one front war basis can be accomplished in four to six months after V-E day and a tentative program has been prepared to meet that schedule.

When the shift is completed, the present complex system of priorities and materials control will have vanished. Replacing it will be two simple priority ratings—"MM" for military orders and "CC" for important civilian goods.

The plan was drafted by WPB's committee on period 1, recently created to chart the relaxation on controls in "period 1," the interim between Germany's collapse and the fall of Japan.

Needs Krug's Final Approval

The report "leaked" to newsmen almost simultaneously with announcement by WPB Chairman Krug that such a report had been prepared, approved in general by a score of government agencies, and would be adopted and made public after receiving Krug's final approval.

A new draft has been prepared and some changes made, WPB officials said, but the bulk of the recommendations are unchanged from the tentative draft. The plan includes these salient points:

1. If V-E day comes before May 15, the transition period should end Sept. 30; if between May 15 and June 15, by Oct. 31; but "if V-E day does not occur until after July 1, the transition period should last until the end of 1945."

Lift Many Controls at Once

2. About 217 of the remaining 420 orders restricting or banning various civilian goods would be lifted immediately after V-E day. [Nearly 50 such controls have been revoked in the last few days, since the report was prepared.]

3. Manufacture of washing machines, household refrigerators, and a few other scarce and urgently needed civilian products will get positive priority aid for limited production.

4. Automobile rationing should continue until the output is high enough to meet the most urgent demands. This point is probably 100,000 passenger cars a month.

5. Some "less essential" civilian production is expected to start immediately after V-E day. Factories will be authorized to place orders for materials and parts to be delivered after priority orders are filled.

Based Partly on Survey

The report was based in part on a survey of the reconversion needs of 72 major industries. Most of them told WPB they would need two to six months to build civilian production to the volume where they would break even financially.

Some manufacturers who produce the same goods for the army as for civilians simply would change customers without any delay. For "all-out" production most industries would require some months; the automobile industry estimated 15 months and the manufacturers of jeweled watches 12.

The 72 industries implied that they alone may be able to absorb virtually all workers laid off by armament cutbacks. The official layoff estimate is less than 1 million war workers in the six months following V-E day. The 72 industries said they could employ 915,000 persons at the "break even" production level, 1,610,000 at full production.

Resumed Cable Service to Italy Is Authorized

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP)—Reopening of commercial cable and telegraph service between the United States and Italy was authorized by the federal communications commission today. Operations are expected to begin Friday over the facilities of R. C. A. communications, Commercial Cable company, and Western Union Telegraph company. The rate from New York will be 20 cents a word full rate, 12 for code, 10 for deferred, and 6¾ for letter messages.

Army Slashes Plane Demand 2,000 Monthly

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP)—The army is tapering off demand for combat planes as the European war is written off the output schedule. A revised production schedule may cut the monthly output of military craft from the current 7,000 to 5,000 by the end of the year.

The new schedule, just submitted by the army air forces to the WPB production readjustment committee, whose approval is required, involves only estimated needs in the Pacific.

Despite sharply reduced army requirements for a one front war, navy production is expected to continue at present or even higher levels for some time. A factor is the increasing number of carriers.

Cutback Almost All Planes

Virtually all AAF combat planes, with exception of the two biggest bombers, the B-29 Super Fortress and the new B-32 Dominator, are involved in actual or paper cutbacks under the schedule.

Typical of the paper cutbacks is one involving the new jet propelled fighter, the P-80 Shooting Star, not yet reported in combat.

Its original peak has been reduced by three-eighths, but even the new figure will not be reached until well into next year. In the meantime this plane will remain on the "critical" list, which means the AAF wants all it can get.

Similarly, lower peaks have been established for the relatively new A-26, the fast two engine Douglas attack bomber.

Reduce Output of Fighters

Actual cutbacks involve the "big three" of the AAF fighter class—the P-47 Thunderbolt, the P-51 Mustang, and the P-38 Lightning.

The Lightning, a two engine, twin tail versatile fighter, is scheduled to go out of production entirely by the end of the year.

Mustang output will be tapered off at the North American plant in Dallas, Tex., until next April, when it will be discontinued there, under the new schedule.

The AT-6, an advance trainer, is scheduled to go out of production at the Dallas plant by the end of the year, but North American has contracts for the C-82 cargo plane which call for rising production at Dallas.

Change United Drug Name to United-Rexall Drug

J. W. Dart, president of United Drug, Inc., yesterday announced that effective immediately United Drug company, a subsidiary, would be known as United-Rexall Drug company. Reason for the change is to make the company's trade mark "Rexall" a part of the corporate name to facilitate concentration of merchandising efforts around the trade mark.

72,000 DESERT COAL PITS; U.S. RULE IMPENDS

Ready for Seizure, Says Ickes

Washington, D. C., May 1 (AP)—New government mine seizures impended today as walkouts by 72,000 anthracite miners and thousands of bituminous workers cut into the war fuel supply for the second time this spring.

Interior Secretary Ickes said he was ready, as solid fuels administrator, to take over both bituminous and anthracite mines "as fast as they [the miners] go out."

Anthracite operations were reported completely suspended in Pennsylvania with 190,000 tons of production already lost, and contract negotiations in New York between operators and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers were deadlocked.

Hard Coal Miners Quit

The hard coal workers quit work upon expiration of their contract last midnight, disregarding a war labor board order to continue work under the old terms until a new agreement is reached.

Soft coal walkouts also were reported in western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, despite final government approval of a new bituminous contract giving the average miner a pay increase of 81 cents a day.

A UMW spokesman laid the bituminous mine walkouts to "government delay" in action on the soft coal wage increases. He said Davis' approval yesterday of the new bituminous contract came too late for notification of the miners before the midnight expiration of the extended old contract.

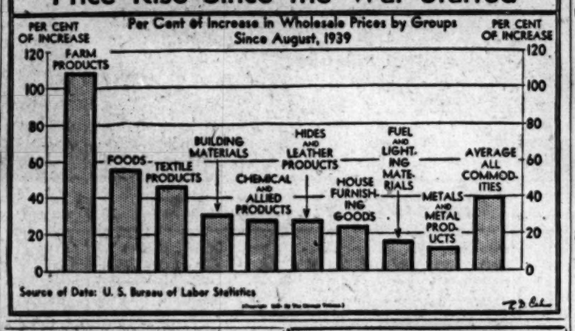
April Seizure Recalled

Ickes seized 235 bituminous mines on April 10, on the order of the late President Roosevelt, to assure continued production of coal for war vital steel. A few hours later, the union and operators agreed upon the new contract which was given final approval yesterday upon Economic Stabilizer Davis' sanction of the increases in coal prices announced today.

Ickes today reported to the President that almost all hard coal operations were suspended and that soft coal miners were going out. "The President told me that that was the worst news he has had this morning," Ickes reported.

Labor Secretary Perkins certified the hard coal case to the WLB yesterday as a labor dispute after operators rejected her proposals.

Price Rise Since the War Started



Match Firm's Earnings Rise Tho Sales Dip

Diamond Match company's net income in 1944 was $2,116,520, or $1..3 a share, compared with $2,100,106 or $1.71 a share in 1943, W. A. Fairburn, president, said yesterday. Net sales dipped to $39,352,953 from $40,237,162.

Matches accounted for 47.08 per cent of total sales in 1944 without any advance in price despite higher production costs, Fairburn said. In fact, all wood, strike-anywhere matches have been sold at prices less than those in effect during late 1941.

Total Sales Reduced

Total sales of matches receded slightly, but compared favorably with annual sales of earlier years. Because demand for matches is influenced by use of cigars and cigarets, sales were cut by their shortage.

Sales of kindred lines, chemicals, and miscellaneous items dipped to 20.65 per cent of total 1944 sales, against 21.39 per cent in 1943. The remainder of sales was of "outside-made" goods.

Belden Earnings Rise

Sales and earnings of Belden Manufacturing company increased substantially in the first 1945 quarter over the 1944 period, said Whipple Jacobs, president. Sales were $2,939,445 against $2,710,392 and net earnings $118,373, or 49 cents a share, compared with $91,206 or 37 cents a share, after provision of $16,410 for contingency reserve.

Orders and shipments are maintaining the first quarter average and potential demand for peace time products, as reflected by customer inquiries, appears to equal present war output, Jacobs said.

Standard (New Jersey) Declares 75 Cents Extra

Standard Oil company (N. J.) yesterday declared an extra dividend of 75 cents with the semi-annual disbursement of 50 cents per share.

CALLS ON EMPLOYES TO RECRUIT WORKERS FOR URGENT WAR JOB

Stevens H. Hammond, executive vice president of the Whiting corporation, Harvey, called on employes yesterday for help in recruiting additional workers to accelerate production on a large contract for a new mine exploding device.

Hammond told an employe rally that delivery was required in a few months, altho the order exceeded the company's normal production capacity for a whole year. He offered bonus incentives to employes who brought in new workers and special compensation for those who recruited foundry help, most urgently needed. An appeal also was made by Charles P. Casey, Illinois director of the war man power commission.

The 60 year old company, employing about 1,200 persons, has been turning out "mixers" for robot bombs, engine stands for B-29 bomber motors, rocket parts, and equipment for other war manufacturers. In peace time Whiting makes cranes and other heavy industrial products.

GRAHAM-PAIGE STOCK PROGRAM GETS APPROVAL

Graham-Paige Motors corporation stockholders yesterday approved changes in capitalization preparatory to early offering of 200,000 shares of a new issue of 5 per cent $25 par convertible preferred stock in a financing program to provide added working capital for reëntering the auto and farm equipment fields. A total of 300,000 shares of the new preferred was approved, and authorized common stock was increased from 5 to 6 million shares.

The Kansas City Southern Railway company was authorized by the interstate commerce commission to issue $7,700,000 of 2½ per cent promissory notes to help finance redemption on July 1 of 14 million dollars of 5 per cent refunding and improvement mortgage bonds as part of a plan to refund bonded debt.

STOCKS REACT ON WAR NEWS, LONG ADVANCE

Trim Some Losses Near Close

New York, May 1 (AP)—Stocks generally declined on profit taking in today's market. Altho many issues standing to gain from peace resisted the trend, leading rails, steels, aircrafts, and coppers were under pressure.

The approach of victory in Europe with possible economic unsettlement in a number of war-benefitted lines, together with the long rise of the averages to peaks since August, 1937, brought trimming of accounts. Belief was expressed that the collapse of the Nazis may touch off a substantial technical correction and Wall Street wished to be prepared for eventualities. Dividends, earnings, and post-war prosperity hopes persisted as aids for favorites.

Extreme Losses Reduced

Prices declined after the opening, recovered about noon, reacted again, and at the close extreme losses running to 2 or more points were reduced. Trade was slow at intervals on recoveries, but volume expanded in the final hour and transfers totaled 1,530,000 shares, compared with 1,500,000 yesterday.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite declined 0.4 to 64.8, first drop since last Thursday.

Heavy buying in the last quarter hour lifted Willys-Overland 2¼ to a new 1945 top.

BOND MARKET IRREGULAR

New York, May 1 (AP)—The bond market was irregular today with most activity concentrated in railroad issues. Turnover was $14,900,000 face value, compared with $17,300,000 yesterday, one of the busiest days of the year.

Baltimore and Ohio, Milwaukee road, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, and Missouri Pacific obligations declined fractions to more than 1 point as the Associated Press average of 20 rails slipped.

CHICAGO LIST LOWER

Prices declined yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in a turnover of 44,000 shares. Of the five volume leaders, Commonwealth Edison, Central and Southwest Utilities, Marshall Field, and Chicago corporation were unchanged in price. Admiral corporation closed at 14¾ for a half point loss. Borg-Warner corporation established a new 1945 high at 42¼ as did Butler Brothers at 17⅝ and Consumers company preferred at 40¾.

Recall Advice Offered U. S. on Sugar Crisis

Sugar industry spokesman and others foresaw months ago the acute sugar shortage admitted by federal officials Monday and offered production and pricing suggestions designed to prevent such a condition, a review of statements by industry representatives disclosed yesterday.

Announcement by the office of war information that civilian and commercial allotments of sugar would be cut substantially and that reserves were at "rock bottom" recalled warnings of Ody H. Lamborn, president of the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange and executive director of the Sugar Research Foundation. Warnings also were issued by the food industry war committee the department of commerce, and other groups and individuals.

Government Policy Hit

Lamborn predicted last September that rationing would be continued into 1946 unless steps were taken to increase production. He said below normal production in most areas had been aggravated by lack of an intelligent, coördinated government control program

"Sugar as a necessary agricultural crop should be put on an equal footing with others in that category," Lamborn said then. "Much needed sugar production can be stimulated only by making the production of sugar as attractive as other commodities."

He also recalled that Cuba could have provided this country with five million tons of sugar in 1943, but that only 3¼ million tons were raised that year because United States officials were willing only to buy that much.

Lamborn said beet sugar output in 1943 was 933,000 tons under government direction, compared with an average of 1⅓ million tons prior to the "government taking over control in every detail."

Too Few Ships Assigned

The food industry war committee warned last November that too few ships were assigned to bringing in raw sugar from offshore areas and that domestic production was too low. It recommended increased production and better allocation of stocks.

On Dec. 5 the department of commerce recognized signs of the dwindling supplies and blamed diversion of ships to other purposes and the small beet crop of 1943.

Shortage of Meat Causes Dip in National Tea Sales

Sales of National Tea company in the four weeks ended April 21 declined 7.06 per cent to $7,070,902 from $7,607,740 a year earlier. Total 1945 sales were $28,975,859, a dip of 3.1 per cent from the $29,874,368 a year ago. Robert V. Rasmussen, president, said meat shortages more than offset increased grocery sales.

WAR BUSINESS OF RADIO CORP. RUNS THRU 1945

Earnings Increase in First Quarter

Unfilled orders of Radio Corporation of America were approximately 180 million dollars on April 1, a decline of 120 million from a year earlier, Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, president, yesterday told the annual stockholders' meeting, but "demands for war products will fully utilize our manufacturing facilities" at least thru 1945.

David Sarnoff

Sarnoff said March quarter net earnings were $2,987,000, or 16 cents a share, compared with $2,401,734, or 12 cents a share, in the first quarter of 1944. Working capital approximated 60 million dollars on March 31 against 3 million dollars at its formation in 1919.

No Long Term Borrowing

"Having thus substantially increased our working capital," Sarnoff reported, "we do not think it will be necessary to raise additional capital thru long term borrowing for reconversion and expansion in the post-war period."

In reply to a demand by two stockholders that "something more" be done for common shareholders, Sarnoff said the company earned 51 cents a share in 1944, but paid no more than 20 cents in dividends because the balance was needed in working capital and for other purposes such as research.

He said 35 million dollars of short term debt and the problems of reconversion were obstacles to increasing common dividends. Bank loans under a V-loan credit were reduced 10 million dollars last year. Twenty million more was repaid Feb. 15. He said the remaining 35 million dollars will be paid in the near future.

Adapt Walkie-Talkie

Referring to a new branch of radio-telephone service known as "citizen's radio," Sarnoff said the federal communications commission had proposed allocation of a section of the radio spectrum for use by doctors, farmers, explorers, sportsmen, and others. This will enable these groups to adapt the war's walkie-talkies to peace time uses.

POWDERED MILK OUTPUT MOUNTS AGAIN DURING '44

Dairy Industry Expects Even Larger Sales

Production of whole milk powder increased again in 1944 and dairy authorities have become even more optimistic over its post-war sales possibilities. Four and a half ounces of the powder mixed into a quart of cold water dissolves instantly and becomes a quart of full strength milk.

The American Dry Milk institute reported yesterday that production last year was 172 million pounds and estimated that this year the output may reach 250 million.

Advantages Described

Among the many advantages of the powder described by dairy experts are its cheapness and keeping quality. A can of powder may remain safely on the pantry shelf for a year, they said, and after the war should enable housewives to obtain a quart of good milk for as little as 10 cents.

"If there is money left in Europe after the war, there should be a large volume of export of dry whole milk to be used for feeding the hungry nations," Roud McCann, director of the institute, said.

Farmers have been urged to buy up country plants and erect their own drying equipment by Arthur Lauterbach, manager of the Pure Milk association. He predicted that after the war the milk powder would supplant some of the present fluid milk business.

Little for Civilians

Other dairymen pointed out that such nations as China could use enormous quantities of the powder and have full strength milk without the necessity of attempting to establish large dairy herds. They also said the powder would be extremely popular among hunters and campers and summer resorters who have not been able to get fresh milk.

At least 85 per cent of the powder output has been going to the army and navy and lend-lease and little has been available to civilians, the institute reported. For this reason the public has had little opportunity to become acquainted with the product.

Dairymen predicted, however, that when supplies again are available for grocery shelves housewives will be quick to take advantage of the easy to handle powder. They estimated it would take up much of the present market for evaporated milk.

EASTERN BUYING STEADIES PRICES OF BEST STEERS

Broad eastern demand stimulated sufficient competition in the cattle market yesterday to halt the decline in steers that started Monday. Some grades sold a little higher. The top price was $17.75 a hundred pounds. Most sales were $15 to $17.25.

Eastern interests showed a marked preference for steers. Their neglect of butcher stock, coupled with the bearish attitude of local interests because of the relatively high price level of cows, resulted in another setback of 25 cents in beef cows, canners and cutters. Some of these sold 75 cents under last Wednesday's prices.

The lamb market came under pressure again and some kinds were bought as much as 25 cents lower. The best aged lambs sold at $16.40, the lowest since mid-February. A few 60 pound native spring lambs brought $17. Hogs held at ceilings.

SANTA FE RAILWAY

Please report on Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe railway earnings and outlook.—P. I.

In growth of earnings, Santa Fe railway has been one of the foremost beneficiaries of the war time increase in industrial activity and travel. The company's net income of $19.91 a common share in 1944, $21.11 in 1943, and $27.79 in 1942 compares with average earnings of only $1.06 a share in the five years 1935 thru 1939. The 1939 profit was equal to 95 cents a share.

The stock has risen from a 1940 low of 13 to a recent price above 98. Altho certainly not high in relation to war time earnings considered by themselves, the current quotation is much above the level considered warranted by the market in the immediate pre-war years on the basis of earnings at that time. The dividend rate from 1942 on has been $6 a year, and the yield of more than 6 per cent attracted many buyers.

Santa Fe's funded debt was reduced more than 90 million dollars, or 27 per cent, between 1940 and the close of 1944. Interest charges last year were $3,188,000 less than in 1940. Without allowance for federal taxes, this saving is equal to $1.31 a share on the 2,427,060 common shares.

As long as the Pacific war lasts, Santa Fe's traffic presumably will continue at high levels. After the return of peace and resumption of Panama canal coastwise competition, a decline in revenues is to be expected. Altho railway traffic may hold above the former peace time level for some time, it is by no means certain that the company's earnings will continue large enough over a long term to sustain the present price of the stock, highest since 1931.

People and Events

Col. Dan A. Hardt, commanding officer of the 6th transportation zone, has relinquished his command for an overseas assignment. He will be succeeded in Chicago by Col. J. Sewell Morris, former deputy chief of the traffic control division in the office of the chief of transportation, Washington, D. C. Col. Hardt was widely known in the Chicago area and was chairman of the production urgency information committee.

The Lake Shore National Bank tomorrow will observe its 25th anniversary. Its first home was in an old remodeled residence at Ohio st. and Michigan av.—in an area in which about 200 million dollars has been spent since 1920 on construction and improvement. Deposits have grown from slightly more than 1 million dollars at the end of 1920 to 37½ millions.

John E. Wright has been appointed western sales manager of the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, railway car division, with headquarters in Chicago. Fitzwilliam Sargent was appointed eastern sales manager. Samuel M. Felton has resigned as general sales manager after nine years with the company.

H. H. Faulstich, assistant credit manager of the First National Bank of Chicago, has assumed the presidency of the Chicago Association of Credit Men, succeeding C. L. Holman, assistant treasurer of Wilson Brothers.

PRICES OF GRAIN SLUMP LATE ON PROFIT CASHING

Grain prices broke in the late trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade after an early bulge had carried May rye up 2 cents a bushel to $1.37½, a 17 year high. Profit taking caused a reaction of 3¾ cents a bushel from the high and the contract closed near the bottom.

Net losses for rye were ½ to 1⅝, May leading. Wheat lost ¼ to ⅞, corn ¼ to ½, and barley ½ to ¾. Oats ended unchanged to ⅛ lower.

Early buying of rye was based on news that a large food company had liquidated its holdings Monday by tendering 1,985,000 bushels on May contracts, and expectations the government would come into the market for substantial quantities of rye flour. The government has asked tenders of 77,000 sacks of rye flour for shipment to Balkan countries.

ILLINOIS POWER DELAYS MEETING A SECOND TIME

Monticello, Ill., May 1 (AP)—The annual stockholders' meeting of the Illinois Power company was postponed a second time today—until June 1—to await a ruling by the securities and exchange commission on a protest petition regarding election of a board of directors.

The petition contended the election of three men designated to Illinois Power's board of directors by the North American Light and Power company, the parent company, would result in "restraint of free and independent competition between Central Illinois Public Service company and Illinois Power in many of their operations."

WAR PRODUCTION FOR RADIO CORP. RUNS THRU 1945

—some the size of a peanut—which will have "great influence on the size and design of radio equipment in the future," he predicted.

Stockholders approved a retirement plan under which benefits normally will begin at 65 and supplement social security payments.

James S. Adams, president of Standard Brands told stockholders it may be difficult in the remainder of 1945 to duplicate the favorable results of the first quarter,

Describes Difficulties Faced

"We are still faced with a trend of increasing costs," he asserted, "with fixed selling prices, with continued restrictions on certain of our raw materials—notably coffee, sugar, and vegetable oils for margarine—and on containers for finished products. These shortages are not likely to be alleviated for a good many months even after the end of the European war."

Operating results from the long term viewpoint, said Adams, will reflect consumers' purchasing power, rapidity of reconversion of durable goods industries, and future economic and fiscal policies of the government.

The company may expand its distribution of quick frozen fruits and vegetables from present institutional customers like hotels and hospitals to the grocery field.

Kennecott Operations Off

Kennecott Copper corporation's domestic production in the first quarter of 1945 averaged about 28,000 tons of copper a month, compared with about 40,000 tons a year earlier. The decline was a result of man power shortages, E. T. Stannard, president, told stockholders.

First quarter net income equaled 78 cents a share on capital stock after a contingency reserve of $750,000, against $1.02 a share a year earlier. Net income in the 1944 quarter included a nonrecurring profit of about 10 cents a share from sale of the Alaska Steamship company.

Wallace R. Campbell, president of Ford Motor Company of Canada, said at the annual meeting that passenger automobile production was not likely to be resumed this year. Major activity will be the manufacture of military transport vehicles, supplemented by increased output of civilian trucks and service parts.

CONGRESS HOTEL TO BE REOPENED ABOUT MID-JULY

The Congress hotel which is being modernized at a reported cost of 1 million dollars will be reopened about mid-July, Robert S. Levy said yesterday. He is principal stockholder in Congress Hotel and Annex, Inc., which bought the property last year from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for 1¼ million. Five hundred of the 947 rooms will be ready for occupancy on the opening day and the remainder will be opened when completed, he said.

The Glass Hat, pre-war night club at the Michigan-Congress corner, is to be reopened, as will other dining rooms, Levy said. The Horizon room may be used by Mike Fritzel for his Chez Paree which he will be forced to move in a few months because of the sale of the Ontario-Fairbanks building, but no lease has been signed.

Hitler's Death in Berlin Battle Told by Nazi Radio—Photos Tell Rise and Fall—Doenitz Succeeds Him

Adolf Hitler, German fuehrer, who the German radio yesterday said had died in the fighting for Berlin, as he once bowed low to President Hindenberg. Left: Goering.

[Acme Photo]

[Associated Press Wirephotos]

[Associated Press Wirephoto]

Hitler and Mussolini less than a year ago, after two narrow escapes—Mussolini had been freed by Nazis from Italian guards and Hitler had just survived bomb plot.

[Acme Photo]

The fuehrer (center, saluting) leaving car to enter Kroll Opera house in Berlin to explain to reichstag the infamous purge of some of his followers.

[Associated Press Wirephoto]

The reichschancellery in Berlin where the Hamburg radio reported Hitler met his death at his command post. The report implied he was slain in battle.
